The forecast will have little effect on the breaking up of the river, in the opinion of E. R. Demain, local weather forecaster, unless some rain comes along soon.

New Pastor of Dallastown U. B. Church Meeting With Success in His Work

THE REV. C. C. MILLER

By Special Correspondence

Dallastown, Pa., March 14.—For eight weeks the borough has been stirred with evangelistic work such as has not been the case since the days of the Rev. John Young, who lived here twenty years ago, and it has all been due to the Rev. C. C. Miller, the new pastor of Bethlehem United Brethren Church. While not an evangelist in the full acceptance of the term, as he has simply been a pastor since he entered the ministry twenty-three years ago, the Rev. Mr. Miller's Sunday evening sermons to his own congregation are evangelistic in character, and on account of his plain, unvarnished talks he carries a personality and force for the greatest possible good. The eight weeks' service, with triple sermons on Sunday, were never equaled here. They closed this week with decisions for a better life from eighty-two persons, twenty-five of whom were men of years, mostly married and heads of families. A like number were women—wives of the men—and the balance were young folks, few under the age of 15 years. At a men's special service over 1,000 were present and at a like meeting for women over 1,500—never such a gathering in the history of Dallastown. Most of those converted have associated themselves with the United Brethren Church, though no influence was used by the pastor, church affiliation being left to themselves. He has established an "Instructive Bible class" for every Friday night with seventy-five members, largely of the converted, and a mens personal work among the unsaved and follow up the result of the revival meetings. The Rev. Mr. Miller came here from Conowingo, Md., where he was pastor, succeeding the Rev. L. Walter Lutz, now at Chambersburg.

Washington, D. C., March 14.—Formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Eleanor Randolph Wilson, daughter of the President and Mrs. Wilson, to William Gibbs McAdoo, of Cleveland, Ohio, relieved the suspense Washington's official and society circles has been under for some days. Prospects for another White House wedding had been the subject of much speculation in social circles here and formal announcement was awaited with keen interest. All doubt as to the engagement was removed, gossip in society circles usually turned to the probable date of the next White House wedding. Washington expects it to occur in June, but the date has not been announced. At least twice in its history have weddings taken place in the White House in the late spring and early summer. POOR DIRECTORS ARE SUED AS TRESPASSERS

Action for Damages Because of Elevator Fall Begun by E. A. Enders

Dauphin county's poor board was named as defendant in an action in trespass brought to-day by Homer H. Matter, counsel for Edward C. Enders, an employe for several months ago. He received at the almshouse last September. The statement has not yet been filed and the poor directors were not notified as to what amount will be asked. Enders was injured by a fall down the elevator shaft. The plaintiff declares this came about through negligence on the part of almshouse authorities and the failure of the elevator to operate properly. The poor directors contend that Enders stepped off the elevator before it had drawn flush with the floor and so he was injured. The case is set for trial in the county court on March 20. Should the county authorities be held to be liable, a Baltimore company which insured the hoist will likely be proceeded against by the poor board.
