MEAT CAUSE OF KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts to flush Kidneys if Back hurts or Bladder bothers

If you must have your meat every day, eat it, but flush your kidneys with salts occasionally, says a noted authority who tells us that meat forms uric acid, which most paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the blood.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, and makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink.—Adv.

If you knew these player-pianos they would not last till Saturday

Copyright, 1912, by Stone & McCarrick, Inc.

WHEN we infer that these player-pianos would be sold before Saturday, if you but knew them, we do not have in mind your having a knowledge of the player-pianos themselves: That is, a knowledge of the woods and felts and strings and keys all their physical parts.

But we have in mind what you can accomplish with them. If you knew the ease with which you could play these player-pianos; if you knew the real pleasure and satisfaction you would get out of one:

If you knew, that seated at one of these player-pianos, you could, within a single week, get better results than the average piano student can upon a piano, after years of practice;

If you knew, Mr. Business Man, that with one of these player-pianos you could get completely away from the grind and worries of business;

If you knew that you could play all your favorite tunes;

If you knew that the whole world of music would be opened to you;

If you knew that over eighteen thousand of the world's best musical compositions were available for your playing;

If you knew that you could master the musical works of the greatest composers;

If you knew that in your player-piano there was solace for every mood and music for every occasion—we say, if you knew these things, then there would not be a single one of these player-pianos left by Saturday.

You would bring in the five dollar initial payment necessary to secure one, to-morrow morning. Yes, you would sit right down now and send in the five dollars by letter, advising us to hold one for you until you could come in and make your selection.

These player-pianos cannot be replaced by anything you can put in your home, that will give you so much pleasure and satisfaction. Dozens of persons have told us this.

Through this co-operation Sale, you can purchase one of these player-pianos at a saving of one hundred and fifty-five dollars: think of that.

You can buy one for three hundred and ninety-five dollars now, while the usual price, here in this city and all over the country, is five hundred and fifty dollars.

It will be delivered at once; just as soon as you make your selection and pay your initial payment of five dollars.

Your regular payments are then only two dollars a week. By these easiest of easy terms you thus have 195 weeks to pay the balance of three hundred and ninety dollars, and when this amount is paid, you are through.

There are no dues, or interest, or extras, or bonus to be paid afterwards—to run the price up forty or fifty dollars more.

The whole plan upon which you obtain one of these player-pianos is big, broad and liberal.

You do not take a single chance. Every possible risk has been eliminated.

They are guaranteed without reserve. You can exchange within a year. Your unpaid payments will be cancelled in event of your death, and you have a month's time to try it in your home with the privilege of "calling the deal off" and getting your money back.

With all these privileges, and liberalities and safeguards in mind, we want to ask you a fair question. Can you afford not to put one of these instruments in your home in view of their infinite source of pleasure and entertainment to every member of the family?

RANDOLPH KEIM IS DEAD AT WASHINGTON

One Time Editor of the Telegraph and Organizer of City Zouaves

Washington, D. C., May 25.—Funeral arrangements for Randolph De Benneville Keim, aged 75, of Washington, and Reading, Pa., for some years one of the best known Washington correspondents, were completed here to-day. He died at a local hospital yesterday. Burial will be in Reading to-morrow afternoon. Mr. Keim was one of the last of the newspapermen who reported battles of the Civil War.

Randolph De Benneville Keim was well-known in Harrisburg, having been editor of the Telegraph for several years. He was organizer and first commander of the Harrisburg Rifles, afterward the First City Zouaves, formed in April, 1861, directly following the opening of the Civil War.

He was connected officially in Washington for many years and was also identified with the Reading Times, residing in Reading for some time. He was an authority on historical subjects and prepared several books for the government by direction of Congress. Mrs. Keim, who was formerly very prominent in Daughters of the American Revolution circles, and a daughter survive.

Stork Wins in Race With Double Burden

Following a suggestion of President Judge Kunkel this morning, Lewis J. Brown left the courtroom with Lehanna Fuller, who had him arrested, and went directly over to the marriage license bureau, got a license and were wedded.

The marriage docket incidentally was not without its color scheme after the pair had left. Brown is a coal wagon driver. Both himself and bride are negroes. Mrs. Brown's maiden name was Green.

The story in the case was another tale of how the stork beat Cupid to it. In this instance, however, the stork was doubly generous. On February 2 an heir and an heiress came to grace the newly-established house of Brown.
