Patton Says That There Will Be Thirty Republican Congressmen Elected in Fall

PALMER DISTRICT SHAKY
Nothing Hopeful for the Faction Torn Democracy in This Year's Battles

Nothing could be in sharper contrast than the manner in which the leaders of the Republican and Democratic congressional campaigns are approaching their work. The Democrats instead of paying any attention to Chairman Morris' appeals to line up and increase the Democratic representation as a security to build up fences in order to keep what they have and some of them are not expressing any great hope of being able to do that.

Over in the district now represented by Palmer it is an open secret that the Democratic split may lead to a Republican congressman, as it did some eighteen years ago. Palmer, on the storm coming and got out into a wider field with a Cabinet place at the end in case he goes down. In the Sixth, Eighth, Seventeenth, Nineteenth, Twentieth and Twenty-second districts there is no longer any doubt that the Republican nominees will defeat the Democrats who won by accident in 1912.

The Philadelphia Inquirer says, today in a dispatch from Washington: "Representative Charles E. Patton, of Curwensville, Pennsylvania, a member of the national Republican congressional committee, in a statement to-night, predicts that the Republicans will elect thirty of the thirty-six members of the Pennsylvania delegation in the next House. He not only claims the seats now occupied by Progressives, but at least five of the districts now represented by Democrats."

"These are the Nineteenth, the Twenty-second, the Sixth, the Eighth, Seventeenth and Twenty-third. Mr. Patton also claims that the Twenty-sixth district, now represented by Mitchell Palmer, Democratic senatorial candidate, may be swung into line for the Republicans. He believes that the fight within the Democratic party between the Mutchler and Palmer factions may so divide the party that this erstwhile Democratic stronghold may be redeemed."

The Ledger says: "The Republican candidates for Congress will meet early next month, either in Harrisburg or Philadelphia, to prepare for the most thorough congressional campaign Pennsylvania has had in years. The candidates probably will name a committee to write a platform, which either will be issued by them as a separate declaration of principles or be embodied in the State platform."

Up in Schuylkill folks are saying that the Progressives propose indorsing the Republican nominee for Congress, Robert D. Heaton, of Ashland, an exceptionally strong candidate. If this is done it will give the Democrats a livelier prospect for the present congressman, Robert E. Lee, of Pottsville, is a candidate for re-election. If there is a consolidation of the Republicans and Progressives, Heaton it will prove the greatest political coup in Schuylkill county for years.

RECKLESS DRIVING IN STEELTON TO STOP

Mathias was struck. Speeding Must Stop

As a result of this accident Burgess Fred Wigfield has issued orders to the borough council to take drastic measures at once to check the reckless and reckless driving along Front street. Within the past two weeks there have been two deaths along this street from automobile accidents. Little Ethel Scott, a Harrisburg girl, was instantly killed at Front and Gibson street and Mile Kogonjich, an Austrian, was killed at Front and Pine streets. A number of narrow escapes of pedestrians and several serious accidents resulting in near fatalities have incensed the residents of the borough so greatly that there is talk of private citizens starting prosecutions if the police fail to act.

Burgess Wigfield announced a few hours after the accident that in the absence of traffic ordinance he intended to enforce the State law in regard to speeders. He has ordered Patrolman Pearson stationed at Front and Franklin streets; Patrolman Jones at Front and Adams; Chief Longaker at Lorain and Front; and Patrolman Trombini at Front and Mohr streets.

Will Watch Speeders
These officers will take their assigned places this evening when the speeding is usually the worst. They have orders to arrest every motorist who fails to keep within the speed limit or who violates the law in any other way. Motorcyclists and bicyclists, who fail to sound their horn or bells, or who fail to have lights, will also be haled before the courts. "I intend to make an example of the first offenders who are brought before me," said the burgess this morning. "This recklessness must stop."

"If councils won't give me the additional men that I ask for to give the taxpayers protection then I shall use what patrolmen I have in policing Front street and will leave the other parts of the borough without protection."

3,863,593,282 FISH EGGS DISTRIBUTED DURING 1913

Washington, D. C., June 27.—There were 3,863,593,282 fish eggs and fish of all species distributed during the fiscal year 1913 by the Bureau of Fisheries, according to a report today. Of this number 5,610,000 were sent to foreign countries. The bureau's output of fish and eggs increased over that of 1912 by 175,672,225 or 4.76 per cent, despite the fact that the number of eggs collected exceeded by only 54,543,843 or one per cent the collection of 1912.

Conservatism in Banking

Q A bank's business is taking care of other peoples' money. And the safeguarding of that money is its paramount consideration always.

Q The bank receives money and gives receipts therefor. It pays out that money in stated sums on the depositor's signed orders---checks. It renders to the depositor as often as requested an accounting of its work for him. It employs clerks to do this work. And for this service it receives no compensation.

Q But a bank must make money to exist. So it sets to work a portion of the money that is entrusted to its keeping.

Q This employment of such money may take the form of loans on commercial paper, first mortgages, or other securities. For its use the bank charges the user and divides its receipts from such sources with the depositors in interest-bearing accounts, terming such payments "interest."

Q In setting to work the money with which it is entrusted, "safety first" is the bank's all important consideration. It is obliged to return to the depositor dollar for dollar placed in its keeping. It must, therefore, make certain that there will be returned to it, just what it advances, or the equivalent thereof.

Q And that leads to conservatism in banking, a condition oftentimes termed "arbitrary" by those failing to secure from the bank the financial assistance sought. Yet these same people seem to forget that the bank is safeguarding other folks' money, as they would have it safeguard theirs.

Q Conservatism in banking leads to soundness. And it is the sound institution to which you most prefer to entrust your money.

Q The officials of this institution were chosen for their knowledge of general conditions---for their integrity---and for their ability to minister its affairs in a manner that insures protection to its depositors.

Q It is your privilege to consult with them as often as you please. If you have money which you would like to invest yourself, or which you desire this bank to invest for you, you will find the management of this institution ready at all times to give you the benefit of its knowledge and experience in such matters.

Q And just remember that its advice is unbiased, unprejudiced, and impartial. The bank's sole interest is to promote your success. For upon your success hinges the success of the bank.

Civic Club to Incorporate So That Flemming Home May Be Accepted

A charter for the Harrisburg Civic Club will be recommended at a meeting of the club at the Young Women's Christian Association rooms Monday morning at 10 o'clock. In accepting the recent bequest of the Flemming mansion the Civic Club will be on safer grounds, technically, if incorporated, and according to some interpretations of the law it may be necessary for them to incorporate. For that reason the application for a charter will probably be favored at the meeting on Monday and obtained through its attorney, John Fox Weiss.

New Water Plans and Propellers Will Be Given Test on America

By Associated Press
Hammondsport, N. Y., June 27.—The Rodman Wanamaker trans-Atlantic airship is being equipped with new water planes, which, in the opinion of her builders, will make the hull plane as great a load on the water as the wings can carry through the air. A new propeller is also to be tried on the America. The blade is the invention of a Buffalo man, who claims more efficiency for his propeller than can be obtained from any now in use. The blade will be tested on other machines and the two propellers designed for use on the America will be attached on their arrival from Buffalo, probably on Monday.

If the new blades give fifty pounds more thrust than the propellers now on the America, as their maker asserts will be the case, they will be used on the trans-Atlantic flight. They are made entirely of metal and weigh thirty-two pounds each.

Atlantic Fleet Will Not Remain in Pacific

By Associated Press
Washington, D. C., June 27.—Secretary Daniels in a statement early to-day announced that the ships of the Atlantic battleship fleet which will lead the international naval parade out of Hampton Roads for the opening of the Panama canal next month would return from the Pacific coast to Atlantic waters after participating in the Panama-Pacific Exposition ceremonies. The statement was issued because the Secretary said reference by him yesterday to the Navy Department's plans regarding the forthcoming exposition had been misconstrued as an announcement that the fleet would be sent to the Pacific coast and there remain for a long time.

JOHNSON AND MORAN BOTH CLAIM VICTORY

wins to-night he will win by strength, skill and better generalship."

"It will be a tough fight while it lasts but I do not think it will last long. I cannot figure that it is going to last twenty rounds. I am in the best condition of my career and naturally do not expect to be the loser."

Expected to Be Battered
The Pittsburgh fighter added that whether he won or lost he expected to be battered.

Much interest is displayed in Moran's style in the ring which is not so well known as that of Johnson. The white fighter said his plan would be a cautious effort to win and he did not expect to effect a knockout by a chance swing. He declared he believed the longer he could draw out the fight the better his chance would be for getting in decisive blows.

Moran asserted that he felt the responsibility rested on him of representing the white race. His four sisters in Pittsburgh to-day sent him an encouraging message while an uncle who is dying in Ireland wrote him a farewell letter in which he said he had prayed for his victory.

The crowd at the arena to-night will be in full dress, as Parisians regard the match in the same way as they would an important night at the opera. The reservations made to-day included a great many for women.

Appeal Issued
The French management to-day issued a public appeal to spectators of the fight not to allow their enthusiasm to go beyond proper limits and made an especial request that no attempt be made to give advice to the referee, no matter what might be thought of his decision.

It was said this morning that Moran would enter the ring weighing just under 195 pounds while Johnson would weigh 210. The articles contained the reservations made to-day included a great many for women.

Johnson slept eleven hours last night. After being massaged this morning he ate four soft boiled eggs stirred up in a bowl of bread and day leasurly. About noon he drove from Asnières into Paris to meet his wife.

Moran slept soundly for ten hours in his training quarters. His breakfast was two boiled eggs and rolls, after which he took a leisurely morning walk. He was in high spirits especially when he found in to-day's mail a letter from Alderman Joseph Clancy argument to councils next Tuesday was arranged for last night; and committees also were appointed to consult with other residents of the section. It is said that all but a very few of the persons living in that neighborhood, one of the best in the city, will join in the protest. Nearly all of the objectors will make a personal visit to council.

It is put forward by the residents that the city will sooner or later have to open the street and that it can now do so at far less expense than by waiting. One of the residents last night said that twenty years ago an ordinance had passed council for the opening of the street, but that a telegram to the then mayor from the holder of a mortgage on the property had caused him to veto it.

Other statements attacking the silk mill owners—not, it was explained, as inimical to them either personally or as opposed to their business projects—were to the effect that the mill was paying its labor less than in Patterson, N. J., and for that reason its threat of moving was regarded as a bluff.

"The lack of good executives is true in all departments of business and all vocations. The thing that is wanted both in church and state is executive ability."

(By Associated Press)

Mexico City, June 27.—General Joaquin Maas, commander of the government troops at San Luis Potosi, arrived here yesterday to confer with President Hureta and Minister of War Blanquet on plans of defending San Luis Potosi against the Constitutionalist.

General Luis Medina Barron and the remnant of his troops, who evacuated Zacatecas, arrived safely at Aguascalientes yesterday.

Minister of War Blanquet said it was untrue that the Federal garrison at Cuernavaca was bottled up by Constitutionalist. He added that General Ojeda, who left the capital a few days ago with a strong column, was expected to arrive at Cuernavaca at any moment to assist in repulsing Constitutionalist who had been attacking the town.
