BURD QUICK SEATING PISTON RINGS

STEP JOINT

Not A Wise Thing to run your machine when it loses so much compression and burns a lot of oil. What you need is a set of Burd quick seating rings.

The BURD Quick-Seating Piston Ring is of the step-joint type, the outer surface—which comes in contact with the cylinder wall—having a channel .002 of an inch in depth in the center of the face, and raised edges which lap in quickly, seating perfectly with a hard, glass-like surface in harmony with the cylinder wall in about one-fifth of the time required to seat other types of piston rings. The channel in the center carries an oil film that prevents leakage during the process of seating and insures perfect lubrication.

It is obvious to any mechanic that when the BURD Quick-Seating Ring is installed in worn cylinders, the outer edges will lap in more quickly and conform more nearly to the contour of the cylinder wall than any other type of piston ring.

The BURD Quick-Seating Piston Ring promptly adjusts itself to the cylinder and perfect seating is obtained almost immediately. They are made in all sizes and over diameter sizes, for practically every make and model of motor.
