TO DEDICATE CHURCH

DR. WILLIAM HARRIS GUYER OF FINDLAY COLLEGE WILL HAVE CHARGE OF THE SERVICE—THE NEW HOUSE OF WORSHIP OF CHURCH OF GOD IS ON CENTER STREET.

Attention is called to June 13th when the new and beautiful steeple of the Church of God, at Westminster, Md., will be dedicated. A very interesting program is being prepared for the occasion. The public is cordially invited to these services. There will be three sessions: Morning, 9:30 afternoon 2:00 and evening 7:30.

Dr. William Harris Guyer, president of Findlay College, Findlay, Ohio, will have full charge of the day's program. Mr. Guyer is a speaker of great reputation, his messages are full of power. Don't fail to hear him. The steeple will be dedicated after the evening service.

The Church of God at Westminster wishes to thank all who in any way in the past have been of assistance to the mission. The church in advance takes this privilege of giving expression as to its faith and confidence in the public, believing that on the 13th of June the day being announced for the dedication, the financial burden of $8000 yet to be provided for, by the kind assistance of the friends of the church, will be gloriously and victoriously carried over the top.

The Church of God at Westminster is here to stay and no need to fear to make a contribution. We have been organized for over eight years. In the past we were compelled to hold our church services in a hall, a place very undesirable to worship in. The God above is the only one who knows to what extent our faith has been tried during these years strenuous labor mixed with many disappointments. But we thank God, that instead of yielding in the hour of trial and discouragement we kept right on, not for one moment entertaining a thought of failure or defeat. Thus through God we have gloriously succeeded and have gained the victory. We are now worshipping God in his own temple.

As the pastor of the church, I have not as yet made any personal solicitation. My purpose in not doing so, was to first complete the building of the Bethel, then the public could judge as to whether the cause was worthy, also the church deserves now that the building is completed I leave this matter for the public to decide. We have tried to erect a house of worship that would do credit to the community. The Bethel is completed and open for the community's inspection. I will not speak for myself nor the small service that I was called upon to render during the months while the Bethel was being erected. Only this much I will say, there was no kind of manual labor that I felt myself too dignified to help do. During the work days of the week I was seldom seen with a ministerial garb, on I at least have tried to do one man's share. But speaking in behalf of the church, I can say with much pleasure, that no congregation could have been more loyal and true. As a church we acknowledge our past ineffectiveness, being much hindered by the obstacles of the past. We promise by the help of God to render more worthy service in the future.

The Church of God extends a hearty welcome to the stranger and none church goer. In the language of the one of our old, "Come thou with us and we will do thee good." Our daily aim and purpose as a church is to be of helpfulness to others. We trust as a congregation we have rendered some worthy service. We believe that some homes in the community of Westminster are happier, and some folks better citizens, since the Church of God has been organized in this community.

As a church, we solicit the prayers of all God's people everywhere. Pray that we may be worthy of Christ's final blessing at the end of life's short day. "Well done good and faithful servants." John H. Gosno, pastor.

Col. Weant on Conservation Board.

Colonel Edward O. Weant, this city has been appointed on the Conservation Commission by Governor Ritchie.

Mr. Weant is one of the leading lawyers of the Carroll county bar and has been the Democratic leader in the county for many years. He was elected State's Attorney and made one of the best officials the county ever had.

He will no doubt make an excellent official and no better selection could have been made by the Governor.

Mr. Weant's duties are to see that our state is kept supplied with game and fish and also see that the laws governing all game is strictly adhered to.

Conservation Commission will be: Harrison W. Vickers, Chestertown; Edward O. Weant, of Westminster; and Edward S. Plowden, of Bushwood, St. Mary's county.

Carroll county you can bet will receive here full recognition by Col. Weant in game and fish. The Col. has a full knowledge of tad poles as he lived at Betour where Pipe Creek flows through and has always abounded with an abundance of tad polls, tarbins, etc. but when it comes to real game we suppose he can ell a sparrow from a buzzard.

The tax rate for Washington county is $1.00.

First Issue On New Press.

Today is the first issue to be printed on our new press. Considering the complicated arrangement of the press and no knowledge of its workings by our force, we believe we have done remarkably in obtaining the results we have accomplished, although the paper will look better each week after our men become more familiar with its actions. Why we consider this fairly good is that all local mechanics assembled the machine. Mr. Frank A. Myers, this city, with the assistance of the Advocate force and a few other gentlemen who were believe were saw a press of its make or style before, mastered the work and put it in motion. We were informed when the press was loaded for shipment that we would need an expert from the factory to erect it as no local mechanics could erect it. It shows that by confidence and determination you will succeed some time.

Found Dead.

About midnight Thursday night it was reported to State's Attorney Brown that a man had been found dead man was Howard Toop, colored, Western Maryland railway. Mr. Brown, with Sheriff Doom, Police Judge M. E. Walsh, acting coroner, and Dr. Lewis K. Woodward, went to the distillery. It was ascertained that the dead man was Howard Toop, colored, about 35 years old. He had been employed as a laborer about the distillery for several days. The revenue gauger saw him fall near a truck track. Supposing him to be drunk, he had him moved to a grass plot in the rear of the buildings, about 11 o'clock at night. Watchman Kress went out to take a look at him and found him dead.

Toop's body was moved to funeral parlors of James M. Stoner, where it was prepared for burial. The funeral was held Saturday.

Patapsco 22; Statewood 7.

The Patapsco baseball club opened the 1920 season Saturday, May 29th, on the home grounds by defeating the strong Statewood team by a score of 22 to 7. Duncan, of the Maryland Swimmers, pitched for Statewood. The heavy hitting of Patapsco boys straightened out his twisters for 17 hits, including home runs and triples. Mummough must feel something like Babe Ruth, with three of those long base cleats chalked up to his credit. Well, it's good thing Johnny McGraw didn't see those hits or Patapsco would be looking for a new catcher. McMillan led in batting, getting four hits in 6 times up. Evans, for the home boys, pitched an excellent game, keeping Statewood's 7 hits well scattered. The score:

Patapsco..... 4 1 3 0 1 2 3 8 x—22
Statewood..... 0 1 0 3 1 1 1—7

Hits—Statewood 7; Patapsco 17.
Errors—Statewood 8 and Patapsco 7.

MEMORIAL EXERCISES

BURNS POST MAKES ITS LAST MARCH—MISS SHELLMAN PRESENTS GRAND ARMY PIN—SERVICES IN ARMORY—GRAVES DECORATED.

Memorial day, with all its sacred memories, was observed in Westminster on Sunday afternoon, May 30th, both at the cemetery and in the Armory with appropriate services.

The veterans of 1862, with the American Legion, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Boy Scouts Band and file and drum corps, met at the Armory and marched from there to the cemetery, the younger men forming a guard of honor for the few remaining comrades of Burns Post, and led by the file and drums corps, under the leadership of U. S. G. Brown, and the Boy Scouts Band heading the line, followed by a hundred and fifty children carrying flowers and flags, and marshaled by Miss Mary B. Shellman, assisted by Miss Blanche Baer, Mrs. Louis E. Manning and Mrs. Russell Haines and our two excellent policemen Messrs. William Helm and Baile, Masters Henry Kimmey, Francis Thomas and Charles Grott, in the uniforms of the Army and Navy were escorts to the children's brigade.

At the cemetery the services consisted of prayer by Rev. W. L. Scarborough; hymn, "Nearer My God to Thee" and the beautiful ritual of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, and the depositing of a wreath of white flowers to the memory of the dead.

During the strewing of flowers on the soldiers' graves the band played dirges at the grave of their late comrade, Frank Miller, late of the U. S. N., and a former member of the Boy Scouts.

Returning to the Armory, the Veterans, seven in number were given seats on the stage, directly back of a flower crowned chair, draped in black, over which was an American flag, and across the front, the words "Our Old Comrades." The program opened with singing, "My Country 'Tis of Thee," by the audience, led by a select choir, under the leadership of Mrs. H. M. Kimmey, prayer, Rev. Dr. Dame, recitor of Assumption Episcopal Church, reading the original poem, "We the Growing Old, My Comrades," by Miss Mary Bostwick Shellman; presentation of Grand Army pin and button to Miss Shellman by Commander, John H. Mitten, in behalf of the survivors of Burns Post, and presentation of the Post Flag to the American Legion and Veterans of Foreign Wars and disbanding of the Post. Response by Adjt. Eugene Walsh, in behalf of both organizations; crowning of vacant chair with flowers by Boy Scout, Billy Dittman and handing over in behalf of Burns Post the sacred trust of perpetuating memorial day to the two organizations and the Boy Scouts by Miss Shellman; hymn, "Peace, Perfect Peace" by the choir; rolling drum, U. S. G. Brown, and taps by Bugler Paul Wimer.

The second part of the program consisted of some appropriate remarks and a farewell to Burns Post by the presiding officer, Mr. H. P. Gorsuch; hymn, "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," by the audience; "Lincoln's address at Gettysburg," Mr. O. B. Langrall, of Baltimore, a student, at Western Maryland College, address, Guy W. Steele, Esq.; Kipling's, "Reynolds" by the choir, Mr. Albert Mitten, soloist; benediction by the Rev. Dr. Dame.

The day was beautiful, the Armory was filled with an attentive, sympathetic and interested crowd; people in automobiles lined each side of the street and a large number attended the services at the cemetery.

It was a pathetic sight to see the old veterans bravely marching escorted by those who have but recently returned from the battle fields and camps of the great world war, and led by the gallant young boy scouts, the past, the present and the future.

It was the last march for most of the old men. They are growing feeble, but Comrade Fosselt bravely carried his beloved old flag in line, as he knew, for the last time, and the other comrades of Burns Post also marched to and from the cemetery, with much of the old time spirit of endurance. As was said at the Armory, "The last chapter is written, the book is closed, and Burns Post is but a memory now." But we feel sure they will never be forgotten.

The sons of Blue and Gray, will stand together as they stood on the fields of battle and keep their memory ever green.

"To The Old Post."

We are growing old, my Comrades, together you and I.

For us the day is dying, the evening shades draw night.

And soon taps will be sounding, as the Sun sinks in the West

And you and I will answer, and lay us down to rest.

Many years have passed and vanished, since the days of '61

When the bugle call responded to the sound of Snappers' gun

And you rallied to a challenge, from hillside and from glen.

Just as you boys responded, when the Country called for men,

You too were only boys, when that stirring call was made

And we know how much you suffered in service, which were very good. The Boy Scout Band rendered its best selections.

MOONSHINE OUTFIT

RAIDED NEAR GRANITE

Benjamin F. Poole, farmer, and two Virginians arrested by dry agents.

Caught red-handed tending an illicit whisky still on the farm of Benjamin F. Poole, near Granite, two alleged moonshiners who came here several months ago from a county in South-west Virginia were arrested in a raid on the farm late Saturday afternoon.

Federal and State policemen seized the still, a number of jugs of whisky is declared to be first-rate moonshine whisky, a sample of the distillate and arrested Mr. Poole and the two alleged moonshiners.

Mr. Poole and the two Virginians were taken to Central Police Station, Baltimore, and locked up. They are held for action of the United States authorities. The alleged moonshiners, who took their arrest calmly and asked no questions, gave their names as James Jenkins, 41 years old, and Stewart Yowell, 32 years old.

The raid on the farm was made on a search warrant.

One automobile took the prisoners and their captives to the city and the still and other evidence found by the raiders were taken to the Custom House and locked in a vault.

The still, according to the revenue officers, was no still-raft affair. It is a genuine moonshine still, of 18 gallons capacity, and one which the maker knew how to construct. Two weeks ago revenue and prohibition agents received information that moonshine whisky was being sold at Elkoots City in pint and half-pint bottles. It took many days of investigation to locate the farm where the alleged still was located. Inquiry concerning Mr. Poole developed the information, according to Operative Hand, that the two men, Jenkins and Yowell, were presumably employed by the farmer. They had a shack in the woods, a good half mile from the nearest road.

Mr. Poole, it is said, had security rights on the farm, and when the prohibition agents arrived there he was in the woods superintending the sawing of lumber at his sawmill. The still was camouflaged by being sunk below the level and hillocks of earth were piled about it. When the Federal Agents arrived within a quarter mile of the place they saw the smoke and one of the men, a revenue officer of some years' experience, got to the foot of the hill and nose-detected the aroma of boiling mash.

Signals caused the Federal agents to close in and within a few minutes the objective was taken. There was no gunplay and no resistance was offered. Operative Hand went to the shack and he said he found a number of jugs packed in a jute sack ready to be sent for transportation.

Several hundred dollars were offered to pledge $100,000 bail for the release of Mr. Poole. Mr. Poole is 60 years old and resides at Gamber.

Benjamin F. Poole, James Jenkins and Stewart Yowell, who are accused of making whiskey for their own use have been released by giving security in the sum of $1000 each for their appearance before the United States District Court in Baltimore. The Government officers found the still in the possession of Stewart Yowell, who, after his arrest, advised the officers that he and James Jenkins made some whiskey for Mr. Poole. Jenkins and Yowell live in Baltimore county, near Marriottsville, and work for Mr. Poole on a saw mill. Each of them are married and have large families. Ivan L. Horne has been called by the attorneys in the case.

HITS BUS OWNERS.

$300 to $500 Added For Liability Insurance.

Maryland bus men will have to dig down in their bank accounts for the cash to pay liability insurance after June 1. What this all means is that it is bolted down is from $300 to $500 will be the added tax on every machine.

The Public Service Commission has issued permits to the bus lines to run until January 1. They have paid their passengers has been fixed by the Public Service Commission in conformity licenses. The fees or tariff charged with the conditions now existent. The new law will place a different face on the matter. Some bus men say they can't make a profit under it. They can't quit work without the Service Commission permits them. They can't make rates unless the Public Service Commission says so. The law will probably find its way into the courts.
