

Women AND THEIR Interests

How a Wife Can Help Her Husband

By DOROTHY DIX.

I am not one of those who believe greatly in woman's influence. To my mind the most fiction on earth is the fair story about man being guided and ruled in every act in life by the power of some woman, in whose hands he is as clay in the hands of the potter.

It is a lovely theory that pleases the vanity of women, and therefore they have accepted it with enthusiasm. Millions of credulous girls who believed to have married drunkards and rakes and gamblers in the fond expectation that they would be able to work miracles and turn their husbands into models of all the virtues but only too late they found out they had put their faith in a fake cure, and that as a reformatory agent a wife's influence wasn't worth a hill of beans.

In reality the most that a woman can do for a man is to be a kind of an accelerator. She can either hustle him down the wrong road, if he is on the down grade, or else she can boost him up the ladder if he is already climbing it, but she cannot scotch him, either way.

Cannot Supply Backbone.
She cannot supply the industry and grit and backbone that he lacks if he is a loafer, and she wastes herself in trying to make good for his deficiencies. By the same token, if a man has in him the qualities that make for success, he will go on to success in spite of his wife.

The woman, however, who is married to a man of even ordinary ability can raise that ability to its highest power. She can be an inspiration to success and help her husband on to it if she wishes to.

She can help him to do big things by keeping alive his faith in himself. There are women who are always like a fluttering flag of glory before a man, who believe in him and when further effect appears useless and hopeless and he is tempted to give up.

At that moment his fate rests in his wife's hands. If she tells him that luck is against him and that he lacks the ability that other men have to get along, his doom is sealed. But if her faith in him never falters, if she makes him feel that he will triumph over every time to the discontented married obstacle, she breathes into him the hope and courage that move mountains.

A wife can help a man by taking an interest in his business. Women's foolish jealousy is at the bottom of nine-tenths of the bankruptcies. It is the wife who attacks to despise the business that supports her, who looks bored when her husband talks shop, is a millstone about a man's neck.

It is the man who takes his business home with him, and whose wife enthusiastically thrashes out every detail of it with him who succeeds.

She Can Help or Hinder.
For, no matter how little a woman knows practically about a business, she has flashes of intuition that are genius. Also, in discussing any subject with sympathetic listener, it clarifies the matter in your own mind and opens up vistas that you had never thought of before.

A wife can help a husband by making friends for him, or she can hinder him by making enemies. She can keep him selfishly tied to her apron string, or she can send him out among the men who can help him along. Too much domesticity is just as bad for a man as too little.

Above all, a woman can help her husband by keeping him physically fit. The woman who does not keep her home comfortable and a haven of peace, in which jaded nerves can be soothed and rested and repaired, is putting a spoke in her own wheel of fortune. It is strange how little women realize that home is the power-house in which the dynamic energy of a man must be manufactured.

A man's physical well being lies in his wife's hands. She can build him up with proper food or she can slay him with bad cooking. She can exhaust his strength on foolish household tasks, or she can save his strength for his business.

All Rests With the Wife.
Many a man who might have been a merchant prince has had his nerves wrecked and his brain analyzed by bad breakfast. Many a poem and novel that would have made a man famous have been withered, root and branch, in the brain of a genius by the harassment of a shrewish wife.

It is an interesting game and a profitable one, this helping to make a man. I recommend it as a pastime to those who are bored, and who have some strength worth while to do.

NOT so much the big wrinkles, but the little ones, are what rob the face of its youthful appearance. No matter how faithfully and vigorously you may engage in massaging the face, there will be no perceptible result unless the proper article is used. Nearly all creams sold for this purpose in the store have the same base and ingredients. This is why perhaps you have experienced but little improvement with one cream over another. Every woman should as well know now as later that the cost of prepared creams is too high to allow their use being liberal and unstinted, as it should be to produce results. Furthermore, their ingredients are usually lacking in effect, because these ingredients must be cheap, otherwise there is no profit in their sale. If you will make up your mind to make up your own cream, which you can do in a few moments, as follows, you will have a remarkable wrinkle eradicator, one that works quickly and surely, and it will cost you far less than any prepared cream you can buy. Furthermore, you will get the result desired. Dissolve two tablespoonfuls of glycerine and two ounces of epsom in half a pint of water. This cream used every day will produce a startling change in a short time, making the face plump and youthful to a marked degree.

MELICENT R.—Yes, you can stop falling of hair very quickly. Here is a formula which produces marked changes in the hair roots and scalp tissues. The result is that dandruff is absolutely stopped, the hair roots reach their youthful vigor, hair grows quickly and luxuriantly, often several inches a month, and it takes on a very silky and healthy gloss. There is nothing so satisfactory as this splendid formula. Mix one ounce of beta-quinol in water and alcohol, half a pint each, or

A FASHIONABLE NIGHT GOWN

A Sleeping Garment that can be Utilized for Cotton and for Silk.

By MAY MANTON

8423 Yoke Night Gown for Misses and Small Women, 16 and 18 years.

Thin, washable silks are daily becoming more general for underwear and for sleeping garments. They are really delightful to wear, they are not extravagant in price, and the new ones launder perfectly. This simple little gown can be made of crepe de chine, thin tulle or lawn or batiste, and is always comfortable and satisfactory.

The yoke is perfectly smooth-fitting and the weight is supported comfortably by the shoulders, while the gown itself is wide enough to be entirely satisfactory. Most girls will like the square neck and short sleeves, but for very cold weather the suggestion made in the back view is a good one. Scalloped edges give a daintier finish than any applied trimming and really mean very little labor. Girls with ample leisure will perhaps like to add some little floral design on each front of the yoke.

For the 16-year size will be needed 4 yards of material 36 inches wide or 3 3/4 yards 44.

The May Manton pattern No. 8423 is cut in sizes for misses of 16 and 18 years of age. It will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper, on receipt of ten cents.

FORGET YOUR FOOLISH PRIDE.
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I have been in love with a young man for three years and I know he loves me, but two years ago we had an argument for which we were both to blame. He is waiting for me to give in because he is stubborn, but I never will lower myself to make the first move after two years. I have tried so hard to forget him, but oh! I simply can't. I went out with another young man but had to drop him because my mind was constantly with the one I love. What shall I do?
IMPATIENT.

IT is not lowering yourself to ask pardon for a fault. If you go to the man for whom you care and tell him that you are sorry for your part in the misunderstanding that has separated you he will undoubtedly be sorry that he was not generous enough to be the first to speak. In his admiration of your fine spirit, you will probably win him back to a better friendship than the one you lost.

GIVE HER CHANCE TO EXPLAIN.
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
A young lady friend of mine with whom I have been going out for some time has lately proven very false to me. I have found that she frequently talks about me to other young men. I like her very much and am distressed about this.
ANXIOUS.

ASK her why she is not loyal to friendship and you.

WAIT UNTIL HE REFORMS.
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
I am a girl of eighteen and deeply in love with a man of thirty-five. Until recently, when he gave me two beautiful pictures ready for framing, I had no idea that he reciprocated my affections. My young lady friends disapprove of him very much because of certain bad habits which I feel sure he would discontinue if I asked him. Do you not think, with me, that I could be perfectly happy as his wife?
H. F. T.

DON'T risk marrying a man until his reform is assured—not promised. Seventeen years is a fairly big distance to bridge, but if the man is one you can respect and admire the actual years between you would not be a menace to your happiness.

DON'T THINK OF DISLOYALTY.
DEAR MISS FAIRFAX:
My sister is engaged to be married to a certain young man. Sometimes, when he goes out motor-cycling with other young couples he takes me with him, my sister must work on the appointed day. It does this because all the others of the party have their sweethearts. My sister does not in the least mind this, but I am very anxious to know if it looks very untrustworthy on his part.
ANXIOUS DOROTHY.

MEN are often purer-minded than girls! This seems to be such a case. Your sister's fiance probably takes you on his motor-cycle with a simple feeling that you are his little sister-to-be. Go along, since your sister has no objections and don't look for trouble and insults where none are meant.

Boy in Fit of Anger Throws Away $450

New York, Nov. 5.—Pedestrians passing the Plaza Hotel this morning saw a lot of money flying about high in the air and slowly fluttering to the pavement. Every one who witnessed the spectacle made a dash for the bills. There was exactly $450 in the lot that zeppelined out of a window on the fourteenth floor of the Plaza Hotel, and it made the crowds below almost as frantic as if bombs were dropping. The money was the property of an Australian woman, who, accompanied by her son, is a passenger on the Lusitania, which left here to-day for Liverpool.

On Monday the woman drew $500 from the bank on her letter of credit and had spent $50. The remainder, in $10 and $20 bills, lay on the table in the sitting room. The son was in a
