"MY BEST GIRL" WINS FAVOR OF AUDIENCE

Victor Morley, Well Supported by Good Singers and Dancers, Presents Brilliant Comedy

There was but one unfortunate thing about "My Best Girl" at the Majestic on Saturday night—the house was too small. But even though the show was poorly attended it was enthusiastically received. And deservedly so. For there was tuneful melodies a plenty; excellent dancing, both fancy and eccentric; voices which were far above the ordinary comic opera standard; and a chorus which not alone had quality of voice, but actually sang the words so that they might be understood. "My Best Girl" contained plenty of Clifton Crawford's specialties; in fact it was partially written by him. But the fact that he had to impersonate the original in the part did not worry Victor Morley in the least. And he proved it, for in actions, speech and even the shambling Clifton Crawford gait, he was letter-perfect. And not in a manner that made you think that it was studied—it came natural.

One very seldom hears the quality of singing which the company presenting "My Best Girl" possessed. There was a double male quartet which really sang a lot of Mess Ditties in a manner which made you think that you were listening to a concert program. And in this connection James Burke charmed the audience with leading tenor solos. Miss Marie Sabott carried the honors for dancing. As a little Dutch girl in characteristic costume, she did some exceptional eccentric dancing; and later in company with John Walker she won hearty applause in the latest steps beautifully executed. As a close second for dancing honors came Miss Inez Bauer as Daphne Frette of the Moulin Rouge. Miss Bauer's dancing was of a different type, but in the familiar chorus girl dancing she introduced much that was novel.

In all the company that presented "My Best Girl" was by far above the company on tour. The chorus was well balanced and well trained in both harmony and diction. To sum up: "My Best Girl" was about the best show of its type yet seen at the Majestic this season.

"EVERYWOMAN"

"Everywoman," the dramatic spectacle which Henry W. Savage will disclose at the Majestic this evening, was written by Walter Browne, a New York newspaperman, who died upon the morning of the day of the first performance of his play. It definitely solves the problem of providing entertainment to please all classes of people. It has an appeal as pointed and pregnant for the gallery as for the occupant of the box. The strongest endorsements for "Everywoman" have come from people who are seldom seen within a theater. The play is difficult of classification. It is partly drama, partly opera, and partly musical comedy. Three distinct classes of artists are employed in that production, viz: singers, actors and musicians. It is to be presented here exactly as it has been in New York, Boston, Chicago and Philadelphia, with all the colossal scenery and effects.—Advertisement.

"HELP WANTED"

Local theatergoers will have their first opportunity of seeing one of the most widely talked-of plays written for the American stage in recent years, at the Majestic on Thursday evening. When "Help Wanted" is presented, Jack Lait, the author and noted Chicago journalist, has written a story throbbing with the interests of big business and deals with a subject of universal appeal. The big message Mr. Lait had to make their lives in a busy city-scraper of most large cities of America. It is not meant that all girls seeking positions meet with the realizations that are graphically and realistically portrayed in "Help Wanted," but there is ample room for reform of such congenialities as are dramatically utilized in the story. Aside from its message of warning, "Help Wanted" is full of genuine drama and the ingredients of heart interest, along with an ample supply of good, clean, wholesome comedy.—Advertisement.

"SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE"

Filled to the brim with the wit and vigor that characterizes all plays that come from George M. Cohan's pen, is "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which Mr. Cohan has founded on Earl Derr Biggers' story of the same name, and which comes to the Majestic Theater, Saturday, matinee and night. In "Seven Keys to Baldpate" Cohan has mixed melodrama and farce with a deftness that is as delightful as it is thrilling, with the result that his audiences are held at concert pitch, so real is the tension sustained during the rapid action of this mystery farce. An admirable cast succeeds in giving forceful expression to the story into which Mr. Cohan has mixed so much of his own virility that it whizzes along at top speed from prologue to epilogue.—Advertisement.

"MILLION DOLLAR MYSTERY" AT THE VICTORIA

To-day will be shown at the Victoria the sixteenth instalment of the great $10,000 Harold McGrath prize story, "The Million Dollar Mystery." This instalment goes under the sub-title of "Drawn Into the Quicksands," and as all other films of this story do, features Florence La Badie. To-morrow will be shown "The Aviator Spy."—Advertisement.

AT THE PHOTOPLAY

To-day, at the Photoplay, will be shown a six-part Lubin, written by Eugene Walter, famous playwright. The production, which is offered to-day, is "The Wolfe," and is a story of Canadian woods. Indians, a pretty girl, fights and a happy ending.—Advertisement.

COLONIAL

Amusement seekers who visit the Colonial this week will notice considerable improvement in the vaudeville acts presented there. Also during the present week the management has announced that the picture programs are to be changed daily and the features will be those of the General Film Company, including such makes as Lubin, Vitagraph, Essanay, Kalem, etc. The fact that baseball news by Jennings will be announced at the Colonial, also adds to the interest of the Busy Corner. The fine vaudeville acts for the first half of the week comprise Bickel and Gibney in a rattling "Tubs" comedy playlet; Gene and Arthur, young man and woman, in a song and patter skit; and the Smillette Sisters, dainty misses in spirited and unusual feats on the flying trapeze.—Advertisement.

WORLD SERIES BOARD

The world's series, as far as local fans are concerned, will be transferred from the Chestnut street hall to the Board of Trade auditorium to-day. This was made necessary in order to make room for the food fair.

TREY O' HEARTS AT THE PALACE

When Alan Law rescues Judith Trine, believing her to be his sister, Rose, they proceed at once by motor to Jersey City, where arrangements have been made for the marriage of Rose and Alan.

Marrophat discovers their escape, learns that it is Judith who has fled with Alan, pursues, his car overtaking theirs in a slum on the Jersey side and when Marrophat makes a leap from his car to Alan's, the latter throws him to the street.

WANT RAILROAD TO GIVE SERVICE

Public Service Commission Gets a Complaint About a Railroad in Adams County

The Public Service Commission has been asked by John Fox Weiss, counsel for Daniel E. Brandt and other residents of East Berlin, Adams county, to ascertain why the East Berlin railroad is not operated. This is the first complaint of the kind ever made to the commission and it is said that the road is owned by W. G. Leas who bought it at receiver's sale in July and suspended operations on September 9. It is claimed that his action deprives residents of East Berlin of railroad accommodations and that the nearest railway station is at New Oxford, seven miles away.

R. J. Graeff, borough solicitor of Tamaqua, has filed a complaint with the commission against the grade crossings in that town on the lines of the Reading, Jersey Central and Lehigh and New England Railroads and there has also been complaint filed about a crossing in Somerset.

Mummers to Consider New Year Plans Oct. 14

Members of the Harrisburg Mummers' Association will resume activity this week. On Wednesday night, October 14, a meeting will be held at the Mayor's office. Organizations throughout Harrisburg have been requested to send delegates to this meeting. Plans for the New Year's Day parade will be discussed. Following the general meeting the association will hold a business session. Rules will be adopted and other business transacted.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have a bad cold.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passage every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil?

Cascarets work while you sleep, cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out—morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet; liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.—Advertisement.
