The irritation was worse at night and I would not get any sleep. I lost twenty-five pounds in weight and was almost out of my mind with pain. No matter where the irritation came, at work or on the street or in the presence of company, I would have to scratch until I had the blood running down my face and neck. Machine Owned by Carlisle Man Injures Women and Children at Mechanicsburg

While waiting for his return the car, driven it is said, by Bosler's companion, Arch Ruggles, came out of the driveway at the National Hotel, and intent on changing gears and making the curve to cross the trolley tracks, he ran into the carriage on the opposite side of the street in front of M. K. Sultzberger's grocery store. Spectators were horrified to see the occupants of the carriage all tossed out as the impact of the car lifted the vehicle and, hurling it to the side, crushing the wheels and breaking the shafts and single-tree. People immediately ran to the assistance of the unfortunate ones. One little girl was thrown directly under the horse and escaped with nothing more serious than bruises and cuts. A boy, pitched forward on his head, received severe scalp lacerations. The others were uninjured beyond bruises and shock. That the accident was not more serious was due to the fact that the car was not going fast and that the horse was not frightened. He was not tied and through all the excitement remained perfectly quiet. The crash,
