

SNOW APPOINTED CHIEF ENGINEER

Public Service Commission Selects
One of Dr. Dixon's Chiefs
For New Place

MAN OF LONG EXPERIENCE

Will Organize the Bureau—Did
Notable Work Under Dr.
Dixon's Department

F. Herbert Snow, who has been the chief engineer of the division of engineering of the State Department of Health ever since it was organized by Dr. Samuel G. Dixon in 1905, was last night selected as the chief engineer of the Public Service Commission and will immediately assume the office and organize the bureau. No one has been selected as yet by Dr. Dixon to succeed Mr. Snow, who has handled the technical end of the great campaign for improvement of water and drainage conditions which have been such a notable part of the splendid work of the State's Commissioner of Health. Dr. Dixon will probably personally direct that branch of the department until he makes an appointment, as he is thoroughly familiar with that work, being one of the pioneers of its study in this country.

Mr. Snow is a graduate of Harvard University and Massachusetts Institute of Technology and from 1890 to 1905 was in general engineering practice with offices in Boston, New York and Chicago. He was the senior member of the firm of Snow & Starbuck and handled construction, drainage, rating and other propositions for States, cities and corporations. One of the notable works in which he took a leading part was the abolition of grade crossings in Boston and he was also one of the engineers on the Boston drainage system. He was also in charge of considerable construction work for several railroads and trolley companies, including bridges. For Mr. Snow was selected by Dr. Dixon he was named for important work by the New York Public Service Commission, but that position was in the State's service. He was one of eight American and European engineers named for the study of drainage of New York's harbor four years ago, and has been actively identified with the State's work of investigation.

Mr. Snow has served as a president of the Engineers' Society of Pennsylvania and is a member of a number of learned societies, being likewise a member of the State Engineers' Commission.

MRS. ROBERT GOELET GRANTED A DIVORCE

made it very disagreeable and embarrassing at times for me."

The deposition referred to the dinner party which Mrs. Goelet gave to the Grand Duke Michelvitch, of Russia, in Newport last August. Mr. Goelet, she said, objected to certain bills she had incurred, and she had to pay them out of her own funds.

William Drake, the valet of Mr. Goelet, deposed that he had asked Mr. Goelet as to his taking care of Mrs. Goelet. Mr. Goelet had replied, "You'll carry out my orders or I will soon get somebody else who will."

"I was ordered by Mr. Goelet," continued Drake, "to put on my evening clothes every night and take up a position in the front hall, where I was to make out a list of all those who came to visit Mrs. Goelet. I was to report what Mrs. Goelet wore, whom she went out with and what time and the time she came in and where she went."

Depositions of Friends.

"Mr. Goelet always said that painting and singing in which Mrs. Goelet was intensely interested were—non-sense," deposed Mrs. H. S. Reynolds Hitt, a guest at the Goelet home. "He called her 'fool' on numerous occasions and was always rude to her and to her friends."

Mrs. Esther Harrison Rowland deposed: "On one occasion while I was dining there she said she would like to march in the suffrage parade. He said, 'If you do (with an oath) I will put you out.' I never heard her say an angry word to him. He sneered and jeered at her, even while at dinner, and in front of numerous guests."

Walter Shirley, a butler, said: "When Mr. Goelet addressed his wife he never looked at her."

Nellie Roberts, a maid, deposed that Mr. Goelet said that "any servant who served a meal to any one unless he knew of it would be discharged. One time I heard Mr. Goelet tell Mrs. Goelet to go to —."

Other depositions were read, but the judge said he had heard enough.

Before her marriage on June 14, 1904, Mrs. Goelet was Miss Elsie Whelen, one of the most popular members of Philadelphia's younger set and considered at the time the most beautiful girl in the United States.

She is descended from one of the oldest families in the city. An ancestor on her father's side was William Smith, first provost of the University. Her mother, before her marriage, was Miss Baker.

The Goelet-Whelen wedding ceremony was performed in St. Mary's church, Wayne, Bishop McVieker, of Rhode Island, officiated, with the Rev. Floyd Tomkins, rector of Holy Trinity church, assisting.

Prominent members of Philadelphia, New York, Newport and Washington society were in attendance, and Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, then Alice Roosevelt, was one of many bridesmaids.

Natural History Society Will Hear Rare Talk

The Natural History Society has the Spring fever—not the kind you and I get—O, no, the real kind. The weather we've been having the past few days is responsible, for it makes one think of bluebirds, robins and nest building. Because of this the society has invited Dr. Witmer Stone to tell of "The Nest Life of Wild Birds" on Friday evening. Dr. Stone is curator of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Sciences, president of the Pennsylvania Audubon Society and doing other important things as well. He is an authority on his subject and Harrisburg is fortunate in securing him for a talk.

Colored lantern slides from nature will illustrate the lecture. Cards of admission may be secured from the secretary of the society or at either high school.

MARRIAGE ANNOUNCED

The marriage of Miss Elsie Zimmerman, of Sylvan Terrace, and Oscar Russell, for some time past a resident of this city, took place Saturday, March 14, at York, with the Rev. Aaron Spangler, a Reformed minister, officiating. Mr. Russell has gone to Florida to engage in business and his wife will join him there soon.

STATE STREET U. B. CLASS HOLDS BIRTHDAY SOCIAL

Class No. 10 of the State Street United Brethren Sunday School held a birthday social last evening at the home of Mrs. Edgar Lerew, 1925 State street, with 150 people in attendance. The guests paid an admission fee of 1 cent for each of their birthdays and a nice sum was secured for the class treasury. An informal program of music and reading was followed by refreshments.

Westinghouse Estate Is Valued at $50,000,000

Special to The Telegraph
New York, March 18.—Since the death of George Westinghouse, on Thursday of last week, many estimates have been made of the money value of his estate. Almost all of these estimates fix the amount in millions, some as high as $50,000,000. If his estate should be found finally to measure proportionately with his average income for the last 30 years it is likely that the estate would show a money value in excess of that amount.
