Old-Fashioned Doll Gives Way to Dashing "Modern" Sister

They "Talk" a Lot--These Little People of the Shops Just Like 20th Century Grown-ups

"Where, O where, is the old-fashioned doll? Like the old-fashioned girl, she's hard to find. The queer little creature whose only pretense to fame was a wax head on a sawdust body, can't be found in the stores any more. But it would be a spoiled kiddie, indeed, who could not find something in the shops of Harrisburg to suit her fancy. If her family is already large, she can select a German "Gretchen" or French "Marie" dressed in national costume as her chum. It is even possible that in the course of a few years the foreign dollies will be built to speak in their native tongue, at the rate the manufacturers are working to perfect them. For the little girl who wants a doll-baby as near lifelike as possible, chubby by infants, often unbreakable and dressed as sensibly as if they were alive, are to be had. Fashions for dolls follow those of their little mistresses. Rompers and middie blouses take the place of frills of lace with the dolly meant for play. Furs and muffs, booties and mittens, everything that the little boy or girl possesses are now reproduced for dolls. Even combs and brushes, tiny hot water bottles and mirrors are the property of the modern doll lady of luxury.

PERSONAL SOCIAL

MISS CATHERINE ROSS

Actress in the Movies Recovering From Illness

Miss Catherine Ross, of this city, who underwent an operation for appendicitis at the Polyclinic Hospital, Front and Harris streets, is making a good recovery. Miss Ross is a moving picture actress who appeared at the Colonial not so very long ago. She has been living in Philadelphia for several months but preferred to be at home for the operation.

INVITATION CONCERT BY CAMP HILL CLUB

Christmas Music Will Be Sung Under Direction of Mrs. Grieshaber

The Camp Hill Music Club will give a complimentary concert of Christmas music Monday evening, December 14 in the Methodist Episcopal Church of that town at 8 o'clock. Admission will be ticket only.

The chorus work in charge of Mrs. Joseph Grieshaber will be most attractive and there will be numbers by Mrs. William K. Bumbaugh, soprano, and Newell Albright, pianist. Mrs. William M. Denison is the efficient accompanist of the club.

The program follows: "Jolly Winter," Vincent, chorus; "Forest Murmurs," Liszt, Newell Albright; "Cradle Song of the Blessed Virgin," Barnby-Gow, chorus; "Bethlehem," Coombs, Mrs. Bumbaugh; "The Song and the Star," Linders, Miss Pink, Mrs. Gilbert, Mrs. Steinmetz, Mrs. Pardoe; "Rigoletto," Liszt, Mrs. John Henry; "Nazareth," Gounod, chorus; (a) Etude in E Minor, (b) Etude in A Major, Poldini, Mr. Albright; "Song of the Orient," Shelly, Mrs. Bumbaugh; "Holy Christmas Night," Lassen, chorus.

The members of the chorus include: Miss Pink, Mrs. Ensign, Mrs. Whitney, Mrs. Sweeney, Mrs. Lebo, Mrs. Bausher, Mrs. Norris, Miss Wilson, Mrs. Gilbert, Miss Nicolls, Mrs. Shope, Miss Kurzenkane, Mrs. Shetron, Mrs. Pardoe, Mrs. Steinmetz.

The Camp Hill Music Club was pleasantly entertained Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Steinmetz, Washington Heights.

JOHN K. GOTTSCHALL DIES

Special to The Telegraph--Sunbury, Pa., Dec. 12.—John K. Gottschall, 46 years old, died at his home in Sunbury, yesterday of the complication of diseases. He was a retired contract miner and a prominent resident. Beginning life as a breaker boy in the anthracite mines at Shamokin, he worked himself up to be one of the most expert of the miners in that region.

MINER HAS BLOOD POISONING

Special to The Telegraph--Sunbury, Pa., Dec. 12.—John Orcheskie is critically ill at his home in Johnson City, Northumberland county, of blood poisoning, due to a slight scratch he suffered, when he bumped his right arm against a piece of coal, while at work in the mines.

WHAT THE SHOPS ARE SHOWING

"Luscious," says the school girl; "Delicious," says the debutante; excellent," says the matron, and "goody-goody," says the little tot, when the treat is a box of candy from the splendid assortment offered at the Gorgas Drug Store, 16 North Third street. They carry only standard makes, candies that are known the world over for their excellence, and they are shown on a wide range of prices. Guth, Fenway, Allegretti, Belle Meade, Liggett and Mary Garden candies are shown in this assortment, and the man who wishes to please a maid with his Christmas gift, will find a box of any of these sweetmeats, in their attractive holiday wrappings, a most acceptable gift.

A MENU HELP

With fresh vegetables almost unseen in the markets, and the price of meat steadily advancing, the housekeeper is "put to it" to give variety to her menus, without exhausting her allowance, and a most palatable delicacy is offered at the Studebaker Grocery Store, State and Second streets, at a price which the flattened Christmas purse will find most satisfactory. Fresh mushrooms, grown at a government experimental station, are sold at the Studebaker store for just 45c a pound, and with each pound a clever little recipe book is given free, which gives recipes for preparing mushrooms in many new and excellent ways. These mushrooms are hot-house products, tender and delightful in flavor, with the delicate tasteless which epicures appreciate.

THE ELECTRIC TOY

Oh-h-h! A long drawn breath of thrilled delight, a scamper of little feet, and then the small boy drops in fascinated glee beside his miniature manufacturing plant, his toy ferris wheel, or his trains of cars that run on tracks—and the marvel of it—continue to run, not only on Christmas day, but for many, many days. A wealth of pleasure and of knowledge is stored in the small electric batteries which make these wonderful electric toys, go, and the prices for them are very moderate at the Harrisburg Electric Supply Co., 24 South Second street. The assortment is delightfully interesting and parents and children are cordially invited to view this Christmas display of various electric devices.

STORIES FOR GIRLS

The problems of girlhood, the hopes, ideals and ambitions which make up a young girl's dream life, must be aided by the right sort of literature, and books that are just the right kind to thrill and interest the young girl, and at the same time stimulate high ideals and develop a fine womanhood, are offered in delightful holiday assortment at the Central Book Store, 329

Market street, and at the lowest prices. Books for the wee little tots, for school girls and their older sister, are all shown, and the variety is so great nothing seems lacking that any girl could want. The old favorites are there in abundance, while the best of the new books are also displayed.

HARMONY WITHIN AND WITHOUT

To make the house look well both inside and out is the aim of good housekeepers, and a help in attaining this ideal is offered by the A. B. Tack Wall Paper Shop, 1216 North Third street, in the duplex window shades, which may be had with the same color on the outside to give the house a uniform appearance and in different shades to harmonize with the color scheme of each individual room on the inside. These window shades are hung on Hartshorn spring rollers which give absolute satisfaction. Tack's offers both the inexpensive opaque shades, and the non-curling Brenlin shades, as well as the fine cambric shades. The Holland linen shade cloth will be found most desirable for the finest homes, and this too is shown at the A. B. Tack Shop.

GAITER TOPS

Though Dame Fashion always recognizes several styles as correct, nearly every season there is one which she most strongly advocates, and in footwear this season, boots with gaiter tops are the foremost style requirement for well-dressed women. The Walk-Over Boot Shop, 226 Market street, show both the separate gaiters, which are most appropriate for holiday giving and the newest and smartest designs in gaiter top shoes. A stunning model of patent leather with regulation, over-lapping gaiter top, closed with flat gaiter buttons enclosed which quietly and delicately expresses a message of good cheer, are so full of the great big Spirit of Christmas, that they carry a joy that even the Wealth of the Indies could not buy.

GIFFTS WITH THE CHRISTMAS SPIRIT

People with big hearts and small purses who want to remember many friends at Yuletide, usually find it a problem to get a trifling remembrance, which will still be out-of-the-ordinary, but the Woman's Exchange, Third street at Herr, can solve this problem. The charm of these dainty Christmas wares is hard to put into words, for such things as a Happiness Book Mark, heart-shaped eye-glass cleaner, a blue and white pin-wheel pen-wiper, and other wee small gifts which are offered for just 5c, some with a dainty, hand-decorated card enclosed which quietly and delicately expresses a message of good cheer, are so full of the great big Spirit of Christmas, that they carry a joy that even the Wealth of the Indies could not buy.

REQUESTS FOR PROGRAM
Tell John McCormack What You Wish to Hear Him Sing in Concert Here When John McCormack, the famous tenor comes to Harrisburg in February for a concert, part of his program will be by request. Anyone who expects to attend may send in the name of their favorite number to Clarence H. Sigler, Bell Telephone 511 and the requests will be forwarded to Mr. McCormack, who will delight to give them a place on the program. This will be one of the most important musical events ever held in this city and Chestnut Street Hall will be just the place for the recital.

Foresight and Eyesight
The First the Insurance of the Second.

YOU never fully appreciate your vision until you are deprived of it, or feel the discomforts of the eyes from day to day.

But though you do feel eye strain, what are you doing about it? Waiting for it to go away of its own accord is the worst thing one can do, but is what many are doing.

The oculist--he is a physician--is the person you should see at the first intimation of eye strain or discomfort. He will examine your eyes; he will know what your eyes need, perhaps you will not need anything more than just a little treatment--maybe you will require glasses.

In the event that you do need glasses, the oculist will prescribe them. He won't give them to you.

Then to complete the work that the oculist has begun; you should make sure that his prescription is taken to a prescription optician, one who will grind the lenses, and adjust the frames according to the prescription the oculist has written.

Such a combination in caring for your eyes is optical perfection.

If you are considering eye examination, we shall be pleased to furnish you with a list of Harrisburg oculists. Ask them about us.
