MISS WANBAUGH'S GUESTS

Guests of Miss Edna Wanbaugh last evening at her home, 1808 Penn street, enjoyed music and games with a supper following. At the party were Miss Sara McLaughlin, Miss Anna Baker,

Anna Held's Advice to Beauty Seekers

The formulas given here by Miss Anna Held cover every important factor in the acquirement of beauty. These formulas produce unusual results. They are extremely economical. You mix them at home, and you then obtain an article of unquestioned superiority, at a mere fraction of the high cost of prepared articles which are never so effective.

MISS SCRAGGLY — Falling hair means, of course, a gradual dying away of the hair roots. This is evidenced by the wisps of hair which come out in combing or brushing the hair. The hair roots must be stimulated, and I know of no better treatment to make hair actually grow than a mixture of one ounce of beta-carotol, half a pint of alcohol and half a pint of water, or else one full pint of bay rum instead of the alcohol and water. There is nothing so effective in forcing hair to grow. You will never want to use anything else once you experience its splendid results.

PINAPORE — Use as little soap as possible on your hair. It nearly always leaves a soapy film on the hair and scalp which no amount of rinsing will prevent. This together with dust and dirt clogs the pores which makes one wonder why soap ever is used at all. Use a teaspoonful of eggol dissolved in a cup of hot water and use as a shampoo. As a cleanser rich, latherly shampoo and dandruff remover, it is unequalled by any article known for this purpose.

ELISE M. R. — Such popular doubt prevails as to the possibility of developing the bust. This arises from the fact that so many methods have been advocated which are scientific of no value or effect. No external application, massage, appliance or cream will ever produce the desired result. The only method worth trying is the famous Vaucaire formula. This is a perfectly harmless, pleasant, and reliable. Make up a mixture of one-half pint of water, one ounce of gallol and half a cup of sugar. Dissolve thoroughly and take two teaspoonfuls after each meal and at bedtime. Advertisement.

MISS O. R. T. — It is no exaggeration to say that any woman, even she who is afflicted with a coarse, manish complexion, may transform her skin into one resembling the petals of a rose, exquisite and spotless in its purity. In a pint of water, dissolve two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and one ounce of amoral. This cream must be applied generously every day, gradually freeing and that spotty unevenness called "muddiness" will give way to a lily-like purity which is adorable. As a skin beautifier, its equal is not known.

Splendid and Unusual Program For Lemer Concert

Music Lovers Will Hear Famous Old Violin Classics Played

Sara Lemer's violin recital Monday evening, April 20 at Fahnstock hall, will prove of great interest to music lovers, many of whom will hear for the first time, certain old violin classics.

The program will include: Folies d. Espagne, Corelli-Dav; this famous chaconne or series of variations has as a theme an old Spanish dance, the "Folia," and is a typical example of the compositions of the so celebrated old Italian violinists of whom Corelli is one of the most brilliant exponents. Sarabande, Menuetto 1 and 2, Gavotte, each; these excerpts from the Sonata of Bach for violin solo are in reality characteristic dances of the period, constituting the suite and idealized in the inimitable manner of Bach. Concerto in D minor, Wieniawski; this best known of the Concertos by the eminent Polish violinist has the classic tripartite form of the sonata. A broadly outlined opening Allegro followed by the famous, poetically beautiful Romance, closes with an impetuous, brilliant, Slavic finale bristling with almost impossible technical difficulties. Chanson of Louis XIV and Pavane, Conperin; Andantino, Martini; Le Chasse, Cartier; Moment Musical; Schubert; Schon Rosmarin, Kreisler; Caprice Viennois, Kreisler. These arrangements in part from original manuscripts in Fritz Kreisler's possession, of famous old violin classics. Remarkable is the delicious flavor of the stately old court dances of Louis the fourteenth; the suggestive horn calls of the Carder "Chasse" with its "double stop" and the exquisite arrangement of the well-known "Moment Musical." The last two are the well-known original charming "Landler, Schon Rosmarin" and the sparkling Caprice Viennois. Theme and Variations for the G String, Paganini; this famous fantasia, "a tour de force" with violinists has as a theme an introductory air and march from Rossini's "Moses in Egypt." As is now well known, Paganini produced some of his almost daemonic effects through an original system of tuning his strings. In this instance through the tuning up of the G string to B flat he makes possible the apparently inconceivable range, and impossible harmonies. Sensational in the extreme, and sown with every kind of technical difficulty, it is an example of the accomplishment of the apparently impossible in a violin string.

Local Pianist Gets Big Ovation in Phila.

Nowell Albright, of this city, who gave a piano recital at West Chester Thursday evening in the parish house of the Holy Trinity Episcopal Church, received an ovation from one of the largest and most enthusiastic audiences he has ever played to.

The rector of the church is the Rev. John Mills Gilbert, formerly of St. Paul's, this city, and the parish is one of the most aristocratic and music-loving in the vicinity of Philadelphia, with members like the late Dr. S. Weir Mitchell.

In the audience was Mrs. Dallas Dixon, who is connected with the woman's auxiliary of the Philadelphia Orchestra. Mrs. Dixon invited Mr. Albright to give a recital at her home in Clinton street, Philadelphia, where some of the most prominent musicians of the Quaker City listened to the brilliant young musician, before whom a wonderful future is opening. Mr. Albright has been invited to give a recital during the season in Philadelphia before a musical club, members of which heard him at Mrs. Dixon's.

TREDENNICK-THOMAS MARRIAGE ANNOUNCEMENT

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Dick Thomas, of Johnstown, announce the marriage of their daughter, Miss Florence Thomas, to Harry Leslie Tredennick, of this city, Thursday, April 16, at Johnstown. Mr. and Mrs. Tredennick will be "at home" to their friends after May 15, at 521 Vine street, Johnstown.

The bride, who is known in this city, is a granddaughter of the late Rev. John A. Groff, a Presbyterian minister. Her mother was formerly Miss Sue Groff, who died soon after the Johnstown flood, from which she and her baby were rescued after several days' privations on a house top.

S. S. CLASS BANQUET

The organized Sunday school class No. 2 of the Park Street Episcopal Church observed its fifth anniversary last evening. A suitable program was given in the ladies' parlor of the church, after which a banquet was enjoyed in the Royal dining room. The class has an enrollment of eighty-five members. Miss Elizabeth Hackenbush is the class president, and C. H. Koons is teacher.

Central High Seniors With an Air of Mystery

Do you ask what that superior, mysterious air is that wholly surrounds the seniors at Central High? Do you ask why they have been looking so wise yet keeping so quiet? Well, the cat came out of the hat to-day. It's the senior play, and so we may believe, now that we have the true facts from Miss Annabel Swartz, who has the entire play in charge.

Miss Swartz, who came to the school in 1913 to fill the vacancy of a dramatic teacher, has proved herself superior along her line. Her wonderful method of training the students has been shown several times this year at the different oratorical contests. The play will be an English drama of modern times, pathetic, comical and possessing an underlying moral. Never before has the senior body undertaken a play of its kind. Studying the students during the entire year, Miss Swartz has found unusual and apt material for the selected play.

1914 POULTRY SHOW LARGER THAN EVER

second week in December. The association is enthusiastic over this deal since it clears the way for a greater show. Last year's show taxed the capacity of Winterdale and unless more floor space were to be had, the large increase of entries in prospect could not be handled.

This lease gives the local show the most desirable if not largest poultry show room in the State. The Chestnut street auditorium is unsurpassed in the matter of light, both natural and artificial; the heating and ventilating system is modern; the appointments are fine and with a sixth of an acre of floor space for staging the show, there is little to be desired.

The coping contract went to the Genesee Cooping Company, of Rochester, N. Y. The show will open at noon, Tuesday, December 8, and close at midnight, Saturday, December 12.

MUST GUARD BAGGAGE

By Associated Press
New York, April 18.—According to a decision of the Appellate division of the State Supreme Court here, a passenger while asleep in a railroad sleeping car is not expected or able to guard his property. The company must station employees to guard the passengers property, the court ruled, or be held responsible for the loss of it.

MAY CONTINUE INTEREST

Washington, April 18.—Railroads may continue their interest in water lines after July 1, according to a ruling of the Interstate Commerce Commission to-day, provided they have applied for such continuance to the commission at least until such time as the commission shall have passed upon the merits of their applications.

SYMBOLS AND MYTHS IN CLUB DISCUSSION

Story Tellers' League Grows More Interesting With Each Meeting

The Story Tellers' League in its meeting this week had quite a number of visitors, all of whom expressed their pleasure in a most delightful program.

Miss Lois Booker, the president, started with a talk on "Symbols and Their Meaning, Myths, Legends and Stories." She spoke of symbols as existing in the Egyptian hieroglyph, the fire symbols of Persia, Greek and Roman mythology shown in sculpture, paintings in Italy, the dragons of Northern Europe and totem of the Indians. In stories, Miss Booker spoke of jewel symbols as used by Henry Van Dyke in "The Other Wise Man," where the sapphire, ruby and pearl were prominent.

Symbolic stories were given by Miss Alice R. Eaton, who told Robert Louis Stevenson's "Touchstone of Truth"; "The Keeper of the Jewels," Henry Van Dyke, told by Miss Roberta Orth, and "Oses, the Son of the King of the Evening Star," Winston Stokes, given by Miss Booker.

Miss Margaret Latham's talk on the construction of the "Mystery Story" was illustrated by Henry Van Dyke's "Night." Miss Latham also read a letter written by Henry Van Dyke to one of her school pupils, who asked him how the story really ended in his own mind. Mrs. Bennett Carter gave Hopkinson Smith's "One-Legged Goose" in delightful style.

Miss Booker opened the original program with a beautiful sentiment from the Persian poet Rabi'drath Tagore: "In the world's audience hall, the simple blade of grass sits on the same carpet with the sunbeam and the stars of midnight. Thus my songs share their seats in the heart of the world with the music of the clouds and forests." Miss Latham told a clever, humorous story, "Her One Hour," written by herself, and the program closed with "King Pixie," a very tale in verse, original with Miss Booker.

College Clubs Come For Return Engagement

The Franklin and Marshall College musical clubs coming here next Tuesday evening for a return engagement at Fahnstock Hall have a number of masterpieces in their repertoire this year, the glee club singing the famous "Drinking Song" from "The Rose of Castile," while the mandolin club's program abounds with catchy, melodious minutes of minstrelsy.

Harlequin will be about the twentieth engagement of the season, the clubs having appeared at Lancaster, Reading, Allentown, Altoona, Pittsburg and numerous smaller towns. At Altoona, where they were enthusiastically received, they appeared before an audience of 2,000 people.
