THRILLS ARE DUE SAYS FEDS' LEADER

Big Meeting to Be Held in New York City Tomorrow; Shake-ups Are Expected

Chicago, Ill., Oct. 22.—Benching for the time all talk of peace and the possibilities of a hatchet planting reunion at the annual Federal League meeting scheduled for Friday and Saturday in New York, President James A. Gilmore last night declared the session would be productive of several real thrills. Among the moves planned is one dealing with the managers for 1915 and "Fighting Jim" announced that one and possibly two pilots who were in command during the past campaign will be deposed before the next pennant bell rings. Mismanagement in one city on the Federal circuit cost the league $100,000, according to Gilmore, who attributed the poor showing of the team in question to the lax methods used by the manager in running his players. Another leader noted for his ability as a disciplinarian will rule this club next season. President Gilmore gave vent to the above statements after voicing vigorous denials of the report that the Federalists would meet with organized baseball in Gotham and smoke the pipe of peace. President Weegman, of the Chicago Federalists, reiterated Gilmore's assertions and both magnates declared the confab had been called for the purpose of dealing only with matters pertaining to the Fed.

LLOYD DAVIES LATEST APPENDICITIS VICTIM

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—Connie Mack's Amherst star and now utility outfielder and pitcher for the Athletics, Lloyd G. Davies, was operated upon for chronic appendicitis at the American Hospital for Diseases of the Stomach at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. "The patient came out from under the anesthetic a few moments after the operation," said Dr. Carnett last night, "and if no unforeseen complications set in he should be out in a short time."

Last Spike Driven For Army-Navy Game

Philadelphia, Oct. 22.—Representatives from West Point and Annapolis met Dr. J. William White, representing the Army and Navy game committee of the University of Pennsylvania, yesterday afternoon at the latter's residence and signed a five-year agreement for alternating football games to be played in this city and New York. The first game will be played on Franklin Field, Saturday, November 28. The agreement provides that each academy shall have 11,500 seats for the game, the exact number offered them for last year's game in New York, and that each academy is at liberty to dispose of its seats as it sees fit, provided that in case of the sale of seats the net proceeds shall be divided between the Army and Navy Relief Societies.

Indians Without Rooters; No Excursion on Saturday

Carlisle, Pa., Oct. 22.—For the first time in years the Carlisle Indians will meet the University of Pennsylvania on the gridiron on Saturday unsupported by a contingent of their schoolmates. The annual excursion, which has taken some 500 boys and girls of the school, in addition to the band and residents of Carlisle, to Philadelphia, has been abandoned under the order of the school authorities. The annual trip to the game is an incentive to extravagance on the part of the pupils, it was stated today by Supervisor Lipps, who further said that there have been many complaints from parents because of requests for money for the trip, and in order that trouble may be avoided the excursion has been forbidden. This action is the means of depriving the annual contest of one of its most picturesque features, as the lines of blue-uniformed cadets and dark-eyed maidens flanking the scarlet-uniformed bandmen was a sight that next to the pomp and display of the Army-Navy contest, was the most marked of the season.

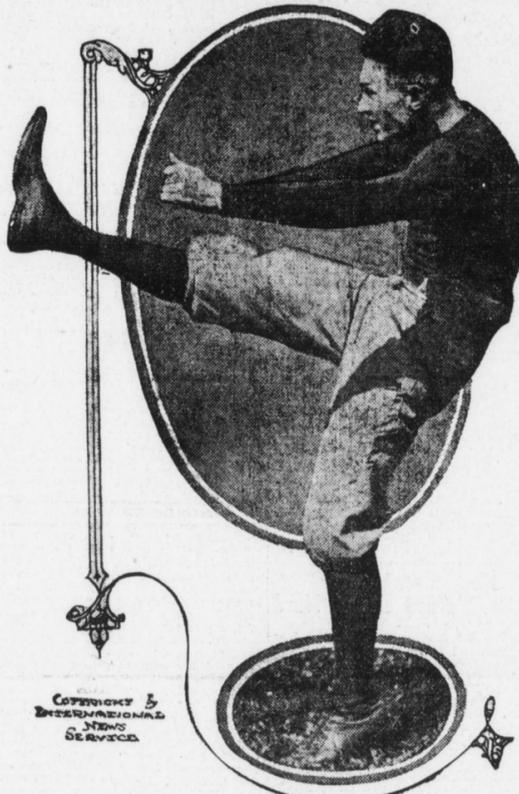

SMITH SHOP TEAM CELEBRATES

Members of the Smith Shop baseball team, champions of the Lucknow Shop League, celebrated last night. A banquet was held at Fort Hunter Inn. Addresses were made by Roy Leslie, president of the league, and J. Brown, president of the club.

ACADEMY WINS EASY VICTORY

Harrisburg Academy walked all over the Tech High scrubs yesterday, winning by a score of 33 to 0. Coach Toiem was pleased with the work of the Academy. On Saturday Harrisburg Academy plays Gettysburg scrubs on Academy Field.

MICHIGAN HAS GREAT KICKER

Larry Spawn, rattling kicker and halfback of Michigan's champion Western eleven, which is scheduled to line up against Harvard in the Cambridge stadium on October 31. Rabid adherents of the Wolverines contend that Spawn is as good a booter as the great Charley Brickley and express regret that Harvard's captain will be unable to get in the game a week from Saturday and engage the Michigan kicker in a duel.

CENTRAL HIGH GAME OF GREAT IMPORTANCE

Teck Meets Heavy Crew; Small College Squads Hard at It

In the battles on Saturday some changes in the work of the scholastic and college teams is looked for. The forward pass is still popular. On the schedule this week are a number of games that promise special interest.

Central.—With favorable weather conditions the largest crowd of the season is expected at Island Park on Saturday to see the Central-Steeltown game. Doping out future results on scores past has not been a big success this season. Teams have been springing surprises every week. Steelton lost to Lebanon High, but this, in the opinion of football enthusiasts, cannot be taken as an indication of the result Saturday. Central, of course, is going into the game to win with a big score. Coach Smith will spring a number of new things and the Steeltonites will have to go some to get across Central's goal line.

Steelton.—Coach E. C. Taggart with his Steelton squad worked until dark last night in preparation for the game with Central High at Island Park Saturday. This afternoon and to-morrow afternoon orders are to keep everybody but the players and coaches out of the field. The slogan is to get at least one game from a Harrisburg team. Steelton rooters will come to Harrisburg in special cars.

Tech.—When Tech High lines up against the Greensburg High School eleven at Greensburg Saturday afternoon, the Maroon and Gray will face a heavy team. This season Greensburg is putting forth special efforts to land the high school championship of Western Pennsylvania. To win from Tech, in the opinion of Greensburg sporting writers, will likely mean Central Pennsylvania honors as well. Tech will go into the game in good shape. The local eleven and officials will leave for the enemy's camp tomorrow night.

Colleges.—Coach Herrington is making effective progress in bringing the light Dickinson squad to efficiency. Yesterday's drill was a solid period's work, concentrated on such fundamentals as kicking, catching and running down under punts, drop and placement kicking, tackling, blocking and falling on the ball. Signals were emphasized in order to get the formations prepared for the Franklin and Marshall game in good order.

Indians.—The keynote to the Carlisle Indians' football practice yesterday was hard work on the school's half-holiday. Beginning at 3 o'clock and ending with a drawn out and strenuous scrimmage against the Dickinson eleven, which arrived late in the evening on Indian Field. The relekins were run through all of their customary fundamentals, and Warner and his three assistants saw that every aborigine had individual instructions of some kind in all fundamentals.

Lebanon Valley.—Coach Guyer gave his charges the longest and most grueling scrimmage of the year yesterday on Annville Field. Punting was again in evidence, and strenuous efforts are being made by the coach to correct this fault. In the game with Franklin and Marshall two weeks ago Lebanon Valley fumbled thirteen times, and in the game with Western Maryland on Saturday eight costly fumbles were tallied against Guyer's eleven. Wheelock was in play and made the only touchdown of the afternoon.

"A GIRL OF THE MOUNTAINS"

"A Girl of the Mountains" which is a melodrama, to be presented at the Majestic this afternoon and evening—is said to be clever and forcible. It is a story of a girl who knew only the life of the wilderness and the mining camp her trials and struggles, and her final triumph in the great city, with the love of a true man to shield her future. Louise Price in the leading role is said to give a striking performance of the girl. She possesses a sweet and well trained voice and her rendering of the emotional parts is very good. She will be supported by a capable company.—Advertisement.

JOHN W. VOGEL'S BIG CITY MINSTRELS

Minstrelsy has been, and promises to continue to be, the favorite form of amusement for four-fifths of the theater-going public—and well it should be—for no manner of a performance can include such a variety of amusements as the edification of the multitudes, besides it is the cleanest and best of all amusements. Then, there are no warts. Promptly at the appointed hour, the curtain rises, and from that moment until the final you have fun without a blush. Songs of sentiment by the world's greatest vocalists, comic ditties by the best comedians on earth, who also burnish their wit without a taint. The songs have been sung, jokes have been told, the Adonis-like person in the middle has his friendly repartee with the various comedians, and the honors and glories of Personal grace has been shown and beauty added because of the handsome paraphernalia used in the first part settings. This organization will appear at the Majestic Saturday, matinee and night.—Advertisement.

COLONIAL

Another high vaudeville bill bursts on our vision at the Orpheum. One of our quite well known Keith acts of variety and merit are slated to appear, headed off by the Three Musical Ellipses, presenting a picturesque musical novelty that has won a favor in many of the more important theaters. Also James Kennedy and Company, who appeared at the Orpheum two seasons ago, are booked to offer their new comedy sketch called "Jack Swift." Mahoney and Tremont will present a song and patter skit called "The Department Store" and the Aerial Barrens, in sensational aerial gymnastics, will provide the thrill of the offering. To-day's program in moving pictures looks to be well worth while also.—Advertisement.

ORPHEUM

Those who are about town to hear the topics of the day are acquainted with the fact that Johnny Dooley and Yvette Ruzel are at the Orpheum. One of them is as funny as the other, is good to look upon and when we see them on the stage together we gasp to ourselves, my what a combination, of the homes and the possibilities. But Dooley makes us laugh in spite of ourselves, not because he is handsome, oh, no, but because he is ridiculously funny. And pretty Yvette is petite and dainty, and has the voice of a prima donna many times her size. Dooley's assets as a comedian are chiefly those of looseness and homeliness and to express it politely, silliness. He sings and dances, mostly gestures, and while he capers about, his foot lands on the other side of the footlights, sometimes under the curtain, and everybody wonders if we will fly next. Then he asks Miss Ruzel to ask him a few questions and he promises to tell a joke. And he tells some good ones. As a pleasing combination Dooley and Ruzel are hard to beat. They are certainly favorites at the Orpheum this week. Those who have seen them once are going back to see them again and that's pretty good proof of their merits. Dooley and Ruzel offer one of the sterling hits grouped with Lew Dockstader, also with Lucy Gillette, the most entertaining juggler ever seen at the Orpheum, and a wealth of other good Keith hits.—Advertisement.

"MAN OF THE HOUR"

great success, "The Man of the Hour." A shrewd financier tries to put a bill through the New York city council, which would give a traction company a group of perpetual franchises. Election is near at hand, and in looking about for a suitable candidate, who could "be handled," young Garrison, who has earned for himself a large fortune, is selected as the most likely man. The young man is in love with the niece of the financier. He accepts the nomination, and after a strong fight is elected. The franchise bill passes the council and comes to the mayor for his signature. But Garrison, realizing that it is a steal, refuses to sign. All sorts of pressure is brought to bear, and for a time it would appear that his course would cost him not only his sweetheart, her entire fortune, but take her from him. In the end strict honesty proves to be the best policy, and despite obstacles, which seem almost insurmountable, Garrison wins his sweetheart.—Advertisement.

"THE WRATH OF THE GODS"

At The Photoplay

For years Lord Yamato, the last male member of his race, lived in an isolated part of the coast in an endeavor to shield from his pretty daughter the knowledge of the curse upon his family. One day she is playing along on the rocks when she meets a handsome young Japanese fisherman. The stranger presses to chat with her. The old prophet of the village comes upon them and he warns the young man that the girl and her father are under a ban and ostracized by the villagers. The daughter of Yamato returns home broken-hearted and the father is grieved to learn that he may no longer keep the secret of their isolation from her. Old Yamato has erected a statue of Buddha out in his garden and both go out there to pray for mercy from the gods. The girl, angry at the injustice shown by a god who would condemn the innocent, renounces the faith of her fathers. A ship is wrecked and an American sailor is washed ashore in the following dawn. Lord Yamato, finding the man alive, takes him to his hut of driftwood where he is tenderly cared for by the old man and his daughter. The sailor eventually falls in love with the young Japanese girl and eventually converts his benefactor to Christianity. The sailor and the girl marry despite the protestations of the natives, who, headed by the prophet, visit the old noble. Lord Yamato tells them that he has renounced his gods and the mob tears him to pieces. The natives are suddenly awed by the spectacle of the volcano belching forth smoke. The sailor and girl return to the hut to find it in flames and old Yamato dead with the cross clasped in his arms. The girl, with the superstition of her race, believes the activity of the volcano due to her defying the mandate of the gods. She begs to be allowed to remain and die by her father's side. The sailor vainly tries to convince her that the eruption is only a coincidence. He finally picks her up in his arm and carries her to the beach. There a boat is procured and both are finally rescued.—Advertisement.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

In business it may mean a fortune. Reputation makes reputation. Therefore it is essential that the name of your establishment stands out prominently with the merchandise you have for sale.
