30 Years Ago

Every Druggist in the city of Harrisburg and surrounding towns were charging you 25c, 50c and $1.00, full price for all Patent Medicines, toilet articles, etc.

29 YEARS AGO Kennedy's started their cut-rate Patent Medicine Store. Cutting the prices to the bottom. Every druggist in town started fighting us then, with the idea of driving us out of business—they have not succeeded in the past 29 years, and we will promise they won't in the next 29 years, if the people of Harrisburg and vicinity, will do their part and show us they appreciate the Store that started this cut-rate business, and give us their patronage.

Think of the money we have saved the people in these 29 years. Is it any wonder the druggists are fighting us? Think of the money they have lost simply because Kennedy's believed in cut prices.

Don't you think our business should be successful? When we are working so hard for the people's interest, trying to save them all the money possible. Everybody should naturally feel it their duty to patronize a store of this kind. Those who buy from us have the satisfaction of knowing they are buying at the lowest possible prices, and are not in danger of being overcharged for patent medicines not advertised by us, as we make the prices and our competitors try to follow.

We only have the one store in Harrisburg which is 321 Market Street.

Yours Respectfully,

OLD-TIME RIDERS TOUR
One of the big features of the 1914 convention of the Federation of American Motorcyclists will be a tour of old-time motorcycle riders to the convention city. The tour will be made up of men, many of whom are now heads of motorcycle concerns, and who took an active part in the tours in the early days of the organization. No rider who has participated in one of the tours since 1910 will be permitted to enter Veterans' endurance and reliability contests will be held during the run.

Definite arrangements have not yet been made for the tour, as the place of the national meet has not been decided. However, it is likely that either Peoria, Ill., or St. Louis, Mo., will land this year's convention, all of the directors apparently favoring one of these two cities for the 1914 assembly. In addition to the tour of old-time riders, there will be a number of other tours, all centering in the convention city.

Thin Folks Who Would Be Fat

INCREASE IN WEIGHT TEN POUNDS OR MORE
A Physician's Advice
"It certainly give most anything to be able to fatten up a few pounds and stay that way," declares every excessively thin man or woman. Such a result is not impossible, despite past failures. Thin people are victims of malnutrition, a condition which prevents the fatty elements of food from being taken up by the blood as they are when the powers of nutrition are normal. Instead of getting into the blood, all the fat and flesh-producing elements stay in the intestines until they pass from the body as waste.
To correct this condition and to produce a healthy, normal amount of fat the nutritive processes must be artificially supplied with power which nature has denied them. This can best be accomplished by eating a Sargol tablet with every meal. Sargol is a scientific combination of six of the best strength-giving fat-producing elements known to the medical profession. Taken with meals, it mixes with the food and turns the sugars and starches into rich, ripe nourishment for the tissues and blood and its rapid effect is remarkable. Reported gains of from ten to twenty-five pounds in a single month are by no means infrequent. Yet its action is perfectly natural and absolutely harmless. Sargol is sold by George A. Gorgas and other good druggists everywhere, and every package contains a guarantee of weight increase or money back.
Caution—While Sargol has produced remarkable results in the treatment of nervous indigestion and general stomach disorders, it should not be resorted to by those who are not willing to increase their weight ten pounds or more.—Advertisement.

ONE-HUNDRED-AND-THIRTY TONS OF ELEPHANTS WITH RINGLING SHOW

Taking His Medicine

A Critical Moment

Pulling "Big John's" Tooth.

One hundred and thirty tons of elephant will arrive in Harrisburg next Friday morning. The cargo is to be paraded through the principal streets of the city and then housed under canvas.

A whole trainload of the ponderous fellows makes up the "heavy squad" of the Ringling Brothers' Circus, now headed in this direction. It is claimed that no such herd of the big-eared giants has ever before been gathered together by one management. Marching "tail to trunk," the squadron extends over a block in length. Were it possible to stand them on each other's heads, the elephantine column would reach above a twenty-story building. They occupy eleven of the eighty-nine cars required to transport the Ringling show. Computing elephant energy into horse power, the herd could, if placed in harness, pull as much as three ordinary locomotives.

Collectively, these elephants drink over 2,000 gallons of water every twenty-four hours and not one of them would think of entering upon the day's work without his regular morning cereal—a bale of hay. For dessert the battalion consumes two wagon-loads of carrots. In addition to these regular rations it is estimated that the herd will, at the rate they have been petted and made over by the youngsters thus far, have eaten approximately 1,786,253 peanuts before the end of the present Ringling season.

Dusty and wishful-looking as the elephants appear to be, they have many attractions accorded them in addition to those ministering to their inner wants. Whenever the circus spreads its tents near a stream they are taken into the water. Squatting in the depths of a friendly brook, they look like a cubist conception of "September Morn." But no matter how frequent the natural pools may be, there is one elephant in the band who refuses to be coaxed into the water. His name is "Baldy" and he is the heavy batter in the elephant baseball nine which takes the field twice daily in the Ringling "big top." Whether "Baldy" was punished some hundred years ago when as a youngster weighing hardly more than a ton he was caught in some forbidden swimming hole in far-off India, his keepers do not pretend to say. The fact is that he will have nothing whatsoever to do with stream, pool or lake. So to give him his bath the Ringling animal men are obliged to connect with a plug and treat the gray giant to an improvised shower. This takes as much water as would be required to extinguish an ordinary fire.

Electric Light Rays Cure Lung Disease by Destroying the Germs

The therapeutic value of electric light is now very generally recognized by most physicians, and the most memorable work in this light treatment is that of Dr. Nella Finson, of Denmark, whose labors in this field won for him the $50,000 Nobel prize. Dr. Finson discovered that the chemical rays of light destroy certain disease germs and by means of these rays, usually obtained from a powerful electric arc lamp, he has been able to effect a cure for lupus—an ulcerous disease which is rather rare in America, though common in Europe. The head of the Finson Light Institute of Copenhagen has also successfully applied the electric light in the treatment of patients suffering from surgical tuberculosis. An ordinary arc lamp is placed about a yard away from the patient and the affected part is exposed for fifteen minutes a day at first to two and one-half hours farther along in the treatment. In most cases artificial light has given better results than sunlight.—Electrical World.

NO USE FOR NOAH'S ARK
A Congressman of canny Scotch ancestry contributed a story of repute in the glens about the antiquity and importance of their respective clans. A Campbell (pronounced Cample) and a McLean were one day disputing and the Campbell said his clan had existed before the days of Abraham, Isaac and Jacob, for he said, "Does the Bible not say that when Isaac lifted up his eyes he saw that the camels were coming?" (Gen. xxix, 63.) "Hoot, man," said the other, "what's that to the McLeans? The McLeans are as old as the world itself."
"Do you mean to tell me that the McLeans lived before the flood?" asked Campbell.
"No, no, sure," said McLean, "long before the flood."
"But the whole of the people was drowned," said Campbell, "excepting the one family that went into Noah's ark."
"Noah's ark," retorted McLean, "was built on a hillside. What would the McLeans want w' Noah's ark? Who ever heard of a McLean that hadna a boat of his ain?"
Laughter ran through the corridors as the little group scattered and divided itself into pairs and trios as some made their way to the House Office Building, and others marched gaily out to the tune of "Home, Sweet Home."—Laughs Echoed From the Cloak Room, Mitchell Mannerings, in National Magazine for January, 1914.

WHAT DYSPETICS SHOULD EAT
A PHYSICIAN'S ADVICE
"Indigestion and practically all forms of stomach trouble are, nine times out of ten, due to acid, therefore sufferers should, whenever possible, avoid eating food that is acid in its nature, or which by chemical action in the stomach develops acidity. Unfortunately, such a rule eliminates most foods which are pleasant to the taste as well as those which are rich in blood flesh and nerve building properties. This is the reason why dyspeptics and stomach sufferers are usually so thin, emaciated and lacking in that vital energy which can only come from a well fed body. For the benefit of those sufferers who have been obliged to exclude from their diet all starchy, sweet or fatty food, and are trying to keep up a miserable existence on gluten products, I would suggest that you should try a meal of good or foods which you may like, in moderate amount, taking immediately afterwards a teaspoonful of bisaturated magnesia in a little hot or cold water. This will neutralize any acid which may be present, or which may be formed, and instead of the usual feeling of uneasiness and fullness, you will find that your food agrees with you perfectly. Bisaturated magnesia is doubtless the best food corrective and antacid known. It has no direct action on the stomach, but by neutralizing the acidity of the food contents, and thus removing the source of the acid irritation which inflames the delicate stomach lining, it does more than could possibly be done by any drug or medicine. As a physician, I believe in the use of medicine whenever necessary, but I must admit that I cannot see the sense of dosing an inflamed and irritated stomach with drugs instead of getting rid of the acid—the cause of all the trouble. Get a little bisaturated magnesia from your druggist, eat what you want at your next meal, take some of the bisaturated magnesia as directed above, and see if I'm not right."—Advertisement.
