VOLLMER SLATED FOR REVENUE JOB

Democratic Bosses Have Put Rubber Stamp on His Name

Greatly to the surprise of Democrats of Dauphin county who have been fighting under the reorganization banner for the overthrow of slates and bosses, the statement was made last night by one of the most important cogs in the Democratic machine that the revenue service appointments in this vicinity were slated to go to Harry Vollmer and John Hoffman. Most everyone hereabouts has been of the opinion, especially because of vehement editorials, that slates were a thing of the past in Democratic affairs in this section. It is true that his belief received somewhat of a jolt when the county poor board was organized on the slate plan, but no one supposed for an instant that such a thing as a slate could exist in the appointment of people in the revenue service. Yet the melancholy truth must be told. There is a slate. Men who want jobs have been told that here is a slate, and that means all of the rest must accept the aforesaid slate. The slate is slated to have been approved by the division boss of the Democratic State machine and that is supposed to end it. Mr. Vollmer is a prominent faction leader in the reorganization crowd and was a candidate for coroner last Fall, being well beaten, although advocated by all the reorganization men and organized from town to town. The same organization gang pulled through its candidate for poor director. He has never held public office, although he made the deputy, or stand, or clerk, or this city and no others need apply. Mr. Hoffman will be named to keep the Democrats of the county district quiet because many of them want jobs and are sore because so many places are in the civil-service.

AUDIT PROBLEMS BEFORE THE COURT

Question of Whether Auditors or Controller Shall Act, to Be Decided

Dauphin county's audit problem involving the question of the right of County Controller H. W. Gough to hold office was one of the principal matters listed for a thorough threshing out in January Argument court to-day. When Mr. Gough assumed office immediately after the first of the year the problem of auditing the books and accounts for 1913 was presented; Mr. Gough, frequently admitted his willingness to do or not to do the work. He is willing to take whatever steps, in other words, that may be required of him. County Auditors John W. Cassel and Francis Reigle contended that they should audit and demanded the books. The question raised is based upon the constitutionality of the acts regarding the board of auditors. The County Commissioners and County Treasurer Bailey represented by Major F. M. Ott, county solicitor, contended that the act of 1913 which established the office of controller wipes out the office of auditor. The auditors maintain that by the act of 1834 creating the board, they should be permitted to serve out the remainder of their term, but at least must be privileged, to audit the books of 1913. Mr. Gough, they argue, didn't take office until the beginning of 1914 and has had no chance to pass upon the bills in 1913 which he would be required to "O. K." President Judge Kunkel will decide the case.

Kelley, to recover possession of their four-year-old child, was continued until to-morrow. Mrs. Kelley admitted typing them but declared that she had never composed them, but that her husband had brought them home.

Patterson, auditor in the estate of George E. Klugh, was confirmed. The auditor reported $8,800 for distribution. Forty-two accounts filed with the Register of Wills were confirmed.

Personal Tax Notices Out.—The last of the 15,000 personal school or occupation tax notices have been sent out by the City Treasurer's office. The notices were later in getting out this year because of some delay in receiving the books from the School Board. The school real estate tax notices, which are due March 1, will be sent out in a day or two.

Six-Year-Old Traveler Home at Last.—Six-year-old Ruth Keefeffer, of Hershey, died in the Polk Institute for Feeble-Minded and her body was brought back to-day to Hershey for burial.
