DEMOCRATIC TICKET

For United States Senator WILLIAM CABELL BRUCE, Baltimore City

For Congress MILLARD E. TYDINGS, Harford County.

Election Day 1922.

Before another issue of this paper Election day of 1922 will have come and passed. The vast majority of American population, men and women in all parts of the land, East and West, North and South, will have voted and registered their decision in great and vital national questions, and marked out the course of the National Government for years to come. Such a spectacle, in its outward external aspects, carries with it the deepest impressiveness; but when interpreted and weighed in the consequences of safety and well-being to millions of human beings, it takes on a solemnity nothing short of that.

By this election, an entire new House of Representatives is to be constituted and charged with power, in addition to filling numerous vacancies in the Senate due to expiration of terms. Practically a new law-making body will be created and set up at Washington to deal with the perplexing problems now disturbing us and the whole world.

It is a common and usual thing for newspapers of the Country in their editorials at each recurring election to speak of the importance of the particular election in question; and urge the electorate to activity—especially those groups in harmony with the particular tenets of the editorial writer. This, however, is not so marked in recent years as in the past when party advocacy was insistent, uncompromising and bitter; because in both of the great Parties of today radical groups have appeared harping on revolutionary experiments and policies.

In addition to these disturbing signs now appearing in our own midst, we are steadily stunned by the effect of the World War on Europe. Near and far East Thrones have fallen, kings become fugitives, governments uprooted and paralyzed and people by the millions brought to starvation and death. The War Armistice was declared as long ago as 1918, yet little or no abatement of the terrible wreckage and agony, in that part of the world, is to be seen to this very hour. Europe, with outstretched hands and begging voice, cries to America daily to come and help. Shall we go or refuse? This new Congress to be elected on the 7th of November will have, most likely, a part in the momentous decision.

Hence, all of us can readily see the unusualness and importance of the coming Election, and the responsibility entailed upon each of us. We must beat down Radicalism to the ground, in this Country, or suffer the curse of it as made visible and apparent in Europe. The Advocate congratulates the voters of Carroll County on the two splendid men put forward by the Democratic party this year for their suffrage.—William Cabell Bruce standing for the U. S. Senate and Millard E. Tydings running for the Lower House. Mr. Bruce is matured in years, thought and learning. He is temperate in movement and speech, versed in statesmanship and deliberate in judgment. Maryland could not have offered a higher type of man in respect to honor, ability, courage and learning for the position of Senator than Mr. Bruce, and all signs point to his triumphant election.

Mr. Tydings is a young man of great promise and ability with large experience for his age in the Maryland Senate and in the Maryland House of Delegates. He is independent and courageous in thought and action—attributes already made manifest. At the first call of his country he leaped to its colors, crossed the Ocean and made for the battlefield where he won honors for himself and gave credit and renown to the American Arms. He is worthy of the support of any constituency, anywhere in the County; and it is the Advocate's desire that he receive it here, and vigorously.

BALTIMORE LETTER

Baltimore, October 2nd, 1922. The last week of the campaign is drawing to a close, and the politicians who are bearing the burden of the campaign work, are showing more activity than they have at any time since the primaries settled the nomination, on September 11th. While the apathy which has been evident in both parties for months past is still apparent, the voters who are registered are beginning to attend meetings, and are taking politics to a somewhat greater extent than they have since the present campaign started, even before the primary election. But the unusual lack of popular interest is still manifest, and the politicians on both sides anticipate more than a little difficulty in persuading the voters to cast their ballots next Tuesday. Both parties are handicapped by a serious lack of funds, and at both headquarters the officials in charge seem to be at sea because of the unsuccessful efforts to raise the necessary money to pay the bills already contracted, and to be contracted before the wind-up next week. The absolutely necessary, legitimate, expense of a state wide campaign amounts to a considerable sum. Room-rent, clerk hire, publicity, meetings, travelling expense of speakers, not to mention other necessary outlays, amount to a small fortune, and the employment of runners and automobiles on election day to get the voters to the polls, adds greatly to the cost and these expenses are absolutely necessary, for there are literally thousands of registered voters in both parties who expect to be hauled to the registration offices to be registered, and who will not go to the polling places on election day unless they are called for and taken there to vote, and taken back home after their ballots are cast.

The chief reason for the short registration in both City and State this year, was because of lack of funds in both parties, to pay for runners and automobiles to look up the men and women entitled to be registered, and take them to the registration offices. Tens of thousands of men and women were left unregistered simply because they were not hauled up and hauled out to do their duty, and it is a notorious and singular fact, that the women are more insistent in this regard than the men, and will not take the trouble to register unless solicited to do so, and invited to ride in an automobile, even when the polling place is only a block or two away from their own doors. In one instance a woman sat all day in her parlor waiting to be hauled to the registration office, which was around the corner, and was very indignant because no one called for her, and when told that it was not thought necessary because of her nearness to the booth she replied that plenty of other women were taken there in autos and she would not walk, when others who were no better than she, were considered important enough to be taken in an auto. It is all well enough for the newspapers and professional agitators and reformers to preach from day to day, that it is the duty of all to register, but very few, in proportion to the whole number, will do so, unless urged by people who have a personal interest in the campaign, or unless there is some overwhelming issue, which rouses the public to such an extent, that everybody is ready to go out, and prepare to take part in the fight.

The outlook however is decidedly favorable to a great victory for the Democrats, notwithstanding the apparent anomaly—which is really greater among the Republicans than among the Democrats. All the usual signs point to the election of the Democratic candidate for the Senate, and at least four and possible five members of the House of Representatives and if the Democrats are not victorious, it will be their own fault, or the fault of certain leaders, who are often mercenaries rather than real party leaders—but there is no indication now of any defection in the ranks here in Baltimore.

PAUL WINCHESTER.

SOLD AGAIN! Other Republican spellbinders will doubtless be amazed at Senator Joseph Irwin France's denial that the Fordney-McCumber bill sets up a tariff wall and that a sixty per cent duty is no protection at all. Groceries! Has all the potter and shouting and increased prices to the unfortunate American consumer been for nothing? Worse horror still—has Congress failed even to furnish that marvel-working "protection" which has been the sacred shibboleth of the G. O. P. for so many years? After all the "constructive" achievements of which Mr. Harding speaks so highly, must it be admitted that Congress has left the clock industry naked to its German enemies, as Senator France demonstrates?

A fine clock can be made in Germany, he says, for $12. The duty is 60 per cent, or $7.20, making the cost $19.20. With even a 50 per cent profit it could be sold for $29, while Senator France says the same clock cannot be manufactured for less than $60. Alas, alas, must, therefore, all our clockmakers be driven out of business just because Senator France and his colleagues failed to protect American industries?

We are glad, however, that the Senator has taken our advice and talked about the tariff. He is now only five days behind our suggested schedule.

The next subject on which the Senator will speak, we hope, is "How I made the Republican party wet."—From Baltimore Evening Sun.

BRUCE ELECTION SEEMS ASSURED

ENTHUSIASM FOR CANDIDATE ON TRIP—FRANCE WORKERS ARE DISCOURAGED.

With the campaign of William Cabell Bruce, Democratic nominee for the United States Senate, practically at a close, a sum-up of the situation would indicate his election by a sweeping majority if the voters carry out their promise to go to the polls on Tuesday, November 7, and vote to "restore Maryland's prestige in the Senate." One of the strongest auxiliaries for Democratic success is the discouragement apparent on every side among the workers for Joseph I. France, Republican, the present incumbent.

The tour of the State of Mr. Bruce and the similar trip of Senator France have been in sharp contrast. Mr. Bruce has been received on every hand by gatherings of the most representative citizens of the communities he visited, and the promises of support have been so spontaneous that there can be no doubt that, not only will the Democratic registered vote come out in force for him on election day, but that a record vote of Independent and Republican men and women will be cast for Mr. Bruce. Probably nowhere were conditions more strongly presented than on the Eastern Shore. There Mr. Bruce received splendid receptions at every stopping point, and the France party on the other hand were constantly disappointed because local leaders of their party failed to greet Mr. France, or were announced as openly antagonistic. On only two occasions did conditions warrant Mr. France attempting to make an address. In fact similar conditions exist all over the State, and at no time in the history of Maryland has the nominee of a party been given such a cold shoulder by the leaders of his own party as has Senator France in his present campaign.

One of the most striking facts of the campaign has been that Mr. Bruce, no matter what section of the State in which he stood at the time, has been entirely consistent with his past record of constructive accomplishments, with the declarations of his party platform, and with his own "creed" as laid down in his address of acceptance. Mr. Bruce is a high standard candidate who is not afraid to announce his convictions in any part of Maryland.

In sharp contrast is the course of Senator France. In one section of the state he blows one way, and in another section of the state he blows another. While true of practically all his policies, there could be no better illustration than his various stands on Bolshevism, and those theories of red Socialism which threaten the very foundations of the Republic. Only a few weeks ago an extremely radical foreign element was shouting the praises of Senator France, who had mounted the platform, along with other speakers of the most virulent Socialistic type. Some of these men advocated the most extreme theories, and yet Senator France saluted the gathering as "you splendid young liberals." Last week Senator France was busy in parts of Maryland, where true Americanism runs practically one hundred per cent, explaining that he was not friendly to Bolshevism, and that his course both in and out of the Senate, which led to his being called the "unofficial ambassador of Russia," was only a move to bring about a resumption of trade relations. Senator France now stands exposed by his own words as the true friend of neither side of thought, and his actions will undoubtedly receive a sweeping repudiation on election day.

Another remarkable condition of the present campaign is the practically unanimous view of the press of Maryland, and it may be said of the press of the nation, that Senator France is not fit to longer hold the post of United States Senator. He has been denounced on every side as an obstructionist, as a blatant demagogue, as a man who has cost his state dear in both reputation and in federal appropriations, and whose advocacy of Bolshevism thought on the floor of the United States Senate has given encouragement to that group of extreme foreign radicals who live upon our shores, but who have never assimilated American ideals, and who are constantly plotting against the government.

Reports from every section of Maryland would indicate that the voters are thoroughly aroused to the true issues of the campaign and that the better thought of the community will urge an outpouring at the polls on election day that will forever still the cry that a man of Senator France's caliber is "good enough for Maryland."

FOR A DEMOCRATIC HOUSE.

Democrats should not be misled by statements, however sincerely made, appearing in print from time to time, and sometimes heard in conversation, that the Democratic party would be in a better position for the 1924 campaign if it did not win the House, this year. It has been frequently pointed out on the other hand, that each time the Democratic party has elected a President of the United States it carried the House of Representatives in the mid-election preceding, with the sole exception that in 1886

Her Food Would Act Like Poison

Baltimore Woman Couldn't Even Drink a Cup of Tea Without Suffering.

"My digestion was so bad before I took Taniae that food seemed like poison to my system. In fact, there was nothing I could eat without suffering afterwards. I could not even drink a cup of tea without bad results," declared Mrs. Katie Kessler, 1731 North Patterson Park Ave., Baltimore. "I was troubled with gas on my stomach, heartburn, bloating, frequent dizziness and was dreadfully nervous. I also suffered agony from nervous, I could not sleep until almost day. The pains in my back were hard to bear and my arms were so stiff and sore with rheumatism that I could scarcely use them. "Taniae certainly had a good chance in my case to show what it can do, but it didn't take long for it to make me feel like a new woman. I have just finished my second bottle now and my appetite is simply ravenous, and I eat and sleep fine and feel as well as if I had never had a trouble in the world. After all Taniae had done for me I could not help recommending it." Taniae is sold by all good druggists.

It carried the House and failed to elect Mr. Cleveland in 1888, although in that Presidential election Mr. Cleveland received a plurality of the popular vote. So to all intents and purposes the precedent established has held good.

Not only the Democratic party but the entire nation would be benefited by the election of a Democratic Congress this fall. In the first place it would put a stop to excessive appropriations and oppressive taxation. It would act as a check to all the reactionary Republican plans of plundering the Treasury in behalf of other special interests. It would give the Democrats the opportunity to formulate progressive and constructive legislation, for which they would receive full credit in any event, and to hold the administration responsible in the case of a veto. It would act as a restraint upon reckless departments; it would put a stop to secret deals like the Teapot Dome Naval Oil leases and like midnight raids upon the civil service as in the case of the Bureau of Engraving and Printing scandal.

The election of a Democratic House would hearten the Democratic party in every section of the country. It would insure the selection of able men from every section of the country as chairmen of the House committees, and in many other ways prepare the way for the election of a Democratic President in 1924.

BRUCE TO WIN.

The Baltimore News, Republican, comes out in a lengthy article and says that William Cabell Bruce, Democratic candidate for U. S. Senator will defeat Senator France, Republican, by 10,000 on Tuesday, November 7.

The University of Virginia foot ball squad hummed Johns Hopkins at Homewood last Saturday by the score of 19 to 0. In the line up was one of our home boys, "Benny" Arnold, who was one of the stars in the game.

Lame Every Morning

A Bad Back is Generally Worse in the Morning. Westminster People are Finding Relief.

A back that aches all day and causes discomfort at night is usually worse in the morning. Makes you feel as if you hadn't slept at all. You can't get rid of kidney back-ache, until you reach the cause—the kidneys. Doan's Kidney Pills are especially prepared for weakened or disordered kidneys—have been gratefully recommended by thousands.

Testimony of Westminster people proves the merit of Doan's. Mrs. Lewis Berman, 131 Pennsylvania Ave., Westminster, says: "I had a severe attack of kidney trouble and my back pained as if it were pierced by a sharp instrument. The pains bothered me most before retiring at night and also in the morning. At times I couldn't get up to do my work and my kidneys didn't act right. My eyes were so bad I had to wear glasses. The doctor didn't do me any good and when a friend advised me to try Doan's Kidney Pills I procured a box which gave me great relief. Doan's Kidney Pills are a wonderful kidney medicine."

SEVERAL YEARS LATER Mrs. Berman said: "Doan's Kidney Pills never fail to help me whenever I have any sign of kidney trouble. I gladly confirm all I said in my former statement." Price 60c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Berman had. Foster-Milburn Co., Co., Mfrs., Buffalo, N. Y.

HUNDREDS HEAR UNIQUE CONCERT

THEATRE CROWDED FOR ENTERTAINMENT STAGED BY NACE'S MUSIC STORES.

Seven hundred persons packed the Lincoln Way Theatre, Hanover, Pa., Wednesday evening to hear the joint recital of Miss Helen Davis, mezzo-soprano, and Victor Young, composer-pianist, presented under the auspices of Nace's Music Store in connection with a demonstration of the re-creation of tone by the Edison Phonograph Company.

Half an hour before the concert began every seat was occupied and two hundred persons, who came through the back door, stood in the rear of the house throughout the entertainment. The audience left no doubt in the minds of Miss Davis and Mr. Young that their efforts were appreciated for on several numbers they were encored four times.

While the concert was a plain, unvarnished advertisement for the Edison Phonograph, it will rank among the best given here and those who heard it are in favor of the inventor continuing such publicity. Both Miss Davis and Mr. Young presented numbers with the Edison re-creations of their work and the audience marvelled at the unique demonstration and the similarity of tone.

Miss Davis in one number sang a second soprano with her own recorded soprano solo, thereby singing a duet with herself. It was one of the most pleasing numbers on the program.

Following the re-creation demonstration, Miss Davis and Mr. Young, in private life are Mr. and Mrs. Victor Young, sang and played several selected numbers.
