WANT IMPROVED ROAD

DELEGATION FROM UNION BRIDGE AND JOHNNSVILLE BEFORE FREDERICK COUNTY COMMISSIONERS—PROMISE TO IMPROVE ROAD TO UNION BRIDGE.

A delegation of residents from the vicinity of Johnsville and Union Bridge appeared before the Frederick County Commissioners Monday and strongly urged improvement of the roads in that section, principally the road which was formerly owned by the Liberty and Pipe Creek Turnpike Company, and which was bought by the county.

If nothing better can be secured, the delegation urged that the road be at least given a coat of tar after the stone had been rolled. It was pointed out that it is "false economy" to throw a lot of stones on the surface of the road only to be kicked into the side ditches.

The State, it was pointed out, is making improvements to the road from Ceresville to Liberty, but from the latter place to Johnsville nothing whatever has been promised. A promise has been made, however, that stone will be placed on the road from Johnsville to Union Bridge, but as the delegation Monday morning stated they would have had of some of these circumstances as they were if no improvements at all were made, unless the road is rolled and oiled.

Those in the delegation appearing here were: Reuben Saylor, president of the Farmers' Club; Miss Pauline Fuss, secretary of the Farmers' Club; Jesse W. Fuss, committeeman; Miss Marie Senseney, Union Bridge; Dr. John H. Messner and Dr. Frank Sidwell, both of Johnsville.

It was pointed out that a new State road is being built from Westminster to New Windsor and from the latter point the highway will be continued to Union Bridge.

The stretch of road in question, especially from Liberty to Johnsville, is said to be in horrible condition, much worse than the average county road, and it is known that whenever motorists can shun it they do so. The section of the county, which protested to the County Commissioners over the road in question has been neglected. It was stated, in the construction of modern highways.

Johnsville residents, it was pointed out, have to go to the postoffice at Union Bridge for their mail, and this road, too, is in bad condition.

REPUBLICAN WOMEN ORGANIZE

The Republican women held a mass meeting at the Opera House, Saturday night, Mrs. Scott Hoop, chairman of the women's section of the County Central Committee, called the meeting to order and introduced Mrs. Samuel K. Herr as the presiding officer.

The chief purpose of the meeting was the organization of the women of the county. Organization was effected by the selection of Mrs. George B. Knox, of Woolary's district, as chairman; Miss Amelia Annan, of Taneytown, vice-chairman; Mrs. Clarence Duwall, of Warfieldsburg, secretary; Mrs. Howard E. Koontz, of Westminster, treasurer; and Miss Mattie B. Shoemaker, of Woodbine, chairman of membership committee.

52 OUT OF 55 JERSEY COWS HAVE TUBERCULOSIS

A herd of 52 registered Jersey cattle driven through the streets of this place to the stockade of the Western Maryland Railway, for shipment to the abattoirs at Baltimore, to be destroyed was a depressing spectacle.

The cattle were the property of Robert Gist, who runs a dairy farm one mile from this city. All were registered cattle and had been condemned by United States Government agents because of tuberculosis. Mr. Gist was allowed $5,000 as damages, it is said. Only 19 were left on his farm.

WESTMINSTER 5—PATAPSCO 4.

In their first game with Patapasco this season Westminster came out on the long end of a 5 to 4 score after eleven innings of the scrappiest baseball ever seen on College Field. It was a real baseball game in every sense of the word, played cleanly, but with just enough contention on both sides to let the fans know that every man was playing to win. The game as a whole seemed to work gradually up to a climax, and every fan let out a mighty roar when Dickie Sentz's mighty blow to left field sent Freddie Jenkins scrambling across the platter in the eleventh with the winning run. The hit would have been good for a home run any day, but it was not needed, and Dickie didn't bother to run it out because, not being a tobacco fiend, he considered the one carton of Chesterfields gathered for his honor in the fifth was sufficient for the day's work. Patapasco started suspiciously by scoring one in the first after two were out on successive singles by McMillen, Flater and Booker. Westminster evened things by scoring one in the eighth on Flater's double to center, an infield out, and an infield hit by Caple; and another in the ninth when Dell singled to right and Jenkins allowed the ball to roll through him. Dell pulled up at third from where he scored on an infield out. The tenth inning would have made Sergeant York and Jack Dempsey look faint. Flater started the trouble by doubling to right. Booker hit one to the throw, allowing Booker to reach first in safety and putting Flater on third. Booker immediately stole second. Things looked anything but rosy with second and third occupied and none out. The strain was relieved somewhat when Roy Taylor took three swings and sat down. Right here it might be mentioned that Ned Duncan was pitching the best ball of his career, and putting into every throw all the power he possessed. Caple hit weakly toward first, and in the scramble which ensued no one covered first, and he reached third on a sack, while Flater held third, and the sacks were loaded with but one down. Abbott chopped to the left of Duncan, and Ned threw to Barnes forcing Flater at the plate. Evans then lined one directly at Sentz, and the agony was over. In Westminster's half of the tenth Barnes doubled to left and went to third on Sayers' single to the same territory, but Roy Taylor caught Barnes napping and the chances of scoring were ruined. The eleventh brought more thrills. Dell singled to right, but was called out for interference when he bumped into Hetrick while the shortstop was trying to field Carroll Taylor's hit. McMillen then skied to Sentz, and that very reliable fielder dropped the ball. Meanwhile, Taylor had rightly held first, and of course was easily thrown out at second. Flater received four wide ones. Booker then hit to Hetrick, who threw to Sayers, catching McMillen at third. Rain here halted hostilities for a few minutes, but the end came quickly when Freddie redeemed himself by smashing one to left, and scoring the winning run on Sentz's hit as described above.

Both Duncan and Evans pitched wonderful ball. Each pitcher allowed but one base on balls. Duncan struck out nine men; Evans, eight. Westminster made seventeen hits and stole three bases, and Patapasco made thirteen hits and stole one base.

Westminster will probably leave for a trip to Solomons Island either today or tomorrow, where they will play the Solomons Island team Saturday and another Eastern Shore team on Labor Day.

PRESIDENT WILSON TAKES UP LAW

Charles O. Clemson, Attorney of this place, received recently an announcement from former President Woodrow Wilson of the formation of a law partnership with Bainbridge Colby, the Secretary of State under the former President, the firm to be known as Wilson & Colby, with offices in Washington, D. C., and in New York City. The former President has not had a word to say about public affairs since his retirement from the office of President March 4th last. In the autumn of 1915 as President Mr. Wilson visited Westminster, stopping at the Westminster Hotel for a short while and there was greeted by Mr. Clemson, who introduced the Chief Executive to the people who happened to be at the hotel then. Mr. Clemson has long been a staunch friend and an ardent admirer of the former President.

The club has decided to purchase the land where the Club House now stands and it is ideally located, principally because of the site being within a short distance of five different streams so that bass fishing is practically assured while in camp.
