

Women and Their Interests

IS LOVE CLAIRVOYANT?

By DOROTHY DIX

At every marriage, louder than the strains of the wedding march, is the whispered murmur of the audience...

Whether love is clairvoyant or blind nobody knows. Sometimes it sees beauties and graces in the object of its choice...

The first question he asks about every woman who is brought to his notice is "is she pretty?" On the street he has ever a roving eye to single out the living pictures that pass by...

most show girls in them. To hear him talk you would believe him the slave of Venus, and you would be convinced that no woman who did not possess all of the twenty points of female loveliness would have a chance to catch him as a husband.

When you meet his wife you find out to your amazement that he has picked out quite an ordinary looking little person that nobody would ever turn to look at in a crowd, and it leaves you wondering if the professed Judge of good looks was hypnotized when he married, or if he married for an unearthly beauty of soul and spirit invisible to the casual observer.

In the same way you often see a peculiarly brilliant man who is the devoted husband of a woman with an intellect like a hen's. To every one else she is a transcendent bore with her silly chatter whose whole gamut only reaches from kitchen to nursery and back again.

But the man apparently is satisfied with her. He gives no sign that he even sees how dull and stupid she is, or is aware of the blunders she makes.

Undoubtedly most women are cheerful liars when it comes to telling what they think of their husbands. Every woman until she begins to think of a divorce pretends to herself and to the world that she has married a Prince Charming and that he is the handsomest, wisest and most chivalrous man in the world. Making due allowance for this commendable wifely duplicity, most of us have been astounded at finding that some women did think her most ordinary looking, commonest husband a perfect Apollo and a fascinator that had only to whistle to make every woman he met get up and follow him.

This is why wives are almost universally jealous. They do not see their husbands as the human shrimps, or animated beer kegs they look like to other women. They always see their husbands as figures of romance that any other woman would be justified in grabbing if she could.

God gave women, as a consolation prize in life, a transcendent power of imagination so that they could always wrap their husbands and children in so many swathings of the pink chiffon of fancy that they'd never really get a good look at them as they were. No woman ever loves a real man. She worships her ideal and she never can get on loving a man, no matter how middle-aged and bad-windowed, and bald he gets, is because the circumstances of a man's life makes him practical and face facts so that his wife can't see his while the woman goes on dreaming to the end, and never sees her husband as anything but the godling she fancied him in her youth.

But nobody can explain the vagaries of love. It is like a great light held so close to the eyes that it blinds us and again it is like a searchlight that penetrates into the secret recesses of a soul, and shows us its hidden treasure chambers.

THE DARK

The dark came as a comforter. For I was tired of day. I slipped my working robe and sped into her arms to play.

She bathed me in the springs that ran from a cool crystal sea. And with a waving peacock fan She soothed the heart of me.

She told me tales of pine groves deep, Of cold snow nights of moon. She rocked me to the drowsy hum Of bees a-swarm in June.

My thoughts they wandered agile, far, Like children on a beach. The gleams, the cares, the frets of day Dropped far beyond my reach.

Far off my airy spirit sped, While in the street below People intent on nothingness Rar, chattering to and fro! —Laura Benet in The Smart Set.

Miss Fairfax Answers Queries

FAR TOO YOUNG

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am a girl sixteen years of age and am considered very pretty. I have lots of admirers, but the only one I can care for is a man who is forty-four years old. He is very nice and has lots of money. He loves me and wants me to marry him, but he has a daughter who is my age, and she asks me not to marry her father. He also has three children younger than this girl. Don't you think I would make a charming little girl-wife for this man?

Mills, Ia. H. D. G.

I think it is absurd for a girl of sixteen to be thinking of marriage, and I think it tragic that a man of forty-four should dream of marrying such a baby as you. In a few years when this man's daughter is just entering on the verge of young girlhood will you be satisfied to be settled down as the head of a home? Give up the idea of such a marriage.

YOU MUST FORGET HIM

Dear Miss Fairfax: I am a pretty girl of nineteen, and am in love with a man one year my senior. We have corresponded with each other for quite some time, but lately he has stopped answering my letters. I was in New York, and through his mother I was told he cares for a girl in Brooklyn that he knew for some time. I must win back his love, as I cannot live without him. Please tell me should I write again to him, or should I write a letter to the girl and beg her to give him back to me?

Bridgeton.

The human heart is not a commodity that can be handed around from hand to hand. I am very sorry, my dear girl, but if this man has found a new love or returned to an old one, there is nothing for you to do but forget him. You can do it. But the other girl cannot make you a present of a fickle fancy that has tired of you.

Skin Diseases Often a Mystery

The Right Treatment Will Solve Worst Problem

The key to unlock the mysteries of eruptive skin affections is S. S. S., the famous blood purifier. If you will write for a splendidly illustrated book "What the Mirror Tells" you will learn why and how S. S. S. causes new skin and tissue to replace the afflicted spots.

Now, when S. S. S. enters the blood it is carried throughout your body in about three minutes and its most active work takes place in the skin. Here it puts into motion the process of preparing all impurities into a substance that is promptly expelled through the skin pores. This process goes on day and night, all eruptive conditions cease; the old skin disappears in the form of invisible vapor or perspiration. Don't fail to get a bottle of S. S. S. today and write for the valuable book to The Swift Specific Co., 103 Swift Building, Atlanta, Ga.
