Big Falling Off in Revenue Receipts For First Seven Months of Year

DECREASE WILL CONTINUE

So Believes William S. Bricker, New Collector, Who Just Assumes Office

Statistics compiled at the local office of the Ninth revenue district from January 1 to August 1, show a falling off in the use of intoxicants, tobacco, cigars and cigarettes. This decrease, in the opinion of William S. Bricker who went into office on August 1 is likely to continue as sales for August to date are below that for the same time last August. The total receipts up to August 1 were $271,860.83; for the first six months in 1913, the total receipts were $318,031.33, or a deficit of $46,170.50. Part of this deficit it is explained is due to a slightly higher tax on beer in 1913. The total receipts for the year 1911 were $393,691.10; 1912, $522,495.82; 1913, $550,728.39. The monthly receipts for the first seven months this year and for 1913 are as follows:

1913

Picture Forging of Great Steel Bar in Big Electric Sign

Installed on one of the Chicago electric light company's plants is a spectacular sign representing the forging of a hot steel bar under a converted steam hammer. The steam power having been superseded by compressed air pumped by an electric motor using central station energy. Two machine attendants are represented, one operating the control lever and the other forming the steel bar. The latter is seen to place the white-hot bar beneath the hammer, and at each blow sparks flash out realistically, decreasing in quantity as the iron cools. By outlining the connecting rod with a double circuit of the red coils. The portion of the rod held in and adjacent to the hands of the workman is illuminated with amber-colored lamps to represent a lesser degree of heat. The movements of the other workman are particularly realistic. With his hand on the throttle he moves it slightly once or twice, to make sure the hammer is operating correctly. Then he throws the wide open and allows the hammer to strike its full blow. Installed in the entire sign are 3617 10-watt tungsten lamps, 1600 of which are in the flashing portion. The total length of the display is 204 feet and the height 42 feet, the flashing portion being 55 feet wide. The magnitude of the sign is indicated by the height of the machine attendants, who are 26 feet tall.—Electrical World.

ITALY DESERTS HER FORMER ALLIES

(From the Philadelphia Public Ledger.) Italy prefers to construct its treaty obligations in a way to conserve its material interests. Had the Kingdom anything to gain by making common cause with Germany and Austria-Hungary, a way would have been found for interpreting the terms of the Triple Alliance so as to make it a hard and fast offensive and defensive compact. But Italy has everything to lose and nothing to gain by taking up arms against England, France and Russia. If the Italians make common cause with France it is possible they may recover from Austria some of the territory lost years ago, and it is probable the Italian coasts will be unmolested by hostile fleets. Even though not a single Italian soldier should enter the field, Italy should gain something if the Triple Entente is successful, when the spoils of war are divided, for a neutral Italy becomes an ally of the Entente.

ALL SOUTH AMERICA OFFERS OPPORTUNITY TO UNITED STATES

Immense Trade Advantages There; Need of American Goods Is Urgent

Special to The Telegraph
 Washington, Aug. 10.—The European war has developed such a critical situation in South America that Director General John Barrett of the Pan-American Union, in his capacity as an international officer—that is, an officer of all the South American countries as well as of the United States—makes the following urgent appeal to the commercial and financial interests of the United States:
 "As the executive officer of the Pan-American Union, the organization of the American republics devote to the development of commerce, friendship, intercourse and good will among them all, I appeal to the banking, shipping, manufacturing, exporting and importing interests of the United States to give at this moment every possible aid and attention to the critical South American situation brought on by the European war. I also ask the newspapers, I both their editorial and news columns, to give all publicity possible to this matter so that their constituents interested in this situation may be informed of their responsibility and opportunity.
 "While everybody must profoundly regret that a condition of war and the sufferings of European nations engaged in a great conflict should in any way be exploited for the selfish gain of the United States, its business interests have a duty and responsibility in this crisis which must be met even if it may bring them vast material benefits. Looking at the situation in a thoroughly unselfish way, it presents demands upon the United States from South American which cannot be neglected, but which, if responded to in the right spirit, will be enormously beneficial to South America and the United States alike."
