COUNTY WILL NOT BE MUCH DELAYED

State Officials Preparing the Way For Active Work on the Computation

Preparations to facilitate the count of the vote of Tuesday's primary have been made at the department of the Secretary of the Commonwealth where the official returns of the primary vote for State-wide candidates must be filed, just as are the official returns of a general election. The official count of the votes cast was commenced yesterday at every county seat in Pennsylvania and owing to the comparatively little vote it is the hope of State officials that there will be no delays such as marked the computation of last year's primary. Separate tables have been prepared at the department for the candidates for each nomination and it is the idea to make a count at the close of each day so that information can be given. It is recognized that it will take the official count to determine nominations for some of the State-wide offices, notably Congress-at-large and the Supreme Court, and as rapidly as possible the returns will be recorded and computed. Whether the returns of all counties will be in hand to permit certification of election of members of State committees so that they can meet on June 3 is a matter of considerable conjecture. The State committees will elect chairmen and adopt resolutions which will constitute the platforms of the parties. The meetings of practically all of the State committees will be held in this city. The manner in which the primary law works out will be closely observed as it is expected there will be numerous efforts to amend it next year.

PROBABLY NOT

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your children trouble you in this way. Don't blame the child—the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Spend Your Holiday on a Western Ranch

Out in the ranch country of the West, around Sheridan Wyoming, or in the Big Horn Basin of Wyoming, where Buffalo Bill founded the town of Cody, the practice has grown for the good ranch people there to provide for summer boarders and I don't know any more interesting and pleasurable way of spending one's vacation with the wife and children, than to go out on one of those ranches, and ride and fish for trout, (great fishing out there) and eat good, plain, substantial food, and sleep—my, how one does sleep after days spent exercising in that wonderful mountain air. This "Ranch Vacation" is a novel idea, but very easy to accomplish, for I can tell you all about what you can do and how to do it and what it will cost and what you can get and all about it. Just write and let me suggest a plan for you to follow. Wm. Austin, General Agent, Passenger Dept., C. B. & Q. R. R. Co., 826 Chestnut St., Philadelphia. —Advertisement.

Pretty Co-eds Cook on Electrical Cottage Stove

An example of the extent to which electric-service companies will go to interest the public in the uses of electricity is very carefully brought out in the following. On one of the most prominent and accessible corners in Lexington, Ky., the local central station company has just recently opened up what it terms "The Electrical Cottage." Large advertisements in the Lexington papers and circulars were sent out by mail inviting the people of the city to make the cottage a downtown convenience and meeting place. The house contains several rooms and is furnished with a complete electrical kitchen, while the other rooms of the house have all other electrical conveniences. Demonstrations are in charge of girl graduate of the local Harrison school of applied electricity, assisted by the junior class of the domestic science department of the Kentucky State University, which is in Lexington. Every day at fixed hours cooking is done and the finished products are served to those who come to see. One feature of the exhibition which is attracting much favorable attention is the electric burglar alarm displayed in the bedroom.—Electrical World.
