WEDNESDAY EVENING, APRIL 22

A DISTRIBUTION CENTER

As might be expected from an organization of the live wires of this community, the Chamber of Commerce has issued an illustrated booklet which gives the high points of Harrisburg as a center of distribution.

This fact has been impressed upon all the big manufacturers and supply concerns of the country and one after another has located here, several of them having established general offices at this point. There is also a fine showing of the distribution features of the city and the booklet discusses the general location, the industrial facilities, the convention features, attractions for visitors and the municipal advantages.

Even our own people do not realize adequately the great progress that has been made here during the last few years, and these occasional publications of the men who are on the firing line of the city's advance are useful not only as guide posts for the visitor, but as encouragement for our own people.

Most of our wars have started in April. April always was a fool month.

RETAIN MR. MANNING

Now that the City Planning Commission is about ready to undertake its important work, we have no doubt that one of the first moves will be the engagement of Warren H. Manning, the landscape architect, who has done so much in the development of our splendid park system.

PRESIDENT WILSON'S PLIGHT

UNFORTUNATELY for President Wilson in the Mexican situation the opinion will not down that the spineless policy of the administration with respect to conditions south of the Rio Grande has been in large measure responsible for the serious problem which now confronts the United States.

LOCAL OPTION PROSPECTS

MORE and more it becomes evident that the next Legislature will adopt a local option law. There will be unquestionably a discussion of its provisions, but it is certain that such a law will be passed in one form or another.

conception of just what the President means in his repeated statement that he does not wish to "individualize Huerta because of any personal resentment, but merely to differentiate from the remainder of the Mexican people with whom the United States has no quarrel."

The opinion is very general that there has been too much splitting of hairs in the whole Mexican controversy; that it would have been infinitely better in the beginning to recognize the defacto government and give Huerta an opportunity to restore something like order throughout the country.

There is no less patriotism in the United States to-day than at any time in the history of the country. Nor is the attitude of the public mind on the bungling in Mexico a political or partisan attitude. There is, however, a feeling among many loyal citizens that this country has been placed in an embarrassing position by reason of the President's apparent willingness to aid one assassin while declining to recognize in any way the other who happens to be in control of the organized functions of the distracted republic.

Postmaster of Shamokin reports receipts of $37,000. This, of course, does not include the usual campaign contribution.

CLEAN-UP WEEK

D. R. MARTIN G. BRUMBAUGH, who will be the next Governor of Pennsylvania, is strong for the clean-up week movements throughout the State, saying, "Self-respect is essential to all spiritual progress. No city that neglects its streets and public buildings can expect to compete with a rival whose civic pride will not permit such neglect. Cleanliness and neatness in body tend toward clean and orderly thinking and acting. This is a fundamental thought in education, and this is why I believe in clean-up week."

Mayor Royal having indicated two weeks in May as the period in which the people of Harrisburg shall give special attention to renovation, every household should begin the cleaning up process by getting rid of every atom of rubbish around his place.

The worst of this Mexican affair is that we will be, in all probability, defaced with a lot of fool Mexican fashions before it is all over.

HARRISBURG GUARDSMEN

HARRISBURG has always had reason to be proud of its National Guardsmen, but never more so than now. The statement of Lieutenant Hunt, of the Regular Army, who last evening inspected Companies D and I, to the effect that these organizations are ready for instant service in the field only served to bring to public notice what everybody familiar with local Guard conditions well knew. And the ready response of "I will" on the part of every soldier to the question of the Army officer as to whether or not they would volunteer for service in Mexico would have received has not been in vain.

HUERTA'S DEFEAT

STATESMEN and writers both here and abroad are at a loss to account for the defiance by Huerta of the United States Government. Assuredly, it is argued, he must realize that his attitude is certain to result in his elimination as a factor in the Mexican situation. It is possible that he has figured on exactly this outcome. Huerta has been steadily declining in power and influence during the past three months. He has lost battle after battle in the North and even General Villa is marching toward his capital over exactly the same route followed by General Taylor during the first invasion of Mexico. His treasury is almost empty and his European bankers have been so niggardly in recent weeks that he has been compelled to pass payment on large issues of Mexican bonds. Slowly but surely he has been drifting toward the rocks, with the prospect of eventually falling into the hands of the merciless Villa, who would doubtless be only too happy to see Huerta sleeping beside Madero.

Possibly the dictator has felt that it would be better to yield to a great power like the United States than to go down to ignominious defeat and death before the arms of a mere bandit. Unless he is a very much over-rated man that is the only construction that may be put on his present action. Only a fool or a maniac would place himself in the position that Huerta has assumed unless he courted certain destruction. For we may say what we will of our present intentions, but we cannot leave Mexico until the Huertas and the Villias have been rendered powerless to do that country any more harm.

munities opportunity of saying whether or not they want liquor sold within their borders. Ours is a government of majorities and nobody should object to a majority of voters expressing their wishes as to local governmental regulations of the district in which they reside.

EVENING CHAT

If State Commissioner of Fisheries N. R. Buller realizes his hopes the fishermen of this section of the Susquehanna will be able to re-establish their shad fisheries in a year or so. The commissioner is arranging to "plant" young shad in the Susquehanna later in the year and the taking of roe shad will be under way within a short time. The shad propagation work in the Delaware last year was very successful and it is believed that the shad fishing of the Susquehanna can be started in a year or so with care. The catching of shad was a great institution hereabouts forty years ago, there having been batteries around the Maryland line, but not the McCall's Ferry dam put it out of business. The construction of the fishway at the dam is completed and tests are now being made to see if the fish can get through it. If it works, and there are hopes, there will be shad taken opposite this city. The "planting" of the fish will be in various parts of the river and Mr. Buller figures that his hopes work out there will be good shad in the Juniata as far as Newport and still farther up the Susquehanna. It all depends, say fishermen, on the fishway. If it does not work, other changes will be made. Many shad are reported about Port Deposit and they are going into the smaller streams around the Maryland line, but not coming up because of the cold water. The "planting" will be done at points to be selected later in the year. The State will have its new shad hatchery at Torresdale working within a few months.

Flowering shrubs are already figuring considerably in the scheme of the river front. While the new grass and tiny shoots of leaves are just about giving a bare suggestion of green to the river park, the yellow "golden bells" and the bright color of. From the pumping station to Paxton street the trailing shrubs are blooming and the appearance of the blossoms has been more welcome sight to the thousands of promenaders.

One of the interesting papers read before the snow cleaners' convention at Philadelphia last week was a discussion by a Scranton man on the advisability of washing the accumulated snow of the winter from the streets and public improvement department, commented on this plan, but questioned its feasibility so far as Harrisburg is concerned. "Possibly the sewers in Scranton are differently constructed," said the commissioner, "but what they do there we certainly couldn't do here. Our sewers are trapped in such a way as would prohibit following out this scheme."

John S. Musser, who presided as toastmaster at the Rotary Club dinner at the Colonial Club last evening, didn't look like himself. The fact of the matter is, Mr. Musser had been stung; not in the figurative sense of the word, but literally. He motored to his old home in Columbia on Sunday and indulged his curiosity as a bee fancier by visiting the hives of a friend near the city. One of the bees behaved as though he thought Mr. Musser was a Mexican invader and attacked with vigor, the shot taking effect directly between the eyes. The general effect on the speaker was to lead club members to believe that their president had suddenly developed a tendency toward taking on flesh.

Reginald Kearns, who is one of the former Harrisburgers in Mexico, is in the midst of the territory disturbed, but it is hoped he will return here that he has started out of the country. Mr. Kearns is a nephew of James Brady, president of the First National Bank, and is connected with a large mining company and has been in Mexico for several years. He left here about fifteen years ago after attending the Harrisburg Academy.

CONGRESS AND THE RAILROADS

[From the Philadelphia Ledger] It was inevitable that the railroads should be accused of attempting to prejudice the public in favor of the rate increase, but nothing more than a statement of facts was necessary to convince reasonable people of the desirability of the new rates. The idea of some of the politicians seems to be that if the railroads are not earning a living they ought to be confiscated and that if they are earning a living they ought to be confiscated anyhow.

THAT "WATCHFUL WAITING"

[From the Philadelphia Ledger] If the same spirit and firmness in dealing with the Mexican revolutionary leaders had been shown at the beginning and consistently maintained all danger of war with Mexico or any portion of the Mexicans would have been averted. On the other hand the weak policy of watchful waiting has brought the United States and Mexico to the point of armed collision which has all the appearance of the beginning of actual war.

CLEAN UP! CLEAN UP!

If there's rubbish in your home, Clean up!
Scrub the place from "bit to dome," Clean up!
Throw your heart into the plan, Make the place look spick and span— Throw all refuse in a can; Clean up!
If there's cobwebs on your heart, Clean up!
"Clean Up Week" is here, so start. Clean up!
Deeds of mercy shown to-day, Give your best self to charity; Dig the gold out of your clay— Clean up!
Wash the vile schemes from your brains, Clean up!
Losses oft beget real gains, Clean up!
If you should get "up and in," Help the "down and outer" win, Be not passive-sloth in sin, Clean up!
If there's venom in your breast, Clean up!
Give your enemies a rest, Clean up!
Scale hates rust and free the mind, Cut Love's kernel from Spite's mind; Win your foes by being kind— Clean up!
There is One who seeth all; Clean up!
Does He think you great or small? Clean up!
Throw off pride and play the man; Join the Clean Up Week band; All must die and Life's a span— Clean up!

MANY ADDITIONS TO PETITION LIST

Penrose's Monster Papers Stirs Machine Democrats to Imitate

WAR BEGINS ON LAKE SHORE
John T. Brew Gets Erie Post Office and Liebel Will Run For Defeat For Congress

Democratic machine candidates woke up to the significance of the monster petitions being filed for the Republican candidates for nominations at the May primary yesterday and made frantic half-past-the-eleven-hour efforts to make a showing. Senator Penrose is backed by over 200,000 persons on petitions filed at the Capitol. His first petition contained 100,000 names from Philadelphia and 65,000 from the rest of the State. Yesterday he added about 50,000 more names. Dr. Martin G. Brumbaugh late last night added his second installment of petitions to the large number already on file, making about 72,000 sponsors on his papers. In the number filed Lancaster county takes a high place, filing 97. Chester, Dauphin, Blair, Schuylkill, Erie and Allegheny have vied with the great petitions filed for him from Philadelphia. If all the Brumbaugh petitions could be extended they would reach a quarter of a million. The Palmer Friends of Judges Trexler and Endlich filed additional papers for them last evening.

When the news of the huge Republican petitions being put on record reached the Democratic windmill there was great excitement and a box said to contain over 1,000 petitions, alleged to contain over 50,000 names, was voted to the "hill" and labeled "McPherson." The Palmer people also got on the last car, filing 50,000 in addition to those now on file. The congressman's secretary stated that he had 50,000 to 55,000 additional at Washington, which will probably be kept as mementoes. Altogether Palmer is said to have 150,000 signers. McCormick put all on record. It is understood, Ryan supporters also filed a big bunch of additional names, as did other candidates of the war-torn Democracy.

The Philadelphia Record of to-day prints the following: "Repeating again and again his attack on the so-called bipartisan machine, Vance C. McCormick, Palmer's candidate for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination, addressed four small meetings in Philadelphia last night after speaking at eighteen gatherings in Montgomery county through the day. Refraining from direct attack upon his opponent, City Solicitor Michael J. Ryan, he based his objection to the latter's candidacy mainly upon the men who are backing Ryan. He drew applause everywhere by referring to the accomplishments of the Wilson administration. In his tour of the city McCormick was assisted by the federal officeholders, Collector of the Port William H. Berry speaking in his behalf, while Collector of Internal Revenue Ephraim Lederer was conspicuous at one of the meetings. In Montgomery county he was accompanied on his hurried trip by William T. Cressey, candidate for Lieutenant-Governor. In the city Robert S. Bright, candidate for congressman-at-large, traveled with him.

The factional war in Erie city has been intensified by the appointment of John T. Brew as postmaster of Erie. Brew was opposed by Michael Liebel, Jr., former mayor, and the other announcement of the selection is expected to increase the ranks of the anti-machine Democrats in the lake city. Liebel will run for Congress and expects to have no opposition, but as Congressman Shreve is a candidate for re-election it is believed that the Republican will be returned. Brew is said to have been backed by Palmer. He is well known to many Harrisburgers.

Samuel I. Stoner, the Altoona lawyer, who filed a petition to be candidate for Republican nomination for Congress-at-large, is well known in this city. He filed petitions from six counties, of which Dauphin contributed two, which were numerously signed. The other petitions were filed from Blair, Perry, Juniata, Mifflin and Huntingdon. Mr. Stoner will make an active campaign. There are now nine Republican candidates for the four nominations for Congress-at-large to be made and about the same number on the Democratic side. Each faction has its own set.

Of these, two were river boats, which escaped our forces when Plymouth was taken."

A LITTLE NONSENSE

"ENLISTING"

By Wing Dinger

It's mighty queer how ages will change with men and boys, As soon as real gun powder Like war does make a noise.

The boy who's under eighteen, About his age will lie, In order to enlist and Go forth to fight and die.

The man who's somewhat older— Who's always full of tricks, And tries to make himself look young, Now says he's forty-six.

I guess the latter figure They'd rather not be spooks— "He's cowardly" is better Than "How natural he looks."

But just the same, if there should Be calls for volunteers, You'll find 'em all enlisting, Regardless of their years.

For they're the kind of people Who ready are to die In keeping dear Old Glory Forever waving high.

BRYAN STRONG FOR PEACE

(New York Sun) The Commoner, out to-day, contains a signed article by its proprietor, the Secretary of State of the United States of America, ending with the three astounding paragraphs here subjoined: "If our nation desires to be measured by intellectual and ethical standards, how unworthy to brag of our strength and threaten to use that strength. 'We are ready to fight' does not arouse the enthusiasm that it did a few centuries ago. Brute force is not the level upon which this nation settles controversies to-day; the question is not what we can do, but what we ought to do.

"The path of history is strewn with the wreck of nations that boasted that they were all powerful; they went down under Jehovah's inexorable law—and the 'God who ruled over Babylon is the God who is ruling yet.' This question must be decided on moral principles and not by the counting of our regiments and battleships. "What shall it profit a nation if it conquers the whole world and loses its faith in the doctrine that 'righteousness exalteth a nation?' "W. J. BRYAN."

Think of it! This mess of apocalyptic rhetoric and ecstatic exhortation was put forth unofficially from the Department of State by the Secretary of State on the very day when the Administration of which he, next to the President, is the principal figure was counting its battleships and making an unprecedented demonstration of naval strength and threatening to use that strength, declaring that it is "ready to fight"; and actually appealing to Congress for full war powers wherewith to settle an international controversy by brute force. And Secretary Bryan indignantly denies that he thinks of resigning.
