

ANOTHER HARD WEEK FOR COCKILL'S CREW

Reading Here For Two Days; Then Comes Another Trip; Saturday's Game

By "Ump"

With the hope that his crew will have a stronger hold on first place at the close of the present week, Manager George Cockill is urging his players to continue their good efforts.

Reading was the attraction this afternoon. Izy Hoffman and his team always give the Ponies a hard battle. Reading will also be the attraction at Island Park to-morrow afternoon.

On Saturday, Joe Chabek won his twenty-first victory. It was also the third victory in a week for the popular twirler. Harrisburg hit Wood and made their bingles count.

War May Prevent American Cup Races

Special to The Telegraph. New London, Conn., Aug. 3.—War may prevent the race for the American cup. A final decision is expected to-day.

The war news has caused great anxiety among the yachtsmen, and unless there is a let up in the situation it seems more than probable that the annual midsummer holiday will be abandoned to let the members get back to business.

The following dispatch from Sir Thomas Lipton who is in London: "Sir Thomas Lipton has definitely decided not to race the Shamrock IV for the America's Cup next September if England becomes involved in the general European war."

"This declaration was made to-day after the subject was discussed from various angles. The State of unrest would rob the event of all interest and charm, it was argued, on both sides of the Atlantic."

LAST WEEK OF PLAY IN KICKERS' TOURNEY

Many Players on Links Saturday; to Award Prizes Soon

Play in the Kickers handicap golf tournament at the Colonial Club links has reached an exciting stage. Many players were on the links Saturday afternoon. Men and women are interested in this series, and it promises to be of unusual interest during the final week. Play ends Saturday, August 8.

Players in the tournament have commended the golf committee for its interest, and in arranging the series. While the fall grass at times interferes with the play, members of the Colonial Country Club realize that it would be a great loss to cut the standard at this time. As soon as the fair greens are ready to cut again, which will probably be by the middle of August at the latest, arrangements will be made for qualifying and match play tournaments in the proposed fall tournament. The prizes for winners in the present series, to be awarded within the next ten days, are:

First prize for men, one Stewart McEwan professional standard golf club made to the winner's measure. Second prize for men, two Spalding Dimple golf balls. Booby prize for men, one parachute golf ball.

First prize for women, one Stewart McEwan professional standard golf club made to the winner's measure. Second prize for women, two Spalding Dimple golf balls. Booby prize for women, one parachute golf ball.

MONTAGUE CLASS

Who sprang into fame with the Potosh & Permuter Saturday Evening Post stories, furnishes a very delightful comedy, "Mrs. Buffington's First Case." This popular writer's first picture will please the most fastidious for in all of his writings, the humor is very pronounced. Little Mary Pickford appears to-day with Arthur Johnson in "All on Account of the Milk." She appears every day at the Photo-play in a new picture, during the months of August and September. Lucille Love at the Palace.

LUCILLE LOVE AT THE PALACE

After her humiliation in the eyes of the man she loves, and after failing to secure the information she sought to secure by eavesdropping on Loubeque in the cafe, Lucille returns to her hotel crestfallen and without hope.

By previous arrangement, Hadley was to communicate with Loubeque by carrier pigeon and arrange for a definite meeting place. As Lucille sat at breakfast the pigeon bound for Loubeque's room, was attracted into Lucille's window by the crumbs upon the table. Thompson, the crook-butler, steals into Loubeque's room. Lucille enters with the intention of dragging Loubeque out and making him speak. Loubeque has heard some one behind his curtain, and then begins to search for his spy. Lucille is watching from the fire escape. She watches Loubeque swing around on the butler and disarm him. Loubeque then telephones the police that there is a thief in his room.

Thompson tells him that he will tell the police all. Thompson awaits his chance, and attempts to kill Loubeque, who is too quick for him, and shoots him. He drags Thompson's body out of his room and into Lucille's room.

In the meantime the girl has entered Loubeque's room and begins searching for his papers. The police enter and arrest her as a thief. While this is happening, however, Loubeque discovers that Lucille has been arrested in error. He at once communicates with the police and instructs them to release Lucille, as she was not the thief, and was arrested in error. Lucille is set free.

AT PAXTANG

The vaudeville bill at Paxtang for this week will be headed by an oriental novelty acrobatic and magic offering called the Kuma Japs. This Japanese troupe introduces magic as well as acrobatics in their work and sorcery with illusions from the Far East that always mystify a white audience are promised. The Kuma Japs have been a big hit in their tour of the circuit and Manager Davis expects them to be one of the big attractions of his park season. The Roy Dooley Trio, an act well known to local theater patrons, will be seen on next week's bill. The comedy skit billed as a conglomeration of vaudeville. The Dooleys present one of those singing, dancing and rapid-fire talking stunts that is full of ginger and good comedy. They do all well. Restino, the latest Italian accordionist, to make a real big musical hit on the vaudeville stage, will also be a feature of the coming show at Paxtang.
