GIRLS IN TROUSERS WIN AT BASEBALL

Defeat Team of Men Who Wear Skirts; "Tony" Biddle Has Unique Program

Special to The Telegraph Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—Pretty girls donned men's trousers and played baseball yesterday at the annual Biddle Bible classes at Lansdowne. Others wore blouses and bloomers. One thousand members of Drexel Biddle organizations from all parts of the city and its vicinity looked on while the girls' team defeated the young men's nine to the tune of 14 to 6.

The young men returned the compliment by wearing the girls' skirts and, in order to give their opponents a fair chance, the lads tossed the ball with their left hands. The game was marked by many humorous incidents. It was startling to the audience to behold a maiden with the features and hair of a Grecian goddess yell: "Swat the ball, Mary; line it out; we've got them going." Or to hear a little Venus of the brunette type exclaim: "Take your foot off the home plate, Maude. Don't be a chump!"

Features of the game were the pitching of athletic little Miss Nan Zang, the catching of Miss Edythe Brown and the base running of some of the girls in trousers. Several of the boys took an unfair advantage of their opponents by using their skirts to stop the ball.

The girls' team included, in addition to those already named, the Misses Catherine Jochen, Betty Mooney, Mary Rowland, Helen Brown, Ethel Wilson, Emma McSurdy and Betty Phillips. The young men's team consisted of W. Spalde, A. Spalde, George Pfouts, A. Robinson, J. Whitman, George D. Parker, William Garrison, Henry Johnson and Cy Boyer.

There were other athletic events. A. J. Drexel Biddle, founder of the Biddle Bible classes, made an address of welcome to the sports were conducted under the direction of H. Frederick Wilson and Judson J. Adams.

RAID BY THE FEDS IS EXPECTED SOON

Felder Jones Hired to Get After Players; Drafting Season Is Now On

With the major league drafting season now on and the final meeting to decide the drafts on September 15, minor league players are on the anxious bench. That there will be more than a few sales is a foregone conclusion. Drafting a player saves money. Only part of the drafting price is paid when the player reports and the balance if the player makes good.

An invasion by the Federal League magnates is anticipated by the minor leagues. While there may be offers for players and some may sign up with the Feds, there is another move feared by organized baseball, which the Federal League magnates are contemplating—a dispatch from New York to the Public Ledger, Philadelphia, says:

Felder Jones has been signed up supposedly to devote his services exclusively to the management of the St. Louis Federals. But the real job that confronts the old White Sox leader and his band of retainers is to win the minor leagues from the embrace of organized baseball and getting them to join hands with the Feds.

Jones on War Path Jones, proceeding about his mission, probably will carry an olive branch in one hand and a bludgeon in the other. He will think it is a wiser plan to spurn the olive branch and to stick to Johnson, Herrmann et al. will then be made to feel the sting of the club.

"If you don't come with us we'll raid you," will be the gist of the Jones ultimatum. If we raid you we'll take your best players and you won't get a dollar for them because we'll deal direct with the players. "Come with us and we'll guarantee you our fullest protection. And we'll keep our word, which is something more than the big powers in baseball have done. The national agreement, of which every big and little organized league in the country is a part, provides that in times of trouble the big fellows must stand by you. Have they done this? Have they helped you? The Federals have raided you, taken your best players and caused you to suffer big losses, without the big fellows raising a hand in your defense."

Jones is to get a salary of $10,000 a year for three years and, in addition, a $50,000 block of the St. Louis Federal stock. Should he succeed in causing some of the minor leagues to jump to the Feds, he will have more than earned his salary. The minor leagues act as the foundation that supports the American and National Leagues. Without them the two big leagues would have a struggle.

HOUCK IS WINNER WITH KNOCKOUT BLOW Youngstown, Ohio, Sept. 3.—Tommy Gavigan, of Cleveland, made a game attempt as a comeback here yesterday. He would have succeeded but for a right-hand flying blow to the jaw delivered by Leo Houck, of Lancaster, Pa., that sent him sprawling to the floor.

In the confusion that followed the knockout the referee failed to count and the captain of police rushed to the ring, ordering the bout stopped. Houck should be given credit for a knockout, for from the ring side it appeared in continuing the bout every time he had been able to rise before a count of ten.

The blow that finished the fight was landed within a minute after the eleventh round had begun. Had Gavigan not met with Houck's right in the eleventh he would no doubt have earned a draw, although Houck had the better of the mill to the sixth round. After that time Gavigan began to display more fighting spirit, and although the bout at no time was a spectacular affair, the final rounds were aggressively contested.

DR. DIXON URGES MORE CONSERVATION

Commissioner Contrasts Conditions Here With Those That Prevail in Europe

State Commissioner of Health Samuel G. Dixon reminds the people of Pennsylvania in his monthly statement that their work in these days of storm and stress in the construction of human life, resources and energy. A great opportunity is afforded to Pennsylvania to-day, he says, and he calls upon the people to make conservation their principle.

The commissioner's statement says: The involvement of the larger portion of the civilized world in warfare, the frightful destruction of human life due to modern arms, and the vastness of the operations has focused the attention of our entire nation upon the events occurring across the seas and has cast a gloom over the minds of all thinking men.

Within a generation phenomenal strides have been made toward the conservation of mankind throughout the world. We have begun to learn how to preserve the weak and protect the strong from disease. Already the efforts along these lines have resulted in enormous economic savings and have made possible gigantic monuments to the constructive ability of mankind, such as the Panama Canal.

When the great nations of the world are sending the flower of their manhood to destruction it is almost natural to feel that efforts to conserve life are ephemeral. However, when the work of destruction has ceased the work of re-building must begin. The economic struggle for existence will be keener than ever before in the history of the world and the conservation of the world's resources is struggling to recuperate will be a still greater factor in their efforts to regain their physical and economic equilibrium.

As a nation we are in a unique and important position; to maintain which we will need sound bodies and sane minds.

Let us continue with redoubled vigor the work of improving individual and public health.

AT THE PALACE—ONE OF OUR GIRLS

"One of Our Girls" presents Hazel Dawn, the star who achieved a great triumph in "The Pink Lady." In "One of Our Girls" Hazel Dawn portrays Kate Shipley.

Kate Shipley crosses the Atlantic to attend the wedding of her cousin, Julie, in France. Julie marries the prodigal Comte de Crebillon, though she loves her cousin Henri, and Kate grieves to see her cousin grow sadder through the realization of her mistake. A great happiness comes to the American girl, a British officer, to whom she is soon betrothed. The Comte de Crebillon conceals a secret in his past, a broken and beautiful woman, who appears one night at the Chateau and confronts him. Dr. Gloriot, the family physician, dislikes the Comte. Hearing a woman's scream on the fatal night, he notices the Comte's nervousness, and begins investigations which end in finding the woman's body in the old well in the garden. Julie writes Kate she is eloping, and the American girl goes to Henri's room to save Julie from her folly. There she is discovered by the Comte and Captain Gregory. To shield her cousin from the Comte's fury, Kate is married to the Comte, and takes the situation upon her shoulders. The development of the play portrays a series of situations that culminate in the triumph of Kate over the Comte, which sets Julie free to marry Henri. Kate is made of the happy by her gallant captain's faith through all her trying experiences, and "one of our girls" at last wins one of England's bravest officers.—Advertisement.
