

HUERTA GUNBOAT GUERRERO DEFEATS GUNBOAT TAMPICO

Constitutionalist Vessel Beaten by Federal Ship; Perhaps Sunk

HUERTA HAS NOT RESIGNED

Says Arrest of Carranza Officers All Mistake; Situation Remains Unchanged

By Associated Press

Washington, D. C., June 17.—The Huerta gunboat Guerrero defeated and probably sunk the Constitutionalist gunboat Tampico near Mazatlan, according to a report to-day from Rear Admiral Howard.

The naval battle was witnessed by the United States ships New Orleans, Perry and Preble. No details were reported.

A long dispatch was received at the White House from the American delegates at the Niagara conference which, officials said, did not change the situation. Beyond expressing the view that there was hope of the ultimate success of the mediation, officials did not comment on the situation.

The engagement took place last night off Tonolobampo and word came to the Navy Department early to-day. Some of the crew of the Tampico were rescued by the New Orleans, which had accompanied the Guerrero southward yesterday.

The report that the Tampico was sunk had not been verified, but it was certain she was badly disabled. This is the second time the Constitutionalist warship has suffered at the hands of the federal navy.

The Tampico is nearly twice the size of the Tampico and her ordnance is at least 50 per cent more powerful. The Guerrero was built in England by Vickers-Maxim in 1909 and was a vessel of 1,880 tons, with six 4-inch guns and two 3-pounders.

Both vessels were designed as combination gunboats and transports to meet the peculiar needs of Mexican waters.

BLIND SINGER IS FOUND DEAD ON COUCH WITH POISON NEAR

Card Tells of Disappointment Over Man to Keep Farewell Engagement

Oakland, Cal., June 17.—Miss Helen Mesow, a soprano singer, was found dead on a couch in her apartment here early to-day. The cause of death has not been determined.

A physician said that a spoon found in the bathroom smelled strongly of a quick-acting poison.

On a table near the couch was a card bearing the name of W. C. Dohrmann, an Oakland real estate agent. The card contained this penciled message:

"Helen: Six p. m. Wanted you to come to dinner this evening as it is our last night—W. C. D."

Mrs. E. Stone, of Melrose, an aunt of Dohrmann's, said that she and Dohrmann left the note at the apartment Sunday. "Our last night," she said, meant that Dohrmann was leaving town for a while.

Miss Mesow was well known as a singer. She was educated in the California Institute for the Deaf and Blind and at the University of California. Afterwards she continued her vocal studies in Paris.

Driver of Auto Who Fails to Heed Signal, Cause of Trouble

By Associated Press

Champaign, Ill., June 17.—Count Johann Von Bernstorff, Ambassador from Germany to the United States, narrowly escaped death to-day when a special policeman fired pointblank at the automobile in which the Ambassador was being driven to the commencement exercises of the University of Illinois.

The shot went wild and was not effective. Count Von Bernstorff was riding to the campus from the railroad station. He was escorted by Arthur Meeker, of Chicago, in the latter's automobile. Dr. David Kinley, vice-president of the University, and Dr. Ewart Boutelle Greene were also in the machine.

As the car neared First and University avenues, Michael Murphy, a merchant policeman employed by neighborhood businessmen, held up his hand as a warning signal.

Murphy was not in uniform and the chauffeur paid no attention to him. Apparently angered at the inattention, Murphy fired one shot at the automobile.

40 Witches in Harrisburg Says Alleged "Sorcerer"

Warrant Out For Gentleman Who Has Line on These Weird Beings and He Can't Be Found

"Why, there are forty witches in Harrisburg, and I know them all," is the expression said to be frequently used by Washington Stout, who lives in a queer little house out in Pleasant View, brews herbs and, according to those who believe in such medieval stuff, deals in the forbidden woods of the black art.

It is a far cry from Salem days to modern conditions, but apparently Stout still finds those who believe in what he tells them.

However he struck a snag this week when Mrs. Lillian Miller, a widow living at 627 Peffer street, caused his arrest as a sorcerer. Roll back the scrolls about 500 years for this little drama, please.

But no, despite its anachronism, the suit has been entered in Alderman A. M. Landis' court in the Sixth Ward. The trouble is they can't find Wash. Neighbors on Pleasant View way say that he and his wife were seen leaving their home dressed in their best yesterday morning. So Constable Johnson's hunt for him has so far proved unavailing.

TENTH HOGESTOWN SHOW PROMISES TO BE BIGGEST EVER

Thousands of Farmers For Miles Around Gather at Big Head Woods

Big Head Woods, Hogestown, Pa., June 17.—With all of the cattle tents, swine pens and horse stalls, the tenth annual Hogestown Horse and Cattle Show got under way this morning. The event this year seems to surpass that of former years, both as to the number of entries and the quality of stock.

Although the name of the attraction would indicate that only cattle and horses are here, the show takes in everything found on the farm, one of the interesting exhibits being poultry.

Dozens of fowls are sheltered in a spacious tent on the hillside and when judging was started in that department the judges declared that only on rare occasions is a collection of birds of such quality found. Then, too, butter and eggs, as products of the farm, are on exhibition. Pure white eggs, brown eggs and speckled eggs, and the real pure country butter are shown in glass cases.

The exhibits this year come from farms in the territory between Dillsburg, Lewisberry and Goldsboro on the south, on the north to the top of North Mountain, and east of the borough limits of Carlisle to the Susquehanna river. However, registered stock may be entered from any place and will be exhibited in the registered class.

Judging Starts

Judging started this morning at 10 o'clock, all of the exhibits being in their respective positions an hour before. The judges viewed the cattle, sheep, hogs, poultry and eggs to-day, rations determined and that he hoped the show would be expeditious.

PATERSON, N. J., WILL "BURY THE HAMMER" AND BANISH "CHRONIC KNOCKER"

Paterson, N. J., June 17.—On the site of the proposed new rapid transit station in the heart of the city Mayor Fordyce and members of the Board of Trade were prepared to-day to carry out an elaborately arranged ceremony to mark the passing of "knocking" in Paterson. The chief feature of the program is the burial of "the hammer" borne to its grave by six horses and followed by a procession at the head of which will be the chief mourners, "an old pessimist," "chronic knocker," "habitual grouch" each fashioned out of straw for distribution over the grave.

The ceremonies were decided upon some time ago when the Board of Trade recently organized, decided that Paterson had sustained heavy business losses due to an undesirable notoriety, frequently helped along by its own citizens.

Harrisburg Police Chief Tells Convention How Town Was Made Clean

SAYS DEPARTMENT NEEDS CIVIL SERVICE SYSTEM

Explains How Fakirs, Pickpockets and Their ilk Are Driven From Streets

Police chiefs from all over the United States and Canada in convention at Grand Rapids, Mich., to-day learned how Harrisburg's vice district was cleaned up in a week's time.

The information was given by no less a person than the man who did that very thing right in this city not so many months ago—Colonel Joseph B. Hutchison, Harrisburg's chief of police.

Colonel Hutchison says that public sentiment in Harrisburg demanded a general cleaning up of the vice district and he states that he and the local force did the cleaning up and did it right. He says:

"We had a self-made redlight district—a district without police regulations; but nevertheless a segregated district. But they are gone. The whole business was put out of business in about a week's time. The Chief then explained that the district was cleaned up in the face of an overwhelming public demand; that arrests were made in some instances, and that most of the effective clean-

President Rea Here to Testify in Lease of Northern Central

President Rea testified to the Pennsylvania's ownership of a majority of the stock of the Northern Central for fourteen years, prior to which it had owned 48 per cent. of the shares. He further stated that the two railroads had been administered by the same officers for forty years, and that the Northern Central had always been regarded as a part of the Pennsylvania's system and could not very well be an independent road. In 1910, the year when the lease was drawn up, fully two-thirds of the gross revenue of the Northern Central was from traffic derived from the Pennsylvania, and of 449 miles of railroad the Pennsylvania had a direct operating interest in all but 140. The Pennsylvania had aided the Northern Central in crises and the reason for the lease was given that the time had come when the two properties should be under single management, financial and operating.

Manufacturers Who Help the Other Fellow

"The wise manufacturer realizes that whatever helps the retailer helps himself" — says a business writer.

That sentence hits the advertising nail squarely on the head. When a manufacturer advertises his goods in a local newspaper he is not only helping every dealer who has his goods, but he is inviting others to "stock up."

"The turn over on the dealers' shelves is nearly renewed orders for the manufacturer.

Manufacturers interested in enlarging their market are invited to address the Bureau of Advertising, American Newspaper Publishers Association, World Building, New York.
