Body of Young Man Buried 44 Years Found Well Preserved

Placed in Metal Casket at Time of Death in Missouri and Brought to Mennonite Graveyard at Ringgold

Special to The Telegraph. Waynesboro, Pa., May 19.—The Telegraph last week told of the removal of bodies from the Mennonite graveyard at Ringgold to the Green Hill Cemetery, Waynesboro. Among the bodies removed were those of the parents and brother of B. Frank Barr, of this place. The body of the brother, Abraham Barr, Jr., was found in a remarkable state of preservation. Young Barr died in Mexico, Md., forty-four years ago, when he was 18 years old. His death was due to cramps and was very sudden. His body was enclosed in a heavy metal casket and sent east for burial. In February, 1870, it was buried in the graveyard at Ringgold. B. Frank Barr was present when the casket was taken out of its grave and expressed a wish to see the body. With some difficulty the metal lid was removed from the casket and the glass covering was sufficiently cleaned to permit of seeing through it. The face and upper portion of the body were viewed and were found in excellent condition. There was the undisturbed fullness of cheeks and face and all the clothing was as when it was put in the casket more than forty-four years ago. A little of the hair was missing from the forehead of the head and the mouth was slightly opened. The upper teeth could be seen by the lower ones had apparently dropped out. The necktie and other dress of the youth were in very good condition. The bosom of the shirt was adorned with some colored embroidered flowers and these were still very distinct. Some people who knew the young man when he lived here saw his remains in the casket and recognized the features.

The Fra Says--

"When you tell me of your wonderful invention and want to sell me stock in your company, just bring me a snap-shot of the man who is going to manage your concern, as well as a list of what he eats and drinks, the hours he sleeps, and how he exercises both his body and sky-piece.
