NEWS OF TOURISTS RELIEF TO FRIENDS

Harrisburg People in European War Zone Send Cheering Messages

Much to the relief of their friends a cablegram came last evening from Dr. Charles B. Fager, Jr., principal of the Technical High School, who with Mrs. Fager and his mother, Mrs. C. B. Fager, of Walnut street, have been abroad since the last of June.

Take Evening Dinner at Cold Spring Cottage

A favorite summer resort, not too far from the city to be easy of access, is Cold Spring cottage, with Mrs. William McClure the hostess, at Williams Mills.

Among the dinner parties of the week was one last evening, including Dr. and Mrs. James Edward Dickinson, Mr. and Mrs. Henry B. Montgomery, Mrs. Mabel Cronise Jones, Mrs. William A. Hester, Mrs. Arthur H. Batley, Mrs. Samuel F. Dunkle, Miss Mary Hanlen, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin J. Deceve, Mrs. John N. McCulloch, all of this city.

Williams Grove Campers Hide Along the Creek

One of the bright moonlight evenings of this week a merry party of campers at Williams Grove enjoyed a long hike along the Yellow Breeches creek. After returning to the grove they were served with refreshments at the Grove Hotel.

The party was chaperoned by Marvin Swanger, of Mechanicsburg, and included Frances Totmale, Pauline Wolfe, Katherine Wolfe, Frances Sawyer, James Kimp, Elwood Swanger and Benjamin Wolfe. Games and dancing were enjoyed until a late hour.

Children's Party For Miss Helen McHenry

Ten little folks enjoyable spent the evening at Orwell cottage, Williams Grove, where Elwood Swanger gave a party in honor of Helen McHenry, of Philadelphia, who is staying several weeks at the Grove Hotel. They enjoyed themselves playing games on the lawn and in the cottage, and were also entertained by Miss Frances Sawyer, of the Onoka cottage, with ghost stories and other weird tales.

Refreshments were served to the following guests, who are camping at the grove: Jane Huston, Frances Tolmie, Mabel Hoke, Margaret Wolfe, Helen McHenry, Gerald Snavely, Wenden Morgensthaler, Stanley Graham, William Shellenberger, Elwood Swanger. The leading feature of the evening was the presentation of a large bouquet of roses by Elwood Swanger to Miss McHenry, who thankfully accepted them.

George W. Reilly received a cablegram this morning from Edward Bailey, president of the Harrisburg National Bank and the Harrisburg Trust Company, giving their present address as Edinburgh, Scotland.

WILL MARRY TOMORROW IN PHILADELPHIA

MISS RAE HOFFMAN—JESSE H. KREMAR

ENTERTAINS AT PERDIX Miss Dorothy H. Dyer of 223 Rely street is entertaining thirty guests to-day at her summer home at Perdix, the guests are her associates in the Sanitary Live stock commission of the State Department of Health.

KREMAR-HOFFMAN WEDDING CEREMONY

Harrisburg Young Folks to Marry in Presence of Immediate Families

The marriage of Miss Rae Hoffman, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Moses Hoffman, of 921 Penn street, and Jesse H. Kremar, a former Harrisburger, will take place to-morrow in Philadelphia, with Rabbi Raskin, of that city, in charge of the ceremonies.

Only the immediate families will be present and an informal reception will follow the service. Mr. and Mrs. Kremar will take a wedding journey through the New England States and occupy their newly furnished home in West Philadelphia after September 1. The bride will wear white satin messaline with net draperies, caught with pearls. Her tulle veil, arranged in cap fashion, will be caught with lilacs of the valley, and her bouquet will be of bride roses. There will be no attendants.

Deter European Trips Because of the Big War

Mrs. Keats Peay, custodian of the Historical Society of Dauphin county, 9 South Front street, and Mrs. Roy E. Bignall, of 133 Walnut street, who had engaged passage on the American liner St. Paul, sailing from New York Thursday for Liverpool, decided at the last minute that the trip would be ill advised for them at this time, and so they have gone to Nova Scotia for a tour of that country and the "Land of Evangeline."

William H. Bushnell, manager of the Prudential offices in this city, and his son, William, who expected to sail with the Vaterland, August 6, gave up that trip and are now in the Bermudas.

Dr. Harvey B. Bashore, of West Fairview, has received a letter from his sister, Miss Mabel Bashore, dated July 26, at Madrid, Spain, telling of the anticipated trip of her party to France, through August. Nothing was said of the war situation, which was not then alarming.

Miss Mary E. Knisely and Mrs. Harry Reilly arrived last evening at the Knisely home, Front and Maclay streets, and have been kept busy relating their thrilling experience on the Kronprinzessin Cecilie as she made her way back to this country, speeding in three days, after a four days' trip within a few hundred miles of their destination in England. The young women say that first they all felt that Captain Polack cared more for the safety of the gold he carried than for his passengers, but that later, when he had brought them all to a safe port at Bar Harbor, they cheered him as he came into the diningroom, and afterward each shook his hand and gave him personal thanks.

Friends have heard from Attorney General Bell, who is in Germany, and from State Veterinarian Marshall, who is in London. So far the Department of Labor and Industry has been unable to get into communication with Commissioner John Price Jackson, but no apprehension is felt for him.

Wild Flowers Decorate With Japanese Lanterns

A profusion of wild flowers and gay-colored lanterns decorated the cottage at Williams Grove occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson, of this city, for several weeks, where friends had prepared a watermelon feast as a farewell to them.

Old-fashioned games, cards and marches were enjoyed by Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Graham and son Stanley, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Wolfe, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sawyer, Mr. and Mrs. Mervin Swanger, Misses Pauline Wolfe, Katherine Wolfe, Mary Grove, Mary Elade, Margaret Wolfe, Frances Sawyer, Frances Tolmie, Beryl Hoffman, Elwood Swanger and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Nelson.

Will Take Movie Films of Suffrage Melting Pot

Some day next week when all the gifts have been collected for the suffrage "melting pot" and received at Chicago there will be moving picture films taken of the ceremonies as state by state the gold and silver is deposited. Mrs. Medill McCormick and Miss Jane Addams will be in charge and the scene will be one of the most interesting in suffrage history.

WAR PLANS ABROAD KEPT WELL HIDDEN [Continued From First Page] This war, one army expert said, would not be waged in the newspapers, and the public will know little of it until long after the great battles have been fought and a decisive blow struck. Army experts here are completely in the dark as to German plans for land operations in the European war. This is one of the most striking features of the war since the outbreak of hostilities. Strategists here point out that it is impossible thus far to tell whether or not the attack on Liege is the principal movement of the German forces. It is considered significant, according to such accounts as have filtered through, that the German forces assailing Liege and vicinity have not been overwhelmingly large. Three army corps have been mentioned as being in that region, but other accounts put German numbers at less. In the case of another nation, this might be accounted for on the theory of slowness of mobilization. But that cannot be advanced in the case of Germany. The theory is also advanced that Germany expected no resistance in Belgium, but if the movement through Belgium were the chief operation of the German forces, it is obvious that calculations would have to be made on meeting great resistance as soon as Belgium was traversed and the French frontier reached. The conclusion which some observers here have reached, therefore, is that Germany must be preparing to strike a terrific blow at the French line to the south of Belgium and that while attention is directed on Liege big developments are likely along the Franco-German frontier proper. Equally is there mystery as to German plans regarding attacks on Russia. Some believe the German forces will be launched in greatest number against that nation. The prevailing opinion here is that England will hurry troops to the Continent. A force of 100,000 English troops added to the French and Belgian forces at a time when quick action is essential to German success, might be decisive. FIVE BOYS ARE STARTING ON TRIP TO THE SEASHORE Among the pleasure parties leaving this city to-morrow for the seashore is one composed of five boys who will spend a week at Atlantic City taking in all the pleasures of that popular resort. The party includes Paris Rapp, Edward Gough, Fred Wyble, Edward Wallower and Lester Chard.
