

What the Shops Are Showing

A splendid wall covering to take the place of expensive wood bases wainscots and paneling, is offered by the A. B. Tack Wall Paper Shop, 1216 North Third street. The beauty and dignity of a wood finish in living rooms, dining rooms, libraries, etc., is appreciated by the most artistic home furnishers, but the expense of wood is usually too great to make this finish possible in any except the most elaborate homes. Therefore the Lincrusta Walton, offered by Tack's, which is a heavy material which may be painted in excellent imitation of wood is a boon to those of limited income who appreciate art in home decoration.

Bible Reading in the Home
The Stough Campaign has aroused new interest in an old subject, and so many families have as a whole professed conversion, that the use and study of the Scripture has become part of the daily routine in many homes. A great help to Bible study, are the Scripture wall rolls and these are offered at the Central Book Store, 329 Market street, for just 35c. This store also makes a specialty of all kinds of religious literature and just now they are making a special offering of Bibles in limp leather bindings with overlapping edges, especially appropriate for gifts, as well as the beautiful little Testaments.

The Meaning of a Fragrance
There is a pretty belief that every perfume has a meaning and that the use of a certain scent betrays the mood of a person who uses it. What a variety of moods, then, would find expression in the wonderful assortment of perfumes offered at the Gorgas Drug Store, 16 North Third street, for in their charming holiday offering of perfumes, there seems to be nothing wanting. Perfumes for just 25c a bottle in cunning little gift boxes, as well as the exquisite French perfumes in unique and beautiful bottles, or in the lovely perfumeizers for the dressing tables, which are offered at Gorgas in splendid variety.

The Colors of the Rainbow
A step inside the Studebaker Grocery Store, State and Second streets, and one might fancy that the rainbow had spread its colors over the wonderful collection of beautifully-woven Bellefonte baskets on display there. In one corner are baskets of rich woodland brown, shading to golden tones. At another side, are seen the daintiest pink and white combinations, which would be charming with Spring flowers, while the sewing baskets in

THE MCCORMACK RECITAL
Harrisburg music-lovers will be glad to know that John McCormack, the famous tenor, will be in this city early in February for a concert at Chestnut Street Hall. This season he is singing some of the modern classics in English, to the great delight of his audiences, and his programs have also groups of Irish songs which always strike a responsive chord.

John McCormack is like the Pied Piper, always drawing a crowd to him with that magical voice of his, so beautiful and now more mature.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Sellers have gone home to Evelyn after a visit with their relatives. Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Bowen, of State street.

these tints are just the thing for the boudoir. Dainty blue and white baskets, with pretty cretonne linings are also shown, while the Christmas baskets in rich red and green tones, are lovely with holly and Christmas greens, or heaped with fruits and nuts. Prices from 50c up.

The 50c Gift For a Man
A handsome knitted necktie in conservative color, a boldly striped black and white green tie with thin stripes in contrasting color, a very smart dark blue tie, a broad-based silk tie in richly blended shade—all these and many more are shown at the McFall Shop for Men, Third and Market streets, for just 50c a piece. Styles are exclusive and distinctive, materials are good and serviceable, and the variety is so great that any taste may be suited. Although McFall's make a specialty of 50c neckwear, their comprehensive stock includes the best designs in the higher priced ties, and all Christmas purchases are boxed ready for giving free of charge.

Smart Accessories
The little extra vanity to form part of Milady's costume is always an acceptable gift, and each year Dame Fashion favors some special accessory. This season light colored spats are acknowledged to be necessary to the completion of the lady of fashion's costume, and also charming are some of the styles offered at the Walk-Over Boot Shop, 226 Market street, that they are just the thing for Christmas giving. They may be had in black, white, and combinations of black and white, and the prices range from 50c up. Not only the regulation gaiters but the smartly styled boot tops, are offered at this shop, as well.

The Thoughtful Remembrance
The thought that goes with a gift is what brings the real Christmas cheer to the heart of a friend, and remembrance that mean much, yet cost little are shown in a special display at the Woman's Exchange, Third street, at Herr. Bayberry dips, with the illusive fragrance they exhale when snuffed, sachets from the sweet flowers of old-fashioned gardens, little pillows and sachets of fragrant balsamine, bags of lavender and spices are shown, each with a friendly greeting or a quaintly sweet sentiment, charmingly expressed on a dainty gift card, packed with the gift. Prices from 20c up, yet no matter how inexpensive the gift, each is distinctive, and carries a real Christmas message of good cheer.

HOME FROM NEW YORK
Miss Caroline Pearson and her sister, Miss Helen Pearson, returned to their home, 503 North Penn street, last evening after a ten days' pleasure trip to New York city.

FRED CARRINGTON'S PARTY
Master Fred Carrington, of 806 Cowden street, had a birthday party yesterday at his home. Games, music and refreshments were enjoyed by thirty little folks.

Eye Talks
A Series
By J. S. Belsinger
No. 5

THERE are dozens of things you do every year simply as a matter of precaution, or you may call it "safeguard."

With that most priceless of physical possessions--your eyes--what are you doing? They cannot continue year after year doing their work in the poor light in which you often compel them to work, and not give evidence of the strain.

And some day they manifest that strain to your physical discomfort.

Regardless of whether your eyes are giving you any trouble or not, you should consult an oculist at least once a year. He, with a full medical knowledge of all that causes eye disorders, will ascertain the conditions of your eyes, and advise you accordingly.

He may find that glasses alone will correct the deficiencies of your sight--possibly he will find that your eyes are perfectly normal. In any event, if you need glasses, he will not give them to you--he will write a prescription.

But if he does prescribe them, you should regard it as most important to see that his prescription for glasses is filled by an optician whose standard of reliability, equipment, service and ability is upon such a plane as to warrant your patronage.

If you are considering eye examination, we shall be pleased to furnish you with a list of Harrisburg oculists. Ask them about us.

OPEN MEETING OF CHRISTMAS STORIES

Story Tellers' League Meets Tuesday Evening in Hall of Public Library

The only meeting of the Story Tellers' League to be held during December will be Tuesday evening, December 8, in the hall of the Public Library, Walnut street, beginning at 7:30 o'clock.

This will be an open meeting, in charge of Miss Dolores Segelbaum, and everyone interested is invited to be present.

The general subject is "Christmas Tales" and the program will include: "What the Moon-Lady Saw," by Alice E. Allen, a Japanese legend telling why the chrysanthemum is a Christmas flower, told by Miss Segelbaum; "The Little Lamb," by Carolyn Sherwin Bailey, a tale of the miraculous touch of the Christ-Child, given by Miss Cora Lee Snyder; "Why We Have Tinsel on the Christmas Tree," told by Miss Ella Yost; Miss Florence Carroll will present a "Story of the Christ-Child," by Elizabeth Harrison, showing how a family entertained Him unawares; Miss Annie E. Miller will tell the "Story of the Manger," from the Scriptures, and Miss Lois Booker, president of the club, will read her latest poem, taken from the Story Tellers' Magazine, entitled "The Song of the Virgin."

MRS. WYBLE'S BIRTHDAY CELEBRATED WITH FETE

"OUT OF PETTICOAT LANE."
2-reel Selig Feature.

Wherever you go on Broadway's White Way you find the names of Shubert, Brady, Liebler, Armstrong and Bianey, on the most successful houses and plays. Many of the great old productions of the theatrical world come from these gifted producers, and hundreds of thousands cheerfully pay $2 a seat to see the plays they stage.

Now these men have turned their genius to the production of film plays--duplicating their successful Broadway productions in pictures--feature films from special scenarios that have all the power of story action and strength of their stage plays. These are being shown in this city at the PALACE THEATER only every Wednesday. This WEDNESDAY Clara Kimball Young is being shown in a Shubert 5-reel feature "Lola," about which Mr. George H. Kline, manager of the Grand Opera House, Coatesville, Pa., says: "Boost 'Lola'; it's worthy of it; best I have ever seen."
