STATE INEBRIATE HOME A CERTAINTY

Commissioners Named by Governor Take Hold of the Project Earnestly
The first practical steps to provide Pennsylvania with a State institution for the care and treatment of its victims of drink and drugs were taken yesterday afternoon in Governor Pennington's office, when the new commission organized by electing Lewis S. Sadler, of Carlisle, as chairman and Francis Jordan Hall, of this city, as secretary and treasurer. The other members are Judge James C. Work, of Pottsville; Senator David Hunter, Jr., of Harrisburg; A. L. Reichenbaugh, of Altoona; and Dr. W. L. Hunter, Erie. For the work of the commission an appropriation of $20,000 was allowed. Senator Hunter, author of the bill, is a member of the commission and discussed the ideas which brought about its presentation. The commission will work out a comprehensive plan of conducting such an institution, probably visiting similar institutions in other States, and will then select a site and make its building program, asking the Legislature for appropriations. Members of the commission to erect a State industrial home for women and girls talked over the project with the Governor to-day and will organize in Philadelphia shortly. The commission to construct a cottage colony for feeble-minded women on a State forest reserve and the commission to study State laws for care of dependents and prepare drafts of needed changes and improvements of the system will meet later in the month.
