TELEGRAPH NEWS

State Highway Department Will Open the Roads in Counties Hit by Blizzard

The maintenance division of the State Highway Department has authorized the expenditure of $10,000 to remove snow as a result of the blizzard which swept over the eastern part of Pennsylvania on Sunday and Monday. This sum far exceeds the amount previously spent for snow removal this year. Up to last Saturday night the maintenance division had authorized the expenditure of $7,704.81 for snow removal.

As soon as the magnitude of the blizzard this week, became known, George H. Brier, maintenance engineer of the State Highway Department, began preparations to aid the county superintendents in getting the main thoroughfares throughout their territories made fit for use. Bucks county, where, from all accounts, the snowfall was heaviest and the drifts were the deepest, has not been able to dig itself out of its predicament to voice any appeal for a definite sum necessary to make the roads passable. It is known, however, that conditions there are far worse than in any of the other counties and it is likely that a much larger sum will be necessary to put the roads in passable condition than has been apportioned to any of the other counties.

The conditions this morning indicate that with the moderating weather the work of removing the snow and opening the highways will be prosecuted rapidly and it is likely that no further snowfall will interrupt the work of placing the highways in normal condition.

The dream offers plenty of opportunity for many songs and for rich costuming and scenery, and there certainly was nothing lacking in this direction. The elaborate gowns worn by the "girls" in the last act, were of Paris design, and brought much favorable comment. The tango dances were gracefully executed and the moving picture features, showing the departure from Carlisle of the minstrel company, was quite original.

The entire production is under the direction of Leo David, who wrote the book and arranged the music and songs. George Brady made a typical minstrel manager, and had some good songs, as did "Scotty" Cook, the former Tech High football coach, Edna O'Donnell, Ike Mack, "Sass" Harris and "Bucky" Adams. Real singing was done by "Jimmy" and "Johnny" Carroll, Dr. Jemmy, James Beeton, "Pat" Coughlan, "Arch" Ruggles and Hugh Miller. The latter as Mrs. Daisy DeBris, was the one big hit in the female impersonations. Mr. Miller is a local newspaperman.

There were many encore song numbers which prolonged the performance until a late hour. The "Nursery Rhymes" chorus led by "Johnny" Carroll was returned in an attractive manner. During the evening George Brady was presented with a large bouquet of roses and carnations. Director McDonald was also highly praised.

McDonald, who directed the show from the orchestra pit, is a member of the Carlisle lodge of Elks and plays regularly in the Majestic theater orchestra. He has taken many years of leave that of last night will no doubt take him some day into that kind of work along professional lines.
