When You Smell the Good Food Cooking And It Makes You Sick It Is a Sure Sign That You Need Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets

It is time to pay attention to your stomach when the sight or the smell of food makes you sick, for were this not the fact the stomach would not cause such disgust upon the part of the sense of smell and taste when meal time comes around. All the world has to eat. You men who walk to your meals like you do to a drug store for medicine, should at once realize that there is a relief for you. This relief is Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

The Dyspeptic: "How can a man live in a small like that?"

Taste, sight and smell all have an influence upon digestion. If one eats something that does not taste good one retards the work of digestion because the juices necessary to digest the things eaten will not flow in correct proportion.

On the other hand, good food will always excite the taste through actual contact with the food in the mouth or through the sight or sense of smell, unless the stomach knows that it cannot digest it.

We thus readily learn that the simple act of giving nature the digestive fluids she needs, will bring back all the joys of good eating, and tasting, smelling and seeing dainty dishes will excite a rousing appetite.

Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets are composed of natural ingredients that a worn out digestion simply welcomes with a wild delight. They enrich the stomach juices quickly so that if you want to eat an out-of-the-ordinary after-the-theater sort of a dinner, just carry a Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablet in your pocket, take it after the meal and you will digest that meal.

Your druggist will supply you with a box no matter where you live. Price 50 cents.—Advertisement.

"BREWSTER'S MILLIONS"

To spend a million in a year is the task of "Brewster's Millions," and the many ways in which he tries to do so will be shown when "Brewster's Millions" comes to the Majestic Theatre to-day, matinee and night, for the first time at popular prices. A new production has been especially prepared for this season's tour, the scenic equipment will be elaborate and complete, the same as that shown during its long run in New York and Chicago. The company in support of Louis Nilsen is practically the same splendid organization that assisted in winning success and fame for the McCutcheon play during the last season.—Advertisement.

"WHERE THE TRAIL DIVIDES"

A play that fairly breathes the spirit of the West and which tells a beautiful love story in a picturesque setting is "Where the Trail Divides," which will be the attraction at the Majestic Theatre for three days, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, with a matinee daily. Robert Edeson, whose "Strongheart" was considered the greatest characterization of the American Indian ever presented on the American stage, is the author of the play, and he created the part of "How Lander," an educated Sioux Indian, around whom the story of the play centers.—Advertisement.

MRS. FISKE

Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company in "Mrs. Dumpstead-Leigh," is the attraction announced for Thursday, February 12, at the Majestic Theatre. The play is a comedy of the most ludicrous type, something that at first blush would appear to be about as foreign to Mrs. Fiske as anything could be. Considering the wide range of plays in which she has appeared, one would be puzzled to think of a type in which her remarkable gifts had not already been exploited, but the surprise of "Mrs. Dumpstead-Leigh," both as regards the play and her characterization, are among the chief delights.—Advertisement.

"ON THE EDGE OF THINGS"

There are those who will go to the Orpheum this week and be more pleased with Homer Miles and company in "On the Edge of Things" than they will with the fine western novelty novelty called "Cheyenne Days." It, of course, is a matter of opinion. The comedy drama called "On the Edge of Things" has its scene laid on a house-top, but that doesn't mean that anybody's going to fall over its edge. It might just as well be called "Things Nearly Happening," that would at least be more expressive, for if it wouldn't be the good old simple natured janitor comes along just in the nick of time, a sweet young girl would have eloped with a worthless youth. The youth is a young married man in a building adjoining the girl's home, but crowded New York, the girl does not know he is married. The "Janitor" of the two buildings knows both and his methods of interference must be seen to be appreciated. Mr. Miles as the "Janitor" is easily the star of the piece. He plays the character with ease and handles some bright lines that include much effective slang. The setting is realistic and adequate and the cast of players well selected. Beatie Kyle and Harry Richards, in a breezy skit with good songs, and Meredith and Snooter, the latter an educated bulldog that is really wonderful, are some of the other pleasing turns.—Advertisement.

AT THE COLONIAL

Another week has rolled around and accordingly we are again due for a night of fun at the Busy Corner. In connection with to-night's performances we are to see some new amateur performers and also witness the "great pole" contest. Some good local talent has been secured. The Colonial's bill with the Mendelssohn Four, a singing comedienne, and a song, a dance and comedy trio, is pleasing good-sized audiences immensely.—Advertisement.

HERBOLOGIST OF MARKET HOUSE

the boyhood days when you wandered through the wood looking for sweet myrrh and slippery elm.

Raber has spent the past thirty-odd years looking for herbs and roots in the mountains. He first took an interest in finding strange wild plants when as the first nurse at the Harrisburg Hospital in 1873 the doctors on the staff at the time told him about the use of herbs in medicine. Raber was reared in the country and knew the woods when he began his studies. As he says, "I learned from the books." His method when he finds a plant he doesn't know is to mark the spot and return home for his botany book. Then with the plant before him he would find out from the book what it is and its use.

Several years ago Raber moved to this city from his home in the mountains near Dauphin. He now lives at 44 Boyd street. In the Fall he goes into the mountains for days at a time, searching for the teas and herbs which he sells at his stall in the market. He says he collects from thirteen to four thousand bunches of herbs and teas every Fall. These he places in drying rooms at his home and twice a week he displays them on his stall at the market.

"If you show interest, Mr. Raber will tell you what all these herbs are used for. He knows them, too, for he passed an examination in "herbology" before a college of physicians at one time, he tells you. He speaks bitterly of the fellows who sell the teas and herbs without knowing what they are good for.

"A license should be required of all those who hunt and sell herbs," he says. "You don't know what you are buying from them and they don't know what they sell. It may be poison."

Spread before him and hanging behind him are bunches of sage, sassafras, wild cherry bark, spiguer (for the cold), white mountain willow, pearl maple, golden thread (worth $5 a pound), slippery elm, catnip, sarsaparilla, iron root (for the blood) and scores more which he has about him in cans and bottles, and for which he has a name and a use.

He tells of offers given him by druggists and patent medicine men to make medicine for them and put water in it to make money. He says he always refused. And as you leave these February days, the quaint old man will press on you a root which is a sure cure for a cold.

WE ARE BORN WITH DANCING BLOOD

two-stepping to school as it is for a "foremost citizen" to strut as he goes to his office," he added.

Dr. McCuaig said there is a sexual vibration in all contact of the male and female and this contact may be through the eyes, the handshake or the voice.

"The danger lies not in the contact," he said, "nor in the vibration which results, but in the accentuation of them as in the modern dances. A girl or boy rightly taught would be in no danger, as these extremes would have no attraction for them."

He spoke of the folk dances and expressed his belief that these old-fashioned, healthful dances might be the solution to the dance problem of to-day. In speaking of the mother's care of her daughter he warned the mother against teaching the girl to dress so that the growing charms of body are accentuated.

"I cannot conceive," he admonished, "how a mother can so dress her daughter that she is a lure to men and an incitement to their worst passions." He told the mothers that they should try to develop in their daughters the home instinct. "The girl should be taught that motherhood is the crowning glory and blessing of life and that homemaking and housekeeping are the greatest achievements of womanhood," said Dr. McCuaig.

He declared in conclusion that manly love stories and emotional plays dealing with the "social triangle" are most dangerous, as they give girls untrue ideas of life and cannot help but warp their vision as to social realities, and that the practice of allowing young girls to be on the streets after night is extremely dangerous.

To-night Dr. McCuaig will lecture on "The Voice of God" and to-morrow afternoon he will talk on "Heredity."

Great Record of Sunday School Superintendent; He Has Served 45 Years

JOHN A. ROMBERGER

Special to The Telegraph. Elizabethville, Pa., Feb. 11.—John A. Romberger, one of the most prominent business men of Upper Dauphin county, and for thirty years a resident of this place, holds the enviable record of having been superintendent of a Sunday school for forty-five consecutive years. Mr. Romberger was born in 1850, in Lykens township, and enjoyed having staunch Christian parents. At the age of seventeen years he was first elected superintendent and continued for fifteen consecutive years. He moved to Elizabethville, where he was elected for thirty more

Mr. Romberger is a staunch member of the Evangelical church and has been instrumental in making it a beautiful edifice and having a healthy membership. He has been in the grain and feed business for many years and his name is a byword for honest dealings, instilling into his business the principles he professes in his Christian vocation. He has been president of the First National Bank of this place since its institution, and had served many years in the local school board. He is active in Free Masonry. When the Evangelical conference convenes here on February 25-28 Mr. Romberger will be given the honor of being host to Bishops Horn and Bowman.

Samuel Newcomer Kelly, Former Harrisburger, Dies at Hagerstown, Md.

Special to The Telegraph. Hagerstown, Md., Feb. 11.—Samuel Newcomer Kelly, city clerk of Hagerstown, a son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kelly, of 609 Harris street, Harrisburg, Pa., died at his home in Hagerstown at 2 o'clock this morning after an illness of less than a week. Death was caused by pneumonia.

Mr. Kelly was one of the most prominent young men of Hagerstown. He was a lawyer with a large practice and took a prominent part in Republican politics. He was also prominent in fraternal affairs, being a Mason, an Elk, an Odd Fellow, Knight of Pythias and a Moose.

He was graduated from Johns Hopkins University and then went to Hagerstown, where he practiced law with Judge Keady. He attended the high schools in Harrisburg only a few years.

He is survived by his parents, his wife, one brother, William H. Kelly, and one sister, Mrs. H. W. Ritter, of Harrisburg. Funeral arrangements have not been completed.

FRUIT LAXATIVE IF CONSTIPATED, TAKE "CALIFORNIA SYRUP OF FIGS"

Best liver and bowel regulator for mamma, daddy and children.

If you're headachy, constipated, bilious or stomach is disordered and you want to enjoy the nicest liver and bowel cleansing you ever experienced, take a tablespoonful of "California Syrup of Figs" to-night and in the morning all the constipation poison, bile and clogged-up waste will gently move out of the system without griping and you will feel splendid.

Every member of the family should use this fruit laxative as occasion demands. It is just as effective for grandpa as it is for baby. It simply cannot injure. Even cross, sick feverish children just love its pleasant taste and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to effect a good "inside cleansing."

For thirty years "California Syrup of Figs" has been recommended by physicians as the ideal stomach, liver and bowel cleanser. Millions of families who are well informed use nothing else, but recently there has come a flood of spurious fig syrups, so we warn the public to ask plainly at drug stores for a 50 cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs" and see that it is prepared by "California Fig Syrup Company." We make no cheaper size. Hand back any "counterfeit" with contempt.—Advertisement.

Consideration of Alaskan Railroad Bill Is Started

By Associated Press. Washington, D. C., Feb. 11.—Detailed consideration of the Alaska railroad bill was begun to-day in the House. In the hope of expediting its passage and eliminating delays in disagreements with the Senate, the Chamberlain bill, which already has been passed in the Senate, was considered as a substitute for the House bill. The measure was not without opposition, however, although its supporters expected to see it pass and become law very soon. President Wilson will sign it.
