HAIR STOPS FALLING, DANDRUFF DISAPPEARS--25 CENT DANDERINE

Save your hair! Make it soft, fluffy, lustrous and beautiful

Try as you will, after an application of Danderine, you can not find a single trace of dandruff or falling hair, and our scalp will not itch, but what will leave you most, will be after a few weeks use, when you see new hair, growing early and downy at first—yes—but really new hair—growing all over the scalp.

A little Danderine immediately doubles the beauty of your hair. No difference how dull, faded, brittle and scraggy, just moisten a cloth with Danderine and carefully draw it through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. The effect is immediate and amazing—your hair will be light, fluffy and wavy, and have an appearance of abundance; an incomparable lustre, softness and luxuriance, the beauty and shimmer of true hair health.

Get a 25 cent bottle of Knowlton's Danderine from any drug store or toilet counter, and prove that your hair is as pretty and soft as any—that it has been neglected or injured by careless treatment—that's all.—Advertisement.

MEDICAL AUTHORITY SLAMS COFFEE USE

Says It's All Right as a Medicine But Not as a Food—Contains Destructive Drug Caffeine

"Tea and coffee are not in any sense food, therefore cannot add constructive tissue to our bodies," declared Dr. Joseph M. Aikin, of Omaha, Neb. "This is not the worst of it," says Dr. Aikin. "Any substance that is not wholly a food, or that contains destructive in excess of constructive elements for tissue building, is harmful."

"The caffeine and tannin in coffee and tea are cerebral stimulants, the tannic acid is an astringent, affecting especially the muscular fibers in the intestinal walls. They are not food as medicine, but not as food. Tea and coffee inebriety is increasing more rapidly than our native born population."

NOTE.—Children not only desire but often need a warm nourishing table drink as much as their parents. Consequently with the banishment of the coffee pot from the family table INSTANT POSTUM finds ready favor. This delicious food-drink is absolutely pure and free from the coffee drug "caffeine."—Advertisement.

"SEVEN KEYS TO BALDPATE"

When a play succeeds in interesting dramatic reviewers, and especially magazine writers, the scenario indicates to be the case with George M. Cohan's mystery farce, "Seven Keys to Baldpate," which by the way, we are to see at the Majestic Theater, Saturday, matinee and evening. It must have dramatic value, for the ordinary, Mr. Cohan shows his cleverness by cooling his audience in a most whimsical manner. Very hoax he plays upon the audience as though every exciting adventure is the owned in the effort on the part of the writer of the man to prevent Magesee from writing his sensational story. Yet been murder, the murderer has not turned out to be—but that I must not discuss the argument. And its active scope, while Cohan's name as author assures a native tongue to it few other plays possess, is the most ambitious piece of work he has done.—Advertisement.

"THE DINGBAT FAMILY"

There are many things requisite to make a truly successful musical comedy, but of course the first and foremost of these should be music. Too many of the so-called musical comedies depend upon a bunch of ridiculous "horseplay" that is once worn out in theme and lacking in pertinency. And "horseplay" rightly describes their progress—jumping hit or miss, and in the end, the audience is left with an equally impossible situation. The enormous success, artistically and financially of "The Dingbat Family" is a comedy which comes to the Majestic, Monday, matinee and night, is attributed as much to the beauty and distinction of its musical numbers and the manner of their production as any one thing. That is, the beauty and distinction of its musical numbers and the manner of their production as any one thing. ORPHEUM

"The Orpheum presents a mighty attractive bill," said the critic of the Harrisburg Telegraph; it's a "bang-up" show, was the expression the high brow of the critic. The bill is a gem, and the Star-Independent representative declared the offering to be above the average. The argument, in fact, is that it is a "bang-up" show, was the expression the high brow of the critic. COLONIAL

Song, dance and beauty all have their fling at the fine new vaudeville bill presented at the Colonial yesterday. Song and good fun is provided in the comedy skit of Gene Zander, which is presented by the Azard Brothers, while Melver and Scott do a neat piece of stage act that is mighty clever and meritorious. "A Transplanted Prairie Flower" Essany features a piece of music composed by a Vitagraph photoplay in two parts, will be two of the important features of tonight's entertainment.—Advertisement.

AT THE PALACE, "A GENTLEMAN FROM MISSISSIPPI"

William A. Brady presents in motion pictures one of his stage hits of a few years ago. This film features the original Bill Langdon in the person of Tom Brady. The story of "A Gentleman from Mississippi" is a story of the "trust" interests. The old gentleman has a high sense of honor and, seeing through the schemes of the "trust" men, he is victorious in a fight that threatens to destroy him financially, politically, and socially. The play is a masterpiece of the old man falls a victim to the arms of a dashing young man who is the part young reporter who furnishes quite a bit of the comedy, surrenders to a persistent young reporter.—Advertisement.

Last night at a big committee meeting in the Pine Street Presbyterian Church, "Billy" Shannon spoke on the results of the evangelistic campaign. In his address he said that some people have announced as follows: "The movement is only a wave of emotionalism and after the campaign is over converts return to their old habits. This, he said, is not true, but in nearly all cases, those that hit the sawdust trail regain sincere and true to their promises. At the meeting last night there were more than 700 present and the church was well filled. To-night a prayer meeting will be held in the Mt. Pleasant Fire Company house at Thirteenth and Walnut streets. Other prayer meetings, totaling almost 300, will be held in the homes of people in Harrisburg and nearby towns.
