It was a representative gathering of the farmers of our community, with a fair sprinkling of ladies, that was addressed by E. C. Rensberg, campaign manager, Frederick county, at the Charles Carroll school building, in the evening of the 5th, his subject being the farm bureau movement and the advantages to be gained by those who unite themselves with that organization. Mr. Rensberg is now expecting an organization of the bureau in Carroll County, with a unit in every district. On Saturday, December 16, Myers District will be canvassed for the solicitation of members. The following named gentlemen volunteered the use of their automobiles to make the drive: Rev. John S. Adam, Thos. W. Kemp, Claude Lawyer, Calvin H. Harman, Milton Bowman, John W. B. Flickinger and Leonard Bankert. A solicitor not a resident of the district will accompany each car.

At the state poultry show held at Baltimore, last week, prizes were awarded to our local poultrymen as follows: William E. Frock, Columbian Wyandottes, 1st and 3rd hen; 1st cockerel, 1st old pen, 2nd cock bird, 2nd young pen; Rev. John S. Adam, White Plymouth Rocks, 1st cockerel, in a class of 17, 4th hen in a class of 10; Dr. G. L. Wetzel, Mille Fleur Bantams, 2nd and 3rd cockerels.

It was with pride and pleasure that we read of the conferring for gallantry of the Congressional Medal of Honor upon private Sterling Morelock who is a descendent of one of the old families of Myers district, and many of his relatives now reside in this vicinity. His father, Addison S. Morelock, was formerly a teacher in our public schools.

Harry N. Grott went to Baltimore, to receive a second treatment from a specialist for an ulcerated left eye.

MABEL GARRISON STARTLED

GERMAN OPERA CONDUCTORS
Miss Mabel Garrison, American singer, is returning to New York after a successful season in Germany, where she caused a revolution in music circles which has left the leading conductor still gasping. Miss Garrison began her iconoclastic battle in Frankfurt, where she was engaged to sing the leading role in the "Barber of Seville."

Miss Garrison has a soprano voice, while the music is written for contralto. The singer refused to attempt the music, declaring that it must be transposed to fit her voice. Agitated, the conductor explained that the music was written twenty-five years ago and could not be touched, but in the end the American prima donna had her way, and then she proceeded to shock the conductor again by forcing him to change the tempo. She carried her revolution also to other operas produced in Berlin where artists are being forced to accommodate their voices to the parts for the sake of the original scores.

Miss Garrison declares that German conductors are more careless than American conductors and give little attention to rehearsals, sometimes not requiring a single number to be repeated. She says she found the operative stage in Germany in a serious condition with many leading artists fulfilling old contracts for an equivalent of seventy-five cents a performance, while according to the modern scale stars are receiving the equivalent of $2 a night.

An English Grapevine.

There is a grapevine in England which was planted in 1763 by a Mr. Brown, one of the best known of old-fashioned landscape gardeners. This vine is considered today one of the finest in the world. It occupies an entire greenhouse, eighty by twenty feet in size, and two hundred bunches of the grapes are sent each year to the King of England. The grape is of the black Hamburg variety. Twelve bunches recently exhibited weighed forty-two pounds, two of the bunches weighing nearly four pounds each.

A Stirring Sea Voyage.

A woman, with her two months-old babe, with other members of a stranded ship, were rescued by a motor-boat. A pound of meat had to serve for twelve men. Birds and fish were eaten, and had it not been for the motor-boat crew happening to see them they would have died a horrible death. The mother gave out this statement: "No more sea for me. I've followed the sea for 15 years and I've been all over the world, but this was the worst trip I ever had. It was just the Lord's will that my children did not become ill from the terrible provisions."
