

WATERSVILLE

"Lord of the harvest, Thee we hail; Thine ancient promise, doth not fail. The varying seasons haste their round. With goodness, all our years are crowned."

The new Methodist church at Waterville is about completed and it is reported that it will soon have its opening service and dedication.

The protracted services which have been in progress at Mt. Olive have closed.

Christmas is daily drawing nearer and don't forget to attend the Christmas sale, to be held by the Guild of St. James' Protestant Episcopal church, Mt. Airy, for the benefit of the church next Saturday afternoon, December 3, at Mt. Airy.

Mr. A. B. Sellman and brother are busily engaged in their new sewing factory in Mt. Airy. Forty-two operators are employed. The work is making of clothes for men and a large amount is made daily.

Mr. Gurney Brashears has added to his market business a store for general produce in Mt. Airy.

Mrs. Ralph Sellman recently entertained the Guild of St. Paul's Popular Springs church of which she is a member. Her father, Mr. Clark Owings, of State College, Pa., visited her last week.

Cupid has been busy and wedding bells rung for Mr. William H. Lare and Miss Rena Burdett, last Wednesday evening. It is reported that there will be others who will follow their example in the near future.

On Sunday, November 20, Mr. John Lare had a surprise birthday dinner given him by his family. It being the 50th anniversary of his birth. Those who were present were Mr. and Mrs. John Lare, Mr. and Mrs. Grover Lare, and son Donald, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Fowler, and family, Mr. William H. Lare, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Estworthy, of Frederick; Mrs. Bertha Lare, Mrs. Margaret Main and family, and Miss Rena Burdett.

On Thanksgiving Day, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Emory and family entertained at their home, Oak Grove, the following dinner guests: Miss Estelle Waters and Mary Katherine Warfield, of Howard county; Messrs. Jack Adams, of Baltimore, and Wilbur Davis, Mt. Airy.

Miss Mary Katherine Warfield, of Howard county, and Mr. Jack Adams, of Baltimore, spent the Thanksgiving holidays with their cousins, Misses Katherine and Ruth Emory and Mr. Warfield Emory.

The Thanksgiving dance at Mt. Airy was largely attended and very much enjoyed.

We have been having lovely and prolonged fall weather which is in favor of those who have belated crops to gather.

The report of the huntsman's gun can be heard on all sides and poor "Bro Rabbit" is having a hard time. Game is reported as plentiful.

MOUNT TUSCARORA

Have been suffering with a nervous breakdown which was brought on by having the business men of this place after my scalp, and have not been locked up in my room as my analogical friend, the Buzzard's Glory correspondent would have you believe. With thanks to Dr. Wilke and the fortnight he ordered me to spend in Frizellburg, I am again able to sit up to my typewriter and bang out the most of the old adage, music hath charms, Bill Basler decided to try it out on his prize Chinacook cow and had "Pud" Seipp come to his farm one evening to render soft music on his saxophone.

But Bill did not reckon with his brother George, who on getting wise to his plans, milked her dry, while Bill and Pud were arranging the program. Bill took his seat and started to milk as Pud played the opening bars of "The Milkmaid's Song," but no milk. Pud switched off on "How Dry I Am," but still no milk. After about ten minutes of that Bill took his pail in one hand and stool in the other and started to keep time on the cows ribs as Pud hit up "There'll Be a Hot Time in the Old Town Tonight." Consequently Pud had his saxophone filled with straw and Bill has a battered bucket, a black eye, a cow for sale and a note from George saying he had gone to Kokomo on business and would be back next week.

It has leaked out that the Buzzard's Glory correspondent has been going around among all our unmarried men trying to start an "Old Maids' Aid Society." We wish them the best of luck.

Rooster Bill is making headway with his aeroplane at this writing and expects it to "go up" in about a week. Beware! hunters of the mythological buzzards that is said to haunt this part of the county, as she has powers that more than equal those of "Horne the Hunter," of ancient Windsor Castle fame, according to Marshall Richards, of Tuscaloosa City. Anyone desiring to learn more should ask Richards, as we haven't the heart to tell about it.

Our mayor is going to start a boxing school on the second floor of his butcher shop and has engaged as instructors, Hennie Haas, the Human Hot Dog, and Clark Shaffer, our local speed king. Elmer will also take a hand at instructing and says he can show his pupils something in the line of jabs and short arm work that is entirely new.

Cleve Neudecker, sportsman and big game hunter, has returned from his hunting trip in the Blue Ridge Mountains and says game is about as scarce there as home brew at a W. C. T. U. meeting. The first day he shot what he thought was the first antelope to be seen in that part of the country for many a day, but luck, he says, was never with him, for after carrying it three miles he was informed it was a goat.

Indigestion

Many persons, otherwise vigorous and healthy, are bothered occasionally with indigestion. The effects of a disordered stomach on the system are dangerous, and prompt treatment of indigestion is important. "The only medicine I have needed has been something to aid digestion and clean the liver," writes Mr. Fred Ashby, a McKinney, Texas, farmer. "My medicine is for indigestion and stomach trouble of any kind. I have never found anything that touches the spot, like Black-Draught. I take it in broken doses after meals. For a long time I tried pills, which griped and didn't give the good results. Black-Draught liver medicine is easy to take, easy to keep, inexpensive."
