Paxtang Park to Be Thrown Open Tonight

Paxtang Park will be thrown open to the public this evening. For several weeks a large force of men has been working hard to put everything in shape for the coming season. Those who have already visited the park are unanimous in pronouncing the big playground more beautiful than ever.

The park theatrical season will open on Monday evening with Beck's Minstrels, who will play the park the first three days of the week for the benefit of the Firemen's Union convention fund. The park management has donated the theater to the firemen and the gross receipts will go into the fund.

The minstrels gave two performances at the Majestic this winter and were considered the best amateur organization that has appeared in Harrisburg for a number of years.

The regular park vaudeville season will open on Thursday, May 28, with a line of attractions entirely new to park theatergoers.

Many Want to Hear Annual Bach Festival

The sale of single tickets for the Bach festival to be held at Lehigh University on May 29-30 opens Thursday, May 21, at the A. C. Huff music store, Bethlehem. Seats of all kinds may be obtained there up to the opening day of the festival, when the sale will be transferred to the ticket office on the university campus. The demand for course tickets has been unprecedented.

The states from which orders have been received up to this time include Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey, Massachusetts, Connecticut, Maryland, District of Columbia, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois, Michigan and Minnesota.

Chicago has some of its music-lovers numbered among those who will attend the coming festival. The 900 singers of the choir are rehearsing with a proficiency and zeal that surpasses anything of former years. The choir members are eager for the great task that has been set before them, the rendition in its entirety, solos as well as chorus numbers, of the Mass in B Minor. There are rehearsals of some sections of the chorus practically every day.
