Jones, of Baltimore, called on Friday evening and all enjoyed music and songs on the piano and mouth harp.
On Sunday afternoon last while Dan Bowersox, of Harner, was driving from Emmitsburg to Taneytown, accompanied by his wife and children, in turning to the side of the road, to get out of the way of a car coming in the rear, he swung the car suddenly, when it upset, and all the occupants were thrown on the concrete roadway. As a result, the bones of his right arm were broken at the wrist. Mrs. Bowersox, daughter, Geraldine, and son, Junior, were bruised considerably, but their injuries are not serious.
The shock of his father's death seems to be responsible for a cure for color blindness in the case of E. Ford Barner, of Williamsport, Pa. Eighteen months ago he lost the power to distinguish colors as the result of injury in an automobile accident. While at his father's funeral last week he suddenly learned over to his mother and said that he had something wonderful to tell her. After the funeral he proved that his color blindness had disappeared by naming the color of flowers in the garden.

He Saw Them.
A politician, eager for the office, decided to see the Quaker families in a certain neighborhood. Rapping at a door where a Quaker family lived, the lady of the house admitted him.
"Have a seat and my husband will see thee," she said.
After waiting awhile, the man said, "I thought you said your husband would see me."
"He has seen thee," responded the Quaker lady, "but he did not like thy looks, so he went another way."
CARD OF THANKS.
I wish to thank my friends and neighbors for their kindness during the illness and death of my mother.

IN MEMORIAM.
In loving remembrance of my father, Geo. A. Hoefel, who departed this life two years ago September 2, 1920.
Two years have gone Dear Father, And I miss you more and more, But some day perhaps I'll meet you On that bright and happy shore.
Two sad years with all its changes Since death laid us apart, But dear Father all the changes Cannot take you from my heart.
Death has robbed me of my Father, Of the one I loved so well, Taken from this world of pain and sorrow, Safely home with Him to dwell.
By his daughter, Sarah E. Shaffer.
