FRANKLIN COUNTY PEOPLE STIRRED UP

Reputation of Bull Moose by Prominent Man Making Detrich's Neighbors Think

Special to The Telegraph. Waynesboro, Pa., Oct. 19.—People in this part of Franklin county are taking a mighty interest in a letter to the Waynesboro Record, repudiating the fusion deal between McCormick and Flinn, in which a prominent Roosevelt leader, W. Scott Fleming says:

"I am one who drove five miles to cast my vote at the primary election, and did vote for the Progressive candidates, Pinchot and Lewis, believing that these were men whom we could trust. These men have both denounced McCormick and A. Mitchell Palmer as men who stand for free trade and the many other unsound and hurtful policies of Bryan and Wilson."

"I would like to ask Mr. Pinchot if he has not been basely betrayed, at least by the one we nominated for Governor."

"I would like to ask Mr. Pinchot if he can explain what has caused the great change of heart of his friend Lewis that he forsook our party."

"I would like to ask Mr. Pinchot if he can explain why he, as well as Lewis now attempts to turn us over as a pack of mules or incapables, as they certainly are striving to do when they ask us to support McCormick and his ticket, when they ask us virtually to support a party in this State at whose head are the two men who have been most conspicuously selected and marked by President Wilson for high elective office because they represent Mr. Wilson's idea of free trade and government."

"Mr. Pinchot now has the impudence to try to help along this free trade party both of State and Nation, which is trying to fool all the people with a war tax bill at a time when our country is at peace with all the world."

FORAGE POISONING

STEWART TOWN, Pa., Oct. 19.—Forage poisoning, or so-called cerebro-spinal meningitis, is working havoc among the horses of John J. Manifold, of Waycross farms, near here. Within the last three weeks he has lost two 6-year-old mules and a valuable young driving horse. The mules were each wickered the day before they were stricken, came in apparently well, ate grain and hay clean and went down at midnight so quickly that their heads rested in the feed troughs. They seemed to be paralyzed in the throat and spine, could not swallow or rise to their feet, and death followed in a few days. Nine days later, though the stables were thoroughly cleaned and disinfected, the horse showed similar symptoms and died. The cause of the trouble is not known, but thought to have come from having had access to mouldy oats straw in the barnyard, where the animals exercise. Consultation by Mr. Manifold with the State Livestock Sanitary Board at Harrisburg confirms the suspicion of the straw. The officials say it must come from mould in the feed, though the specific poison has never been determined. The animals had the best of veterinary attention, but all efforts to have them were of no avail.

WORKING TO ASSIST WIFE OF W. G. LANDES

Special to The Telegraph. Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 19.—The Young Men's Christian Association of that city, terms "a rotten piece of business" the literature that was distributed by the Democratic State committee to introduce partisan politics into the gathering became known.

"Some of the did not know about the distribution of Democratic campaign literature by Boy Scouts at the First Presbyterian church Thursday afternoon until they read about it in the Tribune-Republican yesterday morning. They immediately started an investigation."

"Stopping to what Sunday school officials declared yesterday was the most contemptible bit of underground politics they had heard of in many years, a man representing himself to D. S. Duncan, of Harrisburg, wearing a Sunday school delegate's badge, but really working for the Democratic State committee, presented himself that morning to Walter Schantz, chairman of the public comfort committee."

"Mr. Ellis came to the front yesterday when he heard of the trick, and insisted that he had no knowledge of any Mr. Duncan and that he had no conversation with anybody over the telephone about the distribution of circulars. He denounced in language that could not be mistaken the Democratic efforts to use his name to further their nefarious designs. "This kind of campaign work surely isn't helping the Democratic ticket," Mr. Ellis said. "It is bound to act like a boomerang."

"Scout Commissioner Carey R. Williams, who became indignant the moment he heard of the efforts to use the Boy Scouts in furthering partisan political movements, conducted an investigation and declared that Democrats had greased the scheme so well that they fooled not only the boys but the convention committee as well."

"Party Pretty Badly Off" "It's a rotten piece of business," declared Scoutmaster J. R. Reynolds, of the Young Men's Christian Association. "It's a share to fool the boys that way. If a political party has to stoop to such methods to make votes it's pretty badly off."

"A. J. Bevin, superintendent of the B. I. A. and scoutmaster of Troop No. 1, was no less emphatic in denouncing the Democratic trick to use the Boy Scout movement and to fool the Sunday school convention officials. "It was a scurvy trick and I am glad it was discovered," he said.

"Among the most indignant Sunday school workers in the city yesterday were the delegates from Harrisburg. They said they had never heard of Duncan as a prominent Sunday school worker and that the scheme to fool the convention was something that originated within the Democratic camp."

"We knew nothing at all about it," each delegate declared in reply to questions.

The Decreased Consumption of Coffee has caused widespread alarm among the coffee trade.

"There's a Reason"

Twenty years ago the manufacture of Postum was started in the small white building shown above. The business grew!

Doctors found that coffee drinking was hurting the health of people, right and left.

Chemists analyzed coffee and found this harm was due to two health-wrecking drugs, caffeine and tannin.

People injured by coffee stopped its use and started to drink

POSTUM

Twenty great factory buildings covering nearly ten acres now surround the little building where Postum was first made, and carloads of this wholesome food-drink are shipped daily to take the place of coffee on the tables of hundreds of thousands.

Each cup of coffee carries its dose of caffeine and tannin (about 2 1/2 grains of each) and sooner or later symptoms of poisoning show themselves in headache, biliousness, heart disturbance, nervousness, indigestion, sleeplessness, etc.

Relief generally follows when one quits coffee and uses POSTUM.

Postum, a pure food-drink with a rich Java like flavour, is made of prime wheat and a small per cent. of molasses, absolutely free from caffeine, tannin or any other harmful ingredients.
