Leader Mann Criticizes Ship Registry Delay

Special to The Telegraph Washington, D. C., Aug. 27. - Criticizing the government departments for the slowness with which, he said, they were putting into operation the emergency legislation which Congress passed at the outbreak of the European war, Representative James R. Mann, the Republican House leader, read a telegram received by him from James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, in which the latter pleaded for an immediate prohibition by the President making effective the ship registry law, passed more than a week ago.

Mr. Farrell, in his telegram, said various ships of his concern, available for the overseas trade, were being held in American ports at heavy expense for further information from Washington.

"The great emergency seems to have been in Congress," said Mr. Mann. "Apparently the departments that deal with these great emergencies forget the emergency as soon as we have acted."

"We appropriated $2,750,000 some weeks ago to bring home American citizens from abroad. I have no disposition to criticize, but I wonder why we cannot get the machinery in motion so as actually to take care of the people."

Mr. Farrell's telegram said several of the corporation's steamships were loaded or ready for cargo, and that Captain Dollar and other American owners of ships now under foreign flags were in like positions.

In reply to the charge of the Republican leader that the Administration had been too slow, White House officials to-day declared the delay had been caused by the House holding up the war risk bill. It was said that James A. Farrell, president of the United States Steel Corporation, one of the firms which will transfer its ships to American registry, has sent word to President Wilson that without war risk the new ship registry law is almost useless.

Sulzer Is Boomed For Governor in New York

By Associated Press Utica, N. Y., Aug. 27. - The Progressive State conference started off to-day with every prospect of being a lively affair. A boom for ex-Governor William Sulzer to head the State ticket was heard from the speakers at the meeting. William H. Hotchkiss, former superintendent of insurance said that he would not be a candidate for the nomination for governor.

The conference decided to recommend State ticket from the top to bottom.

Colonel Roosevelt did not appear. Almost to the time of the opening the delegates were in doubt whether he would be here.

DISTILLERS TO CURB OUTPUT

Special to The Telegraph Louisville, Ky., Aug. 27. - Confronted by an overproduction of about 40,000,000 gallons of whisky, distillers of Kentucky have decided to make very little whisky for the season of 1914-15. This decision was reached at a meeting of the distillers and, as a matter of fact, each of the members of the Kentucky Distillers' Association promised to become a feature of the meeting that he proposed to make at least 50 per cent. less than in years previous.
