NEW YORK ELECTION FOUGHT ON "DRY" ACT

Ithaca, N. Y., March 28.—The first real test of how popular the Volstead act is with the New York State voter will come in the Thirty-seventh Congressional district, of which this city is a part, at the special election for Representative to Congress on April 11. The issue has been squarely joined.

Ex-Judge Frank Irvine, former Public Service Commissioner and Democratic candidate, says the Volstead act is "lawless" and not even "respectable." Lewis Henry, Republican candidate, takes the opposite view.
