

MADAME CAILLAUX COLLAPSES DURING READING OF NOTES

Accused Woman Had to Be Carried From Room and Hearing Was Suspended

Paris, July 25.—Madame Henriette Caillaux soon after she was brought into court to-day for the sixth day's hearing of the charge of murdering Gaston Calmette, totally collapsed when the reading began of the letters handed in by Mme. Gueydan. She was carried insensible from the court. The sitting of the court was immediately suspended amid great uproar.

As soon as the court had opened to-day, Maitre Labori began reading some of the Gueydan letters. He remarked when he took up the second one: "In this you will find burning love, but nothing indecent as common rumormongers have reported."

In the letter M. Caillaux sent the present Mme. Caillaux before his divorce from Mme. Gueydan, he referred to the happiness he would feel when he could "press a million kisses over your dear body."

Crying Bitterly While the reading was going on, Mme. Caillaux, with her head bent low, was crying bitterly. Her sobs could be heard all over the courtroom.

Then with a sigh she fell prostrate to the floor. Two Republican guards standing near raised her and carried her out of the chamber.

The four judges at once rose from their seats and Judge Albanet announced the suspension of the hearing.

Challenge Issued A challenge to a duel was sent to-day by Judge Louis Albanet, presiding judge of the court trying Mme. Caillaux, to Judge Louis Dagouy, one of three other judges sitting on the bench with him.

The quarrel between the two judges arose out of an incident which occurred at the palace of justice late last night. The nature of which could not be ascertained.

The seconds appointed by Judge Albanet are General Jules Dalstein, former military governor of Paris, and Emile Brunet de Labori.

When the discussion concerning the reading of Mme. Gueydan's letters seemed to be going unfavorably for the defense, Maitre Labori, presiding judge, announced that there would be a recess. The Figaro affirmed to-day that Judge Dagouy then said in low tones: "Tu dishonor us, sir."

Figaro Causes Break The judges, after going into their private rooms during the recess, announced to-day that they had accepted the challenge.

Weakened and discouraged over the failure to overthrow President Zornoz, the revolutionists appeared to realize the futility of further attempts. Officials here held out the hope that the Haitian government would be able to restore order without American intervention.

Testimony showed that excelsior had been carried to the cellar of the restaurant as late as Sunday morning. No clue was found to show how the fires started.

Ever indignant, most always grumpy, sometimes cussing, canoeist, hist.

You can go over to-day and take that swim in the smooth, soft water which swim in the smooth, soft water of the bay—unhindered, uncussing.

The boom built there this week and which on Thursday night was cut away—remains cut away. The water flows gently through the passageway and the canoe can glide through and reach the nice stretch of water between the two islands much the same as did Mr. Lo years ago.

This, now, is the history of the boom, the boomers and the withdrawn application. Protests of more than fifty canoe and boat owners against the maintenance of the boom were

Washington, D. C., July 25.—Word still was awaited here to-day from Paul M. To Regulate Auto Traffic in the Market Street Subway

Patrolmen in District Will Give Special Attention Passing of Cars Around Vehicles

From to-day on, the patrolmen in districts that include the Market street subway will give special attention to the regulation of motor traffic at that point.

Colonel Joseph B. Hutchison, Chief of Police, issued particular orders to-day to restrict the passing by automobiles of other vehicular traffic in the subway. Sharp lookouts for other violations of the traffic ordinance are to be kept at the Police Department intends to make arrests.

Mayor Royal has had many complaints about this particular violation of the traffic laws—the passing of other vehicles in the subway by too hasty motorists. Reckless driving has also been reported. "One of these days," said the Mayor, "there'll be a serious accident in the subway and I propose to fine heavily any person who violates these orders."

Colonel Hutchison said he hasn't enough policemen to keep a patrolman constantly on duty just at the subway, but he has instructed the day and night men to keep a sharp lookout there and to keep in that proximity as much as possible.

BUSINESSMEN OF CITY NOT SO YOUNG AS THEY USED TO BE

Arnica Popular, but Honest to Goodness the Picnic Was Worth It All

If you meet a member of the Harrisburg Chamber of Commerce to-day who looks as though he had aged ten years over night, don't be alarmed; his condition is only temporary. He may be physically just a wee bit the worse for wear, but his spirit is all right.

The reason? Well, some hundred or more of those who attended the Chamber's annual and very delightful outing at Inglenook clubhouse yesterday afternoon and evening thought they were "just as young as they used to be" and went the very limit in baseball, quills, foot races and kindred sports. This morning they awoke to the fact that the fleeting years do not sit so lightly as they seem and that there is indeed much virtue in arnica and witch hazel.

Among the list of wounded: Robert Wadsworth, nose torn and knobby nicely peeled; Edgar D. Hilleary, feelings hurt and wind badly jammed; R. G. Nixon, spirits dampened by perspiration; Frank Oyster, two little fingers busted; D. J. Raker, temporarily ruffled by umpire's decision; Frank Hall, heart failure while receiving

More Than 1200 Here From Shippensburg on Annual Excursion

Shippensburg folks to-day came down to Harrisburg to spend the day. It was the annual excursion from that town and more than 1200 filed on two special trains. The first arrived about 8 o'clock and was made up of eight cars. The second had ten cars.

The visitors will leave for home to-night at 10 o'clock. They spent part of the day looking over the Capitol. Many went to Patrons and Hershey parks. Others visited the big story and a large crowd took in the baseball games at Island Park this afternoon.

Near "Mashing" and Similar Conduct in Parks Must Cease

"Disorderly conduct of every description in the city's parks MUST be stopped!"

Mayor John K. Royal issued that emphatic edict this afternoon following the hearing of George Eyster, who was arraigned before the Mayor by Park Officer George Greenbaum. Eyster was charged with having been noisy and boisterous in the park at Front and Herr streets last night.

Friends who rallied to Eyster's defense complained about what they considered unnecessarily rough handling of the prisoner by the policeman. Mr. Greenbaum they contended even went so far as to grab Eyster by the coat collar and to lock his wrists in chains when the youth resisted arrest. Some who said they saw the scrap between officer and prisoner said to-day that they may urge formal action against Greenbaum.

Mayor Royal pointed out that complaints of insults to women, etc., by would-be mashers and other disorderly characters had not been infrequent and that these annoyances must be stopped. He discharged Eyster with a vigorous reprimand.

Imitation Is Flattering

Nothing so testifies to the merit of standard articles as the extent they are imitated.

An army of "me toos" and "just as goods" flock after the trail of the standard.

Wise readers never offer the imitations when the real articles are called for.

It is not so considered business ethics or a wise policy.

There is larger profit in selling the imitations but they do not build business.

They disappoint and the public loses confidence in the store that sells them.

The quality of the trademarked articles advertised in the Telegraph from day to day is the kind of quality that makes reputation for the merchant who sells them.
