DEPRESSION ROBS BOND HOLDERS

They will receive none of the interest due August 1, 1914, on the Central Iron and Steel Company's first mortgage 5 per cent. bonds due 1925, since it has not been earned. "Your committee has made several earnest efforts to have made reorganization or sale of the plant, but so far has been unable to accomplish anything definite, although at the present time the receipts of the company are pending which may develop later. "Your committee made a visit to the company's plant in the month of June and found it, in their judgment, to be in excellent physical condition, reflecting careful and painstaking management on the part of the receivers. It is apparent that the property has not been allowed to depreciate and that it is evident from the results obtained in the past that a very small increase in prices for finished steel plates would show the interest charges on the bonds covered by a surplus for betterments and improvements."

Six Single Light Standards Will Be Placed on Bridge

Better lighting facilities will be provided for the Marley street bridge by the placing of half a dozen single-light standards on the top of the great girder railings. This plan was agreed upon following a conference between Robert W. Hoy, commercial manager of the Harrisburg Light and Power Company, Harry F. Bowman, superintendent of the department of public utility, and Pennsylvania Railroad officials. The lamps will be distributed three on a side at equal distances over the bridge, at the entrances and about the middle of the bridge. The brighter light, it is believed, at the darker portions of the structure. The question of whether or not the presence of the new electric globes might be disturbing and perhaps dangerous to the passing trainmen was a ticklish one for a time, but this was finally adjusted by the decision of the railway company to instruct trainmen to locate definitely the position of the lamps in such a way as to not permit them to interfere with the others. This will not be particularly difficult at that, because the lights will be placed in positions must at variance with the other lights.

A FINE COMPLEXION

A girl's complexion is something more than a matter to concern her vanity. It is an indication of the state of her health. Pallor in a growing girl means a thinning of the blood. Eruptions mean impurities in the blood. Parents should be watchful of their daughters' complexions, and should see to it that these danger signs are corrected as early as possible. When a girl in her teens becomes pale and sallow, especially if, at the same time, she shows an inclination to tire easily, to become nervous and impatient to her work or studies, she needs Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, a tonic which directly and specifically corrects the condition from which she is suffering. A chemical analysis of the blood of such a girl would show it to be deficient in just the elements that Dr. Williams' Pink Pills can supply, but the physical signs are plain. Every girl should read the chapter on "Chlorosis" in the free booklet, "Building Up the Blood." It tells just what to do and gives directions regarding diet, exercise and rest. The girl with a mucky complexion should have the booklet, "A Dainty Laxative," which tells about Pinklets. These booklets will be sent free on request by the Dr. Williams Medicine Company, Schenectady, N. Y. Your own druggist can supply Dr. Williams' Pink Pills.—Advertisement.

FIRST PULMOTOR BABY A YEAR OLD

In fact—but whisper this—Laird wears rompers built for a two-year-old; and these are getting too small. And he's as happy and full of ginger as a kitten chasing a ball of yarn. Yes, indeed, Laird is some lively boy. Of course, he doesn't know that he will have passed 365 days as an inhabitant of a world in which apparently he was reluctant at first to stay. But now he certainly appears to like it pretty well.

When Laird was born a 7-minute race in an auto and the prompt application of a machine that induces artificial respiration saved his life. This machine is called a pulmotor and that's why Laird is known as Harrisburg's first pulmotor baby. As soon as the attending physician telephoned to the Gas Company's office and explained that he wanted the pulmotor at once—they use the machine in cases of asphyxiation—there was a rush to an auto, and in the time mentioned the instrument was applied and for twenty minutes artificial respiration was induced.

But he doesn't need it now, never. But look at this picture. It's not a recent one by several months—but it tells its own story at that.

STRIKE OF MOVING PICTURE EMPLOYEES ENDS IN TRUCE
