DR. LEWIS PERFORMS A SERVICE FOR DR. BRUMBAUGH

[From the Philadelphia Public Ledger, Independent in Politics.] The withdrawal of Dean Lewis, the Progressive candidate for Governor, in favor of Vance C. McCormick, the Democratic nominee, is a curious act. It is not strange that the Washington party should be doing all possible to aid the Democrats, for that has been its rule everywhere in the country.

But perhaps after all, the Dean is not so anxious to hurt Brumbaugh as he is to escape piling chestnuts on the fire of a series of discredited ex-Republican bosses now posing as god-and-morality-reformers; His withdrawal certainly will not hurt Brumbaugh, for the Dean's ex-Republican supporters greatly outnumber the ex-Democrats, and every man jack of them—with very few exceptions—once released by the Dean will rally to Brumbaugh.

Successes Are Claimed by Allies and Germans; Koenigsberg Bombarded

Conflicting Reports Received From Headquarters of Various Armies and Embassies in Washington; Greatest Battle in History Rages East of Paris; French Say Germans Have Been Thrown Back From 40 to 50 Miles

London, Sept. 11, 1.03 P. M.—In a dispatch from Copenhagen the correspondent of the Reuter Telegram Company says that General Von Beneckendorff und Von Hindenburg has defeated the left flank of the Russian army in East Prussia with his eastern army, and has thereby opened the way for an attack on the enemy's rear.

The Russians are said to have abandoned their resistance and to be in full retreat with the German eastern army pursuing them in a northerly direction toward Memel.

Official German advice received in Washington declare that the Germans held their own in two days' fighting east of Paris, capturing fifty guns and several thousand prisoners, but retired the flank upon the advance of strong hostile columns.

Earlier dispatches from Berlin represented the Germans as having lost fifty guns and several thousand prisoners. The French embassy at Washington has received reports from Bordeaux of marked advances against the German right wing. These appear to be based on statements by the French ministry of war made public last night.

Important news comes from East Prussia where the Russians appear to have made little if any progress since the reverse at Allenstein. They are now reported to be bombarding the strongly fortified capital of Koenigsberg. There are indications, however, that Germans are arriving in force and moving toward Koenigsberg. A dispatch from Petrograd says that Germans from the west concentrated on the banks of River Alle and are marching in an easterly direction while the Russian advance guard is retreating. The Alle river flows north.

GENERAL RETIREMENT CONTINUES

A general retirement of the Germans east of Paris continues according to a statement this afternoon by the War Information Bureau in London. It is said that British troops yesterday captured 1,500 prisoners and several guns.

A dispatch from Rotterdam says that an official German communication denies that forces at Prezemysl is surrounded by Russians or that the Russian forces are advancing on Cracow, as has been represented at Petrograd and London.

Renewed activity by the German navy in the Baltic is indicated in reports from Berlin and elsewhere. Nish reports that Serbian forces have occupied Semlin, a town of Austria-Hungary from which the Austrians began their original attack on Serbia.

Eight French physicians arriving in Rotterdam, after attending both French and German wounded declare they found no evidence of the use of dum dum bullets by either side.

The Turkish Minister of War, Enver Pasha, is reported from Athens to have been wounded in a revolver duel with the Crown Prince of Turkey. Earlier advices from Constantinople were that Enver Pasha was confined to his home suffering from blood poisoning.

A dispatch from Basel, Switzerland, says that the French have recaptured Muelhausen.

Old Woman Led French to Barn Where Thirty Germans Were Sleeping

Paris, Sept. 11, 6:50 a. m.—During the third day's fighting in the battle of the Marne a detachment of the French, which had chased the enemy out of a village, was halted by an old woman, who led them to a barn where there were still thirty Germans, telling them to make no noise, as they were asleep. A man crept noiselessly into the barn and found the Germans sleeping so soundly that it took half an hour and a tremendous shaking to wake them. One explained that he had not slept for three days. They had been harassed by the French and English and the eve before they had entered the barn, where they all fell asleep from sheer exhaustion.

Pontoons Swept Away by Fire From French

London, Sept. 11, 3:45 A. M.—The Paris correspondent of the Express quotes a message received from the front stating that the allies at last have got into their stride. "The passage of Marne has cost the Germans dear," the message says. "They fought their way step by step, tired though they were, but at the Marne the 7th French army got the German pontoons were no sooner erected than they were swept away by the French artillery fire. The Germans held on steadfastly, but lost heavily and finally succeeded in getting across the river under a torrent of fire. The British army was not so heavily engaged during the day. There are approximately 1,500,000 men in the allies' fighting lines."

Many Germans Are Cut Off From Main Army

London, Sept. 11, 3 a. m.—A Paris dispatch to the Daily Chronicle says: "In the haste of the Germans' latest retrograde movement many regiments of Germans have been cut off and remain in the wooded country within the triangle of Sells, Goettberg and Danmartin. It is believed that they amount in all to about one army corps. They have been cut off from the main body by the allies' lines between Compeigne and Meaux and their situation is precarious."

Medical Officers Say Germans Leave Hospitals Before Wounds Heal

By Associated Press Rotterdam, via London, Sept. 11, 4:15 a. m.—The eight French medical officers who were captured by the Germans in Ypres, but who later were released and are here on their way back to France by way of England, gave some interesting sidelights on the situation in the field from their standpoint as surgeons. "We were obliged to work with the Germans," one of them said. "Most of the wounded were anxious to return to the fight as soon as possible. We saw no evidence of men wounded by dum dum bullets on either side. We found the medical services of both the Germans and the allies excellent, but we regret that the German wounded were often discharged from the hospitals too early. In some cases their wounds had not sufficiently healed and after their discharge the wounds were open again and complications set in."

Paris Well Satisfied With Success of Allies Paris, Sept. 11, 6:45 a. m.—The tone of comment in the morning papers on the result of the four days' fight in the great battle of Champagne, is one of lively satisfaction. The successes, it is admitted, do not mean that the battle has been won, but the gain of forty miles on the German left increases the jeopardy on their line of communication and must cause, it is considered, a demoralization of the enemy's tired forces. As yet there is no indication that the German army on the Lorraine frontier will be able to get through to help the main force, as last accounts reported that Maubeuge was still holding out, though several forts had been placed "hors du combat." The fall of this place might have a great bearing on the result of the battle in opening a ready means of communication.
