

Dives, Pomeroy & Stewart

Seldom Can We Offer a Corset Value Like This June Special at $2.00

Latest news from Paris says: "Fall gowns will show a slight 'nip' at the waist." Here's an advance Nemo model showing the "nip" — the same shape that will be used in several Nemo models the coming season.

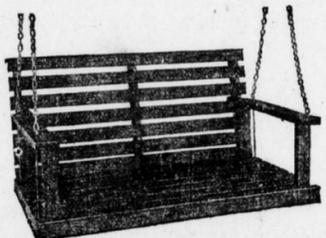

Clearance of One and Two Pieces of a Kind on the Furniture Floor

We cut prices on such pieces to prevent any large accumulation of odd chairs, rockers, broken sets, etc. These reductions represent unusual savings.

- Davenport—2 fumed oak Davenports; $49.00 value, at $24.50
Rockers and Chairs—1 imitation leather rocker; $15.00 value at $7.50
Tables—1 golden oak hall table; $19.50 value at $9.75
Serving Table—1 mahogany serving table; $35.00 value at $17.50
Mahogany Bed—1 toona mahogany bed; $39.00 value at $19.50
Costumer—1 brass costumer; $6.98 value at $3.49
Cedar Chests—1 cedar chest; $8.50 value at $4.25
Hall Clocks—1 mission hall clock; $12.50 value at $6.25
Jardinere Stands—1 jardiniere stand; $4.50 value at $2.25
Porch Furniture—1 old hickory chair; $2.95 value at $1.48

$2.50 Porch Swings, $1.69

We have received a fresh shipment of well made and neatly finished Mission Porch Swings, exactly as illustrated. These are regular $2.50 Swings. Special $1.69

- Water Coolers—Galvanized lined water coolers with nickel spigot—1 1/2-gallon size .98c 3-gallon size $1.69
Stone water coolers—3-gallon size $1.39 5-gallon size $1.79
$3.50 original vacuum washers $2.50

Lace and Embroidery Remnants at Half

An occasion of rare moment occurs tomorrow among the laces and embroideries when you will have an opportunity to buy the season's most desirable patterns, in remnant lengths, at just one-half their actual value.

Veteran Stricken Ill While on Capitol Hill

William Blouch, aged nearly 70 years, a veteran of the Civil War, of Johnson City, Tenn., was taken suddenly ill while walking in the Capitol grounds shortly after noon to-day.

CASTORIA For Infants and Children. The Kind You Have Always Bought

Standards That Wave Father and Son Bear Tattered Flags of Nation in Parade

(Continued From First Page) fold stories of the struggle and the anguish of the fields of battle which the flags that are being carried this afternoon received their baptism of fire and were ripped into ribbons by the snarling shells that fell among their defenders.

Proudly borne aloft in the same division as the flags of the Civil War were the banners of a younger generation who carried their colors through the hot jungles and the disease-breeding, dirty cities of Cuba and Porto Rico, there also these left many comrades behind, not in the flushed glory of battle, but slowly and dimly rotting under the tropical sun.

The following associations and organizations participated in the parade: Platoon of police, chief marshal, Major-General John W. Schell, assistant marshals, Major-General C. B. Dougherty and Colonel Joseph B. Hutcheson; chief of staff, Lieutenant-Colonel Maurice E. Finney; aids, Major Fred M. Ott, Major J. Markwood Peters, Captain Edward H. Schell, Captain Owen M. Copelin, Captain Harry N. Bassler, Captain Harry H. Baker, Lieutenant Charles P. Maxwell, Lieutenant Edgar C. Hummel and Lieutenant A. H. Baldwin, Jr.

First Division—Major E. M. Vale, commanding; Eighth Regiment Infantry Band, Carlisle, Pa., and the following companies of the Eighth Regiment, National Guard of Pennsylvania: Company A, York; Companies I and D, Harrisburg; Company K, Carlisle; and Company G, Carlisle; Governor's Troop, National Guard of Pennsylvania, Harrisburg.

Second Division—John A. Fairman, Pittsburgh, department commander; the Grand Army of the Republic, marchal; Commonwealth Band, Harrisburg; members of the Grand Army of the Republic from Eastern and Western Pennsylvania.

Third Division—C. R. Lantz, of Lebanon, marshal; Steel Band, Steelton, Pa.; members of posts comprising the Central Pennsylvania Association, Grand Army of the Republic, Spanish-American War Veterans; Spanish-American Foreign Service Veterans; and the Sons of the American Revolution.

Fourth Division—Lieutenant C. F. Gramlich, marshal; aids, Samuel P. Town, J. H. Holcomb, William H. Green and John N. Reber; Soldiers' Orphan Industrial School Band, of Scotland, Pa. This division was composed of the battle flags of Pennsylvania, carried by representatives of the respective regiments.

Children in Songs One hundred and fifty children will sing with band accompaniment. These children are picked from the city schools and have been trained for a month. The songs are "Pennsylvania," "Battle Hymn of the Republic," "America" and "Pennsylvania's Battle Flags," a hymn specially written for the occasion by Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones, of Harrisburg.

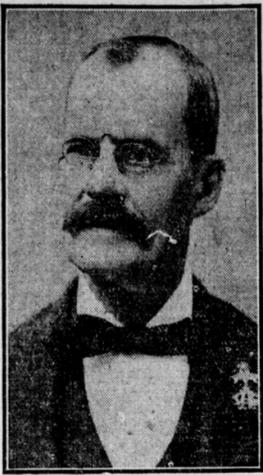

Senator Franklin Martin, of Cumberland, chairman of the commission in charge of the flag transfer, will preside. Governor K. T. Toner will make an address and Mayor Joseph Veale, of Philadelphia, will deliver the oration. The Rev. J. Richards Boyle, Rev. chaplain of the Loyol Legion, St. Peter's church, and the Rev. M. L. Ganoe, chaplain of the State Grand Army of the Republic, will pronounce the benediction.

The duties, therefore, which devolve upon the committee in charge, is indeed an important one, since the flags thus to be transferred constitute precious and priceless possessions of the Commonwealth.

"It is proper, too, that by fitting public ceremony the committee should conduct those exercises and that a day and date should be selected for such ceremonies, when throughout this and the following day people of the nation are paying tribute to the flag of their country. Speaking for the State, as I may, it is with great pleasure I welcome you to Harrisburg, the seat of the government, and not only do I welcome you, but sincerely thank the veterans of the blue who are gathered hereabouts, and who at so much sacrifice have attended and by their presence and service made possible the complete success of this undertaking.

There are soldiers here who have followed the flag they now carry, into fiercest battles and on to victory. The flag of our country was, we are told, first designed and wrought in Pennsylvania, and never changed in its essential features from that day to this. It is a flag respected by all nations, a flag as emblematic of the people's patriots and institutions as is the sacred cross of the Christian world—a flag that has never gone down to the dust of defeat. Let us, therefore, protect and preserve those precious, though tattered emblems as we shall ever honor and revere the memory of those brave men who defended them.

More than fifty years ago, when the dissolution of the Union was threatened, soldiers of the South, followed their flags of Stars and Bars, while men of the North clung to Old Glory. From that day to this no emblem is so precious to an united nation as the dear old Stars and Stripes. An orator upon the occasion of the fiftieth anniversary reunion said to the veterans who were gathered there assembled, and speaking of our national emblem: "It was your flag and our flag in the closing days of the revolution. We had no quarrel then, for we stood side by side in grim and successful resistance to our common oppressor. It was your flag and our flag when we marched upon the Mexican Capitol. Grant and Lee supported it then. It was your flag and our flag when you raised the Stars and Bars; but we continued to hold and to cherish it, not alone for ourselves, but for you. Then came the war with Spain. Again it was your flag and our flag, the flag of Dewey and the flag of Wheeler, fighting together as patriots and countrymen. And now, when we boast of a reunited country, more rich and more powerful than ever, and with no nation on the face of the globe, it is

Francis H. Hoy, Senior and Junior, Carry Standards That Passed Through Iron and Fire and Smoke of Two Wars

Father and son, Francis H. Hoy and Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried two of the tattered battle flags in to-day's procession which marked the transfer of the banners of the nation to the brand new specially constructed cases in the rotunda of the Capitol.

But the fact that the standard-bearing right was kept in the family, as it were, isn't the really significant part of the story. Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Francis H. Hoy, Senior and Junior, Carry Standards That Passed Through Iron and Fire and Smoke of Two Wars

Father and son, Francis H. Hoy and Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried two of the tattered battle flags in to-day's procession which marked the transfer of the banners of the nation to the brand new specially constructed cases in the rotunda of the Capitol.

But the fact that the standard-bearing right was kept in the family, as it were, isn't the really significant part of the story. Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Both father and son served under the very flags they carried. Francis H. Hoy, senior, actually bore the colors when that act was fraught with grave possibilities—when the sight of some crimson and white stripes and a few stars in a blue field above the smoke and flashes of fire and the roar of the war-time days remembered the stirring times of half a century ago.

Francis H. Hoy, Jr., carried the banner of the Third Pennsylvania in the late unpleasantness with Spain. He served with distinction through that war.

The senior color bearer is the newly chosen vice-commander of the Department of Pennsylvania, Grand Army of the Republic, who served with Company A, One Hundred and Twenty-seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers, the First City Zouaves, and who later was color bearer for the Two Hundred and seventh Pennsylvania Volunteers.

Elk Program Tribute to the Stars and Stripes

Impressive and interesting flag day exercises will be observed at the home of Harrisburg lodge, No. 12, B. P. O. Elks, to-night. In introductory exercises will be in charge of Exalted Ruler W. K. Meyers and officers of Harrisburg lodge. Following prayer by the chaplain there will be a patriotic song. Past Exalted Ruler Percy T. Grubb will give a record of the flag of our country. W. Hartman will sing a solo. The esquire and officers will erect a large floral bell, with ritualistic exercises. After the singing of "Pennsylvania," Past Exalted Ruler Horace A. Segelbaum will give the Elks' tribute to the flag. Harry R. Looser will play a violin solo and the address of the evening will follow. It will be given by Hon. Frank B. McClain, Lancaster lodge, No. 134. The exercises will close with singing. Refreshments will be served to the ladies.

Rabbi Deplores Lack of Respect Shown Flag

At the services at Temple Ohay Shalom Rabbi Freund delivered an address in which he made a plea for a greater respect to the flag. He said: "This day will occur the transfer of the standards from our State Library to the rotunda of our State Capitol. They will be proudly borne by men who have grown hoary in the service of their country. They are mute reminders of the struggle of five decades ago and of our more recent settlement of difficulty with Spain. Tattered and torn, battle marred and stained in blue, giving us the stars and stripes, the flag of our country, guarded and guided by the God of nations. It is right that occasions such as these should make us pause, to become cognizant of our need to show a constant respect for the flag. America is a young nation. We do not feel ourselves bound by age-long traditions. Our people imagine that with liberty they possess they can say and do what they please. After the recent Tampico affair, we saw cartoons in some of the newspapers and heard remarks from some stage platforms that did not at all times reflect the proper respect for the flag. We must reverence the flag because of the thing for which it has stood in the past and which it yet typifies. Things which so on in our country are not possible in some of the countries of Europe. The flag bears a attitude is manifested because in many instances the sacred things of life are regarded too lightly by us and we are not serious minded enough. If we expect others to respect our flag, then we must first respect it ourselves."

Old Color Sergeant Was in Only 34 Fights

C. G. Mallin, of Ridgway, Elk county, carried the flag of the One Hundred and Eleventh Pennsylvania Volunteers during the War of the Rebellion with a record. He was in thirty-four engagements, including the Battle of Gettysburg. First Sergeant Mallin was his title and he was color guard at the Battle of Antietam.

Scarcely one hundred members of the One Hundred and Eleventh live to tell of the awful slaughter during the days of the War of the Rebellion. Sergeant Mallin is the walking historian of this regiment and his tales are thrilling and interesting. Following the second day's battle, Sergeant Mallin slept five days in the rebel army. A stone wall separated him and his companions from the "rebs."

In order to get a place to go to sleep Sergeant Mallin had to dig a hole and make the dead body of a rebel.

The "Old Wild Cat" With this command was another famous fighter from Elk county, Corporal James Penfield, a member of Company H, One Hundred and Fifty-first Regiment, known as the "Old Wild Cat" regiment. It was a regiment of real fighters. They came from the lumber districts of Elk and Jefferson counties and the men were rugged woodsmen.

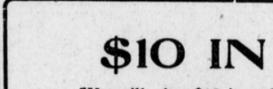

Corporal Penfield was color guard and to-day carried the old flag of his regiment, which went through many battles. Corporal Penfield was wounded twice. One ball went into his left thigh and as was shot through the collarbone. His first wound was received at Spotsylvania Courthouse, May 12, 1864. He was in the siege of Richmond and Petersburg and also witnessed the surrender of General Lee. Corporal Penfield told many thrilling tales of his career during the War of the Rebellion.

Spanish War Veterans Hold Banquet Tonight

Forty members of the Governor's Troop, Pennsylvania Volunteer Cavalry, Spanish-American war veterans, will banquet to-night at Hotel Duquesne after participating in this afternoon's parade.

Bring Your Kodak Films to Us

For developing and printing. We specialize on photo finishing for amateurs.

29 N. Second Street, Room 10.

FOR WATCH OR CLOCK REPAIRING

or adjusting, jewelry cleaning or repolishing, take it to SPRINGER The Reliable Jeweler

206 MARKET ST.—Bell Phone Diamond Setting and Engraving.

$10 IN GOLD

We will give $10 in gold for the best letter of 50 words or less, describing our store orders. All letters must be submitted on or before June 16, 1914.

We reserve the right to print prize-winning and other letters submitted in the contest. Contestants desiring full information can secure same by calling, writing, or phoning to

WILSON PROTESTS TO BUSINESS MEN

[Continued From First Page] Simmons, the head of the company, had been selected for a member of the Federal Reserve Board and his nomination was to have gone to the Senate to-day. This morning it was announced at the White House that Mr. Simmons had declined the place and that Charles S. Hamlin, of Boston, now an assistant secretary of the treasury, would be nominated in his place. White House officials emphatically denied, however, that the circular letter sent out by the Simmons Company had any connection with the declination of Mr. Simmons.

Another circular letter made public purported to have been sent out by the Pictorial Review Company, of New York, and was signed by W. P. Ahlert as president. It was dated May 31 and enclosed a draft of a letter "which embraces the views of a majority of the thinking business people of our section of the country and which should be addressed to the President of the United States, the Congress and members of the Interstate Commerce Commission respectively." The letter concludes:

"If you prefer to use copies of the enclosed letter we will mail you as many as you can conveniently use. It will be more effective, however, if you write them on your own letterheads.

The form letter attached was an appeal for postponement of trust legislation and a 5 per cent. freight rate increase for the railroads.

A copy of a circular telegram containing the contents of the form letter in condensed terms was attached.

Not since President Wilson made his charge of "an insidious lobby" in Washington to influence tariff legislation has there been a sensation of such a sort in official circles. News of what the President has said and of the giving out of the circular letters spread quickly to the Capitol, where it became the subject of animated discussion in both houses of Congress.

The letter purporting to have been sent out by the Simmons company was dated June 9, which was after Mr. Simmons had been offered a place on the reserve board. This letter was not given out for publication with the others.

THE TEMPTING SALAD

Salads in one form or another seem to be in demand during the month of June than any other season of the year. For weddings, parties and receptions the salad is among the most popular dishes to serve. We have celery, shrimp, lobster, cold chicken in glasses, and Royal and Durkes mayonnaise dressing. S. S. Pomeroy, Market Square Grocer.

SALT RHEUM Cured by Saxo Salve

New York City.—"For 24 years I suffered with Salt Rheum and the itching was terrible. I suppose I spent $75.00 or more for soaps and ointments of all kinds without relief—but I have been entirely cured by Saxo Salve and recommend it to all sufferers."—W. H. OSBORN, 1039 Orden Ave., New York.

If you can't cure your skin trouble with our Saxo Salve and Saxo Soap we will buy back the empty tube.

Geo. A. Gorgas, Druggist, Harrisburg, Pa.—Advertisement.

Bring Your Kodak Films to Us

For developing and printing. We specialize on photo finishing for amateurs.

29 N. Second Street, Room 10.

FOR WATCH OR CLOCK REPAIRING

or adjusting, jewelry cleaning or repolishing, take it to SPRINGER The Reliable Jeweler

206 MARKET ST.—Bell Phone Diamond Setting and Engraving.

$10 IN GOLD

We will give $10 in gold for the best letter of 50 words or less, describing our store orders. All letters must be submitted on or before June 16, 1914.

We reserve the right to print prize-winning and other letters submitted in the contest. Contestants desiring full information can secure same by calling, writing, or phoning to

YINGST ELECTRICAL CO. 1423 THIRD STREET

ELECTRIC LIGHT IS NOT A LUXURY

You can not make any such excuse to your wife; it is a necessity—an absolute necessity during the hot weather, and very convenient in cold weather. Let us install the wiring, while the weather is good. We will guarantee not to soil paper or plaster, and conceal all wires. We will leave the home exactly as we found it. No dirt, and carpets all in place. This is our motto.