Dallastown People Ask Council For Curfew Law

Special to The Telegraph
Dallastown, Pa., March 12.—If council will listen to the plaints of the Civic Club and the Women's Christian Temperance Union, the town will soon have an old-fashioned curfew law. The Women's Christian Temperance Union at a largely attended meeting last night took up the subject of a curfew, advocated by the Civic Club, and unanimously decided to assist in having it passed. The Rev. J. R. Sechrist, just returned by the Berwick conference, was selected to make the plea before the next meeting of council. It is understood that Burgess Zeigler and a majority of the councilmen favor it. The W. C. T. U. added twenty members to the roll at the meeting. The union is looking up the old anti-treating law with a view to having it put into force.
