100,000 Austrians Are Carried Westward to Support German Wing

London, Sept. 4.—From Switzerland comes a report that nearly 100,000 Austrians are being carried westward in trains to support the left wing of the German army operating against France.

An Athens correspondent contradicts this report, stating that Austria is withdrawing her troops from the Serbian frontier to meet the Russian advance.

The withdrawal of the French government to Bordeaux was considered by military men as a most practical move, however trying it might be to the pride of the police state.

WINDMILL FORGE NEWS FROM VARIOUS POINTS OF THE COMPASS ANYTHING BUT ENCOURAGING TO THE MACHINE

Things were rather solemn about the Democratic State windmill in Market Square to-day.

First there was a pronounced movement reported from Washington to have an investigation of the campaign expenses of Palmer and McCormick, as well as of Penrose and the Pennsylvania Protective Union.

Another cause of sorrow was that Dean Lewis had seen fit to announce that he is going to Oyster Bay to see the Colonel about fusion and that he will be along with Roosevelt to New Orleans.

The Philadelphia registration was another shock, as 23 of 48 wards show 23,584 Republicans and but 2,233 Democrats.

BOWMAN DOESN'T WANT TO HURT TREES

and his office force were busy all day at the Romper Day exercises at Reservoir Park, and Commissioner W. L. Gorras, Finance and Accounts, said he had walked over the ground frequently and was thoroughly familiar with the conditions.

The Philadelphia registration was another shock, as 23 of 48 wards show 23,584 Republicans and but 2,233 Democrats.

Mr. Bowman said he did not wish to urge the carrying out of his plan until after he had acquainted Council thoroughly of the situation.

He reiterated the statement he has frequently made relative to the trees—Mr. Bowman does not intend to harm the trees or the roots, and that, furthermore, he doesn't think this need be done by the plan he has in mind for putting the pipes in the park paths.

The Commissioner of Public Safety says he doesn't believe the number of trees that had been mentioned by a tree expert in the Telegraph as liable to be harmed by the proposed pipe line, but he doesn't believe there is anything like that number of trees along the way, said Mr. Bowman.

From the pumping station down to Washington street Messrs. Lynch and Bowman strolled this morning and the latter pointed out his route. The line, as Mr. Bowman wants it, will extend down the outer path from North to Market.

As to the roots of the trees "Won't the roots of some of these trees stand along this path surely be injured?" Mr. Bowman was asked as the party walked down through the park.

"No, I don't think so. The trench will be only four feet deep." "Do you mean that isn't deep enough to harm the roots?"

"Yes; I don't think at that distance the roots that will reach amount to anything that will be harmed." "Suppose you should happen to strike some large roots?"

"Then we'll go under or over them. This is done and means to see that it is done. This is followed where we happen to strike sewer pipes in laying water pipes."

"How about the grass and the possible damage by wagon wheels?" "My plan is to back the wagons in on the grass on broad planks so that the grass will not be harmed."

Mr. Bowman pointed out that the line diagonally from the path nearest the western street curb to the path nearest the eastern curb, and the river bank. Then the line will extend down to Mulberry street, and this can be done, Mr. Bowman thinks, without harming any of the trees.

At Mulberry street the pipe line will go through the subway on the outside of the newly asphalted front street and up the slope to within five feet of the western street curb.

At first the two commissioners looked at the main path through the middle of the park. Fine old trees tower and arch above this walk.

"My, this is certainly a splendid park," observed Mr. Lynch. "I don't think Harry, you know, safely extend your line down this path without hurting these great trees."

"That isn't my plan. This is a fine park," said Mr. Bowman, "and while I don't think Harry, you know, safely extend your line down this path without hurting these great trees."

"The life of the House Connections At Mary street Mr. Lynch called attention to a water plug. "How about these connections with the houses?" he inquired.

"Oh, I let you fellows go on and talk about the necessity for tearing up the street to make the house connections," smiled Mr. Bowman, "but this line is intended as feeder to the big mains."

"When you do have to make house connections, when the present ones are worn out, won't it be necessary to tear up the street again?" Mr. Bowman was asked.

"How long have the present pipes been down?" Mr. Lynch wanted to know.

"Well, I know approximately, but not definitely," said Mr. Bowman, "but I don't think there's anything wrong with them now."

BIG RIVER CARNIVAL PLANS CAN BE MADE

Improvement Contractors Confident Work Will Be Finished by End of October

There is no doubt now that arrangements for the big river carnival of 1915 can go forward during the winter.

All the contractors on the work along the river, including the dam, are making good progress and the Stucker Brothers Construction Company confidently expect that the work on the wall, steps and walk will be completed by the end of October.

They are now rushing that section between "Hardscrabble" and Maclay street, and as soon as there shall have been some filling the final step in that particular section—the construction of the wide granolithic walk—will be started.

Considerable filling material must still be taken from the low water line near the wall and the steam shovel is at work in the vicinity of Peffer street.

Much of the heavy refuse, like oil stumps of trees and large rocks, will have to be removed by the use of wagons.

The work between Herr street and the pumping station at North street is rather more difficult and is not progressing as rapidly as in some other sections. There will be considerable fill necessary here back of the wall and it is expected this will be placed within the next week or two so there may be no delay on the construction of the steps.

The same headway has been made on the section between the pumping station and Walnut street, although a little more slinger has been displayed there during the present week. Practically all of the work has been completed south of Market street.

With the beginning of the excavation for the subway at Second and Mulberry streets yesterday abundance of filling material is in sight and long wagon trains were delivering this dirt to low points along the wall to-day.

Austrians Unable to Obtain Refreshments

London, Sept. 4, 5:25 a. m.—The Times Petrograd correspondent, telegraphing concerning Russian military operations says the Russian forces drew around the Austrian army like an iron semicircle. The Austrians were obliged to fight for their salvation as they could not hope for any considerable reinforcements.

The southern army under General Frank had been almost completely destroyed by the Serbians and the transfer of the remnant of three corps would alter nothing save that perhaps in this manner the road to Budapest would be left open to the Serbs.

The Germans had apparently retired from Polish territory west of the Vistula and were unable to send the Austrians as much as a single battalion to the northern approach of the duke Frederick was left to its own resources.

Sodding Slopes of the Front St. Subway; Cluster Light at Upper Approach

One five-cluster light, similar to the kind in service in the city's business district, will be placed at the intersection of the Front street and the old portion of the highway that will hereafter serve as an entrance to the Harrisburg Hospital.

The slopes of the subway in Front street are beginning to take shape. To-day a force of men were placing the sod on the slopes.

LOCAL ELOPERS KEEP HAGERSTOWN POLICE ON PINS AND NEEDLES

man John Benner, she complained of feeling ill and asked to be allowed to join Rhyn, who was in an adjoining room. Shortly after the officer peered into the room and found it vacant.

The elopers had escaped by removing a screen from a side window and from the yard they climbed an iron fence and were at liberty.

An alarm was instantly sent out and the fugitives were traced to the southern limits of the city and into the turnpike leading to Williamsport.

They were brought back by two officers and later taken to Harrisburg to reconsider their plans for the future. The runaways declared that they would get married later. The girl told the officer that she eloped because there was a will in her family to the effect that she was to enter a convent. Though she gave her age as 17, she is said to be only 15. Rhyn is 48, but does not appear to be over 16.

A Telegraph reporter was sent to the home of Mrs. Harris, 1513 Vernon street, where it was learned that Miss Mary had just returned from Hagerstown "on a visit to her aunt."

Mrs. Henry B. Harris, the girl's mother, denied the elopement story, declaring that her daughter has not been seen by Charles Rhyn for some time.

"You will not admit that the Hagerstown dispatch is true?" Mrs. Harris was asked.

"Wants It Kept Out of Paper" "Oh, no," she emphatically declared. "And, really, I would be glad to pay to have the information kept out of the paper."

Mrs. Harris was told that this would be impossible. On being questioned she admitted that her daughter, Mary, had walked three miles out into the country to her aunt's home, being compelled to do so "on account of missing an earlier train."

She refused to tell who the Rhyn youth is or where he lives. The name of Rhyn is not to be found in the city directory. She would not admit having any information as to the whereabouts of Miss Harris is a pretty girl of about 15 and is popular among the younger folks of Allison Hill.

He took a preliminary hike of seven miles to a point above Rockville; eleven miles to a point above Rockville; and five miles to a point above Rockville, making forty-nine miles on that part of his trip. LONDON PAPERS ARE 3,000 YOUNGSTERS DUMP ALL DAY LONG

At Rome obtains a few lines on the inner pages of the London papers, while an interview from Paris from a wounded British officer who said the allies during the past 24 hours had pressed back the German attack, is read with eager interest.

The past 24 hours has yielded no new news, however, and the battle in northern France. The public is prepared to learn that the German advance continued to the outer lines of the defenses of Paris. There it is evident that the German advance will make a stand on the line from Venduine on the east to the sea and attempt with all their might to stay the German advance.

British Turn Eastward The British public has turned hopefully toward the east where the triumphs of Russian arms in the Galician province of Galicia have been amply confirmed. In addition to the battle of Lemberg, in which the flower of six Austrian army corps were destroyed, it is evident that there has been a simultaneous victory at Tomaszow, a town of some importance 30 miles southeast of Lodz, in Russian Poland. It appears evident to-day that not only has the Austrian offensive through Russian Poland, destined to effect a junction with German army corps from East Prussia, failed, but the blow has been so severe that Russia is virtually in the control of the Russians. Lemberg is not only the capital of an enormous territory, Slavic in its sympathy, but also a transportation point of great strategic value, being the center of eight railroads. If the Russian successes continue, it is expected that the Austrians will be cleared out of Russian Poland within a few days.

If the official reports of the Russian successes in Galicia are anywhere near correct, Russian Poland will soon cease to be a point of anxiety to the Russian defense and the effort of the Petrograd general staff can be concentrated on an offensive movement toward Berlin.

Hold Back Full Strength The meager German reports received here indicate that the Germans are more than holding their own on the border of East Prussia, but the Russian general staff, as the Germans at the point of view held in London, does not seem greatly concerned over the status of the campaign in this territory, evidently being anxious to await the outcome of movements far eastward before throwing Russia's full strength against Prussia.

The veil of secrecy over the western front of the fighting in the country north of Paris never has been harder to penetrate than during the past 24 hours. There is no evidence at hand to show that the persistent advance of the German general staff has been checked; on the contrary at least one of the German contact is within 20 miles of the outer fortifications of Paris. Late news dispatches from the outer zone movements far eastward before throwing Russia's full strength against Prussia.

The allied armies probably now occupy a line which extends both to the east and west of Paris.

Recruiting has improved in England, and the military authorities are now prepared to form some 10 or 12 new divisions.

Tens of thousands of Parisians, chiefly women and children have taken advantage of free trains placed at their disposal by the government for the purpose of clearing Paris and its environs, so far as possible of all civilians who might hamper the military operations at any moment. The confidence of the French has strengthened. It is felt that the strategic position of the allies is to select the right plan and the right moment for a counter offensive movement.

Paris, Sept. 4, 11:40 a. m.—French troops have been being sent through Paris for the last three days, headed toward the battle lines which protect the capital from the German advance. The resumption of the German offensive is awaited at any moment. The confidence of the French has strengthened. It is felt that the strategic position of the allies is to select the right plan and the right moment for a counter offensive movement.

Paris, Sept. 4, 2:56 a. m.—A dispatch to the "Chronicle" from Chant says the people there are in a panic over the expected advance of the German army, which has been reported to be the persistence presence of aeroplanes and scouts in its vicinity. It is believed the Germans are now at Termonde, 16 miles east of Ghent.

Lemberg Falls; 10,000 Men Lost by Austrians

Petrograd, Sept. 4.—Lemberg, capital of the province of Galicia, was surrendered by Emperor Franz Josef's forces yesterday to the Russian army, which for days had been besieging the city.

This announcement was made by the Russian minister of war, Sukhmlinoff.

It is officially announced that the Austrians lost more than 100,000 men in the fighting in Galicia.

The Austrian troops that fled after the defeat near Lemberg have been joined by new troops sent from the district around Marlines to hinder the progress of the German advance.

The Austrians are retreating in complete disorder. In many places they fly panic-stricken, abandoning light and heavy guns, ammunition and supply columns.

The Austrians have suffered tremendous losses and many prisoners have been taken.

In the period preceding this decisive battle the army of General Ruzsky had been steadily losing men and quantities of machine guns and small arms.

Bethlehem Steel Company Awaits European Orders

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 4.—The Bethlehem Steel Company is not making a pound of ordnance for any of the warring nations of Europe to-day, and up to this time, from the date war was declared, has not shipped anything to any of them.

This was the declaration of a high official of the company. He added, however, that the Bethlehem company is in the business of making ordnance, and its management hopes before long to receive some orders for the same. He said there is no truth in the rumor that at the outset of the European war the Bethlehem company sent a large number of projectiles to Great Britain.
