INSPECTION DATES ARE MADE PUBLIC

Adjutant General Stewart Announces the Names of Regulars Who Will Inspect

General orders were issued from National Guard headquarters yesterday giving the details of the inspection of the organizations in their camps this year, the announcement having much interest because of the changes in the Guard. The organizations comprising the four brigades will be inspected in their respective camps as follows: First, Mt. Gretna, August 13; Fourth, Mt. Gretna, August 14; Second, Indiana, July 23, and Third, Selinsgrove, July 22.

The other details are as follows: Fourteenth Infantry at Indiana, July 23. Separate Battalion, Infantry, at Selinsgrove, July 22.

Governor's Troop, Sheridan Troop, Troop I, K, L, and M, cavalry, at Selinsgrove, July 22. In order named: First Squadron, cavalry—place and date to be arranged, and during practice march.

Troops F and H cavalry, Field Company A, Signal Corps, and Battery B, field artillery, at Indiana, July 24. Batteries C and D, field artillery, at Mt. Gretna, August 13.

Field hospital No. 1, at Indiana, July 24. Companies A and B, engineer battalion, at Belvoir, Virginia, during joint camp; date to be arranged.

All organizations will be paraded for inspection in olive drab cotton service uniform, with web cartridge belt and cartridge belt suspenders, and without gloves. The inspection will include personal appearance, condition of clothing and arms. The field and staff, band and hospital corps, will be inspected in front of regimental headquarters at the hour designated, and the several companies of the organization will be inspected in their company streets from right to left immediately following the inspection of the hospital corps. The inspection of books and papers, with the exception of enlistment papers, will be omitted. The inspection of enlistment papers will be made on the same dates as the troops are inspected, and will be under the supervision of Lieutenant Colonel David J. Davis, Adjutant General's Department.

Old War Drum Presented to Lancaster Public School

Special to The Telegraph Marietta, Pa., July 13.—Among those who answered the first call for troops in the Civil War was Frank Haines, of the Lancaster Fencibles, who used a drum during the first three months' service. He afterward became a member of the First Pennsylvania Reserves, in which regiment he saw hard service. In the battle of Antietam the top of the drum was broken by a shell hitting it, and Haines repaired it. After the close of the war the drum was given to Post No. 405, G. A. R., and now the Duke street school boys of Lancaster will get the drum for use in the school.

A CHANCE FOR THE INVENTIVE

Recent ocean tragedies have drawn public attention anew to the urgent need of ampler provision for the preservation of life at sea. It was expected that the treaty projected as the outcome of the International Convention for the Safety of Life at Sea would have been negotiated without delay, and that travelers would have had the benefit of the increased safeguards proposed to be established. But even the most desirable reforms are tardy in the realization. At the present moment a lively discussion is going on in England regarding the Empress of Ireland disaster and a variety of ingenious contrivances are suggested for use in sea-going passenger steamers. One of these is a life raft composed practically of the entire upper part of the quarter deck, which can be quickly detached from its mountings, and which would easily accommodate both passengers and crew. Another is a series of rafts, smaller and more mobile, formed of the deck superstructures of the cabins and so arranged that they can be quickly released and launched on two sides of the vessel simultaneously. Joseph Conrad, the well-known author, who has made a life study of the sea, makes a strong plea for an equipment of cork fenders on all passenger lines. He believes that their prompt use would have averted the disastrous collision between the Empress and the Storstad and a thousand lives might have been saved. It is true that the transportation lines do not sell safety, but a comfortable passenger cabin and so arranged that they can be quickly released and launched on two sides of the vessel simultaneously.
