

WOMEN AND THEIR INTERESTS

"Their Married Life"

Copyright by International News Service.

Warren was almost asleep in the upper berth before Helen was ready to turn out the light in their state-room. She loved to travel, but was always fastidious, so it took her some time to prepare for bed. She undressed slowly and hung her traveling suit carefully on a hook, with her shirtwaist—a dark blue chiffon—beside it. Long after she was ready for sleep there were several little things to tend to: a button had dropped from her pump as she had taken it off, and she stopped to sew it on, knowing that everything would be rushed in the morning; and she was just closing her traveling bag when Warren growled sleepily:

"What on earth are you doing?" "Dear, I'm so sorry, I thought you had fallen asleep long ago," and Helen, conscience-stricken at keeping the light burning right in Warren's eyes, turned it off. She was very tired and almost asleep when she remembered that she had not put her watch under her pillow. If Warren hadn't remembered to tell the steward to call them they might overleap and go on to Boston, which would take them some time to get back. Their tickets wouldn't be good that way either. Ought she to wake Warren and ask him if he had remembered or would it be simpler to get up and find her watch and then trust to waking up? She remembered putting her watch in her bag; it would only take a moment to get it. She remembered having hung her bag over the arm of the chair, and feeling her way carefully across the room she found the chair and her bag without any trouble and felt around for her watch.

There was a faint light from the corridor shining in the transom over the door, so she wasn't entirely in the dark, but her watch certainly wasn't in the handbag. She sat down on the edge of the chair and dumped the contents out on her lap. There was a tiny purse for change, a pencil, a lip stick, a small box of Vanishes, and a handkerchief, but no watch. Helen stared blankly around the room and then at the articles on her lap. Could she have taken it? No, she had taken it off in the stateroom just a little while previous, and she had intended to put it in her bag and evidently hadn't. But where had she put it? If she lost that watch she would never forgive herself. It had been a present from her father on her eighteenth birthday. Cautiously she stood up and began to feel around on the little shelf near the window. She might have put it there. With a little gasp of relief she found it, but her fingers hit a glass, which balanced for a moment perilously on the edge of the shelf and then fell with a clatter. "Who's there?" growled Warren from his berth.

Helen was chattering from the cold and clutching the watch in one hand, she made her way back to her berth. "Haven't you gone to bed yet? That's right; stay up fussing around till all hours of the night and then grumble because you haven't had enough sleep." "Dear, I got up to get my watch. I thought perhaps you had forgotten to leave word with the steward about waking up, and I can always wake up if I have my watch under the pillow." "Of course I told the steward to wake up. Why didn't you wake me up instead of growling around and dropping things and scaring a person out of a year's growth?" "I'm sorry, dear, I hated to wake you and I thought I could get the watch without making any noise." "Huh, fine chance you'd have of finding anything in the dark without raising the dead before you got what you wanted," and Warren relapsed into silence.

She wonders About the Place Helen was wide awake now, and she began to wonder what the place would be like. "Carrie and her husband had stayed there all last season and had recommended it very highly, and Warren had suddenly decided to run up there for a week-end and see for himself whether it would be a good place.

NO-PIECE SKIRT SHOWS DEEP FLOUNCE

Indications of Width Are Found in All the Newest Skirt Models

8332 Two-Piece Skirt with Flounce, 24 to 34 waists. WITH HIGH OR NATURAL WAIST LINE.

The very newest skirts give evidence of flare at the lower edge and here is one made with a flounce at the front and plaits at the back, so giving two important features. The flounce is circular in shape and is seamed to the upper portion of the skirt. The plaits are simply laid in place and held to position by means of tape attached to the under side. The finish of the skirt can be made at the high or at the natural waist line. The model is a good one for indoor gowns and for street costumes.

For the medium size, the skirt will require 4 1/2 yds. of material, 27, 3 yds. 36 or 44 in. wide. The width at the lower edge is 2 yds. and 8 in. before the plaits are laid.

The pattern of the skirt 8332 is cut in sizes from 24 to 34 inches waist measure. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

AMUSEMENTS NEW SHOW AT COLONIAL

This is the day of the change of bill at the Colonial Theater. Three acts, all new to Harrisburg, begin a run today that will complete the week at the busy corner playhouse. John Dellmeier and company are offering a first class comedy act, Madden and Clark are experts in modern dances and Arthur is the name of a harmonica player who does some clever musical work.

Next week the Colonial will offer the Fountain Nymphs, a diving act with three girl divers. They will remain at the theater all the week. Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of next week the Colonial will give "David Copperfield" in seven reels. This is declared to be a perfect visualization of the celebrated story by Charles Dickens.

"The Greyhound" a Broadway show, will be given in five reels, with Edith Proctor Otis in the leading role. A "PROTEA" REBOOKED FOR HARRISBURG BY SPECIAL REQUEST

Most famous moving picture rebooked for Harrisburg by special request and shown to-day at the Photoplay. "Protea," the famous French character actress, plays the leading role as a spy. She has given her word to secure important military dispatches for the general and in doing so, risks her life, not once, but many times. The many sensational character changes are marvelous in the extreme. She appears one minute dressed as a soldier, only to reappear in a second as an old woman. Many times she and her companion are near capture, but her quick wit and cunning are too much for her pursuers.

Next Thursday, the "God's Decree," a sequel to "Protea," another series of transformations and surprises will be featured at this theater. Following these two features, shortly, will be shown "Protector 23." This series positively is known all over the world as the most sensational, thrilling, death-defying series of film placed on the market at enormous expense.—Advertisement.

NEVER WITHOUT SOUSA HIMSELF When the show paper goes up for a Sousa concert in the village town, and announcements appear in the local papers, the inquiry is sometimes heard, "Will Sousa be here in person with his band?" There is just one answer to that question, and all similar questions—"No Sousa, no concert." There is no guesswork in this matter. The fact is established—Sousa is the magnet, and there is no other. "What would 'Hamlet' be with 'Hamlet' left out? In a word, Sousa will not permit any affair to bear his name unless he is there to conduct it. Even the show print bears the legend, "There is but one Sousa's Band, and John Philip Sousa is its Conductor." Sousa's band, which has been the Food Law, makes it imperative for Sousa to be here with his band and Herbert L. Clarke, cornetist, who appears at Paxtang Park on August 18.—Advertisement.

AT PAXTANG Great interest is being shown by the crowds that gather at Paxtang Park in King Kelly's new balloon. It is the largest one that Kelly has ever made at the park, and there is much speculation as to what the new stunt is that requires so much carrying power. The King will use his big balloon on Friday in the performance of what he calls his multiple parachute drop.

The performance at the park theater this week is filling the big pavilion afternoon and evening. No park vaudeville show has been so well received as this one. Three acts on the bill at least could hardly be improved upon. They are the Melody Trio, Rice, Elmer and Tom, and Bennie Franklin and Tots.—Advertisement.

AT THE VICTORIA A big, four-reel film, "The Opium Smoker," is the main attraction at the Victoria to-day. A weird, sensational film, the fantasy of a mind deranged, strikes the keynote of the nature of the attraction. Two other films, "The Guiding Hand," a two-reel Thanhouser, and "The Target of Destiny" complete the program. For Friday the attraction will be "The Pearl of Punjab."—Advertisement.

PALMER WEARY OF THE BICKERINGS

Revolt in the Democratic Machine Causing More Gray Hairs to the Congressman

A dispatch from Philadelphia says that one reason why Congressman A. Mitchell Palmer, Democratic boss of Pennsylvania, favors fusion and is willing to quit is because of the revolt in his party. Democrats all over the state are up in arms as a result of the policy which he and Vance McCormick displayed in discharging the federal patronage put at their disposal. This feeling is not confined to any section in particular, but is universal, and is especially rampant in this city. Indeed, so bad do conditions look in Philadelphia that it is doubtful if the Democratic ticket will be able to hold much more than 12,000 votes here, and McCormick will be cut even worse than this because of his labor record.

A dispatch from Washington to the Public Ledger, a newspaper not unfriendly to Palmer, sums up the Palmer situation in the following manner: In less than eighteen months the leading office of Palmer has been nullified, due to the disputes about places. His treatment of his associates has made them silent enemies, who view him as a boss who rules without consulting them. It is predicted here that Mr. Palmer will be shown of power in Pennsylvania in another year. One of the Democratic congressmen said to-day that it is doubtful whether there will be a single congressman in the next delegation friendly to Palmer. Palmer will be purged out of the House and his associates say on their way out of politics unless President Wilson appoints him to a place.

Places That Figure in Daily War News

LIEGE, a Belgium border town and capital of the province of the same name, 54 miles east by south of Brussels. It is picturesquely situated on both sides of the River Meuse, the largest part rising on heights above the town on the left bank, opposite the influx of the Ourthe. It dates from the sixth century and has a citadel and twelve towers. Liege is the principal manufacturing town of Belgium. Its foundries, cream, metal and tool manufacturers being very extensive. Besides these there are important woollen mills, tanneries and printing offices. There are many fine examples of Gothic architecture, including its cathedral, the church of St. Jacques, and others, and its public buildings are mostly elegant structures. The town is rich in collections of various kinds. It has a university with a large library. The older parts have narrow and dirty streets, but these are rapidly being replaced with larger thoroughfares and handsome buildings. The town's population is 168,532. The province of Liege has an area of 1,117 square miles with a population of 883,251. Until 1815 it was an independent state, governed by prince-bishops of the German empire; in that year France included it in the department of the Ourthe but it was annexed to Belgium in 1830, excepting certain portions annexed to Prussia.

MEUSE—A European River which rises in France in the south of the department Haute-Marne and flows through France, Belgium and Holland. Its principal affluents are the Sambre, which joins it on the left at Namur, the Ourthe, which joins it on the right at Liege, at Gorkum it joins the Waal, one of the arms of the Rhine, and gives its name to the united streams. It is divided near Bordeaux into two great rivers, the one of which bends round to the north and reaches Rotterdam; the other branch continues west, and shortly afterwards branches again to the north and discharges itself into the North sea. Its length, including windings, is 580 miles. It is navigable for 460 miles, and canals unite it with the Moselle, the Rhine and other streams. The principal towns on its banks are Namur, Huy, Seraing, Liege, Maestricht, Rotterdam, Schiedam and Vlardingem.

COLMAR—A town in Alsace on the main line from Strassburg to Basel about forty miles from the former city. It is the seat of government of upper Alsace-Lorraine. The population is approximately 50,000 and the people are employed mainly in the textile industry, sugar making and machinery factories. Around the city there are rich vineyards and orchards.

Charles the First once held his Diet there. In 1476 it took part in the struggle against Charles the Bold, was taken by the Swedes in the Thirty Years War, and from then taken by the French three years later. Under the treaty of Westphalia the French released it, but again in 1673 recaptured it and dismantled its fortifications, which now serve as pleasant promenades. It passed with Alsace-Lorraine to Germany in 1871.

Don't Poison Baby.

FORTY YEARS AGO almost every mother thought her child must have PAREGORIC or laudanum to make it sleep. These drugs will produce sleep, and A FEW DROPS TOO MANY will produce the SLEEP FROM WHICH THERE IS NO WAKING. Many are the children who have been killed or whose health has been ruined for life by paregoric, laudanum and morphine, each of which is a narcotic product of opium. Druggists are prohibited from selling either of the narcotics named to children at all, or to anybody without labelling them "poison." The definition of "narcotic" is: "A medicine which relieves pain and produces sleep, but which in poisonous doses produces stupor, coma, convulsions and death." The taste and smell of medicines containing opium are disguised, and sold under the names of "Drops," "Cordials," "Soothing Syrups," etc. You should not permit any medicine to be given to your children without you or your physician know of what it is composed. CASTORIA DOES NOT CONTAIN NARCOTICS, if it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. J. W. Dinsdale, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I use your Castoria and advise its use in all families where there are children." Dr. Alexander E. Mintie, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "I have frequently prescribed your Castoria and have found it a reliable and pleasant remedy for children." Dr. Agnes V. Swetland, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is the best remedy in the world for children and the only one I use and recommend." Dr. J. A. McClellan, of Buffalo, N. Y., says: "I have frequently prescribed your Castoria for children and always got good results. In fact I use Castoria for my own children." Dr. J. W. Allen, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I heartily endorse your Castoria. I have frequently prescribed it in my medical practice, and have always found it to do all that is claimed for it." Dr. C. H. Glidden, of St. Paul, Minn., says: "My experience as a practitioner with your Castoria has been highly satisfactory, and I consider it an excellent remedy for the young." Dr. H. D. Benner, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have used your Castoria as a purgative in the cases of children for years past with the most happy effect, and fully endorse it as a safe remedy." Dr. J. A. Boorman, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria is a splendid remedy for children, known the world over. I use it in my practice and have no hesitancy in recommending it for the complaints of infants and children." Dr. J. J. Mackey, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I consider your Castoria an excellent preparation for children, being composed of reliable medicines and pleasant to the taste. A good remedy for all disturbances of the digestive organs."
