HARRISBURG WAS EVIDENCE

Prominent Residents of the City Among Those at the Pennsylvania Society Dinner

GOVERNOR-ELECT SPOKE

Dr. Brumbaugh Discussed the Glory of Having Been Born a Pennsylvania Citizen

Harrisburg, the State Capital, was very much to the fore at the annual dinner of the Pennsylvania Society in New York on Saturday night and the flag of Harrisburg was the first of the city flags to be borne behind the seven historic flags which always lead the dinner procession of the society.

Governor-elect Martin G. Brumbaugh was one of the speakers and Edwin S. Stuart, former Governor and president of the society, was in the chair. Dr. R. S. Naon, the Argentine ambassador, was the speaker of the evening. Bishop Darlington, the chaplain of the society, offered a prayer. Among the guests of honor and their escorts were: Dr. Brumbaugh, Frank B. McClain, Judge R. H. Koch, Pottsville; ex-Attorney General G. W. Wickersham, W. B. McAleer, D. C. Herr, Senator Boies Penrose, Senator George T. Oliver, Judge N. M. Warner, York; Justices D. Newlin Fell and S. Leslie Metzger, of the Supreme Court; John A. Nauman, Lancaster; General C. B. Dougherty, ex-Governor Pennypacker, President H. S. Drinker of Lehigh, and Mayor Blankenburg.

Among those present were Charles H. Bergner, State Librarian Thomas L. Montgomery, James M. Lambertson, Col. S. D. Foster, J. Heron Crosman, Jr., Thomas Earle, W. Harry Baker, Henry A. Kellier, Jr., John T. Brady, Dr. John J. Moffitt, Senator Beldeman, James Brady, George W. Creighton, J. E. B. Cunningham, Carl B. Ely, F. W. Fleitz, W. L. Gorkas, Henry Honck, Lieutenant Governor Lehigh, W. S. Leib, Harry S. McDevitt, James V. Murray, F. B. Musser, Frank A. Smith, ex-Governor Stone, District Attorney Stroup, Thomas T. Vierman, Victor W. Wiseman, Judge C. B. Winter, of the United States Court.

Dr. Brumbaugh in his address on Pennsylvania said: "We gather in this metropolitan center to think of Pennsylvania—our home State. Here you have builded her an altar. Here you have lighted the fire, and here we shall all gather warmth and welcome and a quickened gratitude that Divine Wisdom so planned that our eyes should meet across mother's eyes in the clear, even light of a Pennsylvania home.

"We did not then know, we do not yet fully know, what a blessing was to be born in a Pennsylvania home. It has been my lot to be born in the State of my own choice, and with the knowledge I now possess of my country, I should gladly and unhesitatingly have chosen Pennsylvania.

"She is rich in history, unrivaled in industry, splendid in philanthropy, glorious in patriotism, unsurpassed in intellectual leadership and rich in moral and religious character. These are the inheritance of her sons. To know Pennsylvania is to love her, and to live upon her bounty ignorant of her record is to live unworthily.

"The one commanding leader to cross the Atlantic in Colonial days was William Penn. He saw as no other leader saw the need of a new and a great experiment in government, and seeing he successfully accomplished on the banks of the Delaware the most significant advance in government that any man has ever given to the world, he has left a heritage all peoples found home and haven in the land we love.

"The English and Welsh Quakers filled the capital on the Delaware and the region round about. They gave themselves to the development of the civic and industrial life of the colony, erected their churches, founded their schools and held close and even affectionate relations with the mother country.

"Beyond these, in a zone 50 miles in width, settled the sturdy, substantial Germans. They could smell limestone land 20 miles in the wilderness. To them we are indebted for our agricultural development, for our great textile industries and for substantial service in the founding of great professional schools, notably in medicine. To these great gifts they added that of peacefully and honestly devoting themselves to the development of a sweet and pure home life and a spirit of devout worship.

"Beyond these, into the great mountain valleys, swept the earnest, aggressive Scotch-Irish. They pushed the frontier to the Ohio Valley, subdued the Indians and erected churches and schools as the foundation of their citizenship. These pioneers on the frontier deserve undying fame for their lofty patriotism and heroic struggles to carve culture and character from the wilderness.

"To be a loyal Pennsylvanian is to be a true knight of service in a life of this great people, who in mill and mine, forge and factory, forest and farm, are giving themselves to the enrichment of the Commonwealth. Around them in their toil stand school and home and church, the great sturdy institutions of a people. So long as these are respected, loved, honored by us, the future of the State is assured.

"For we do not know Pennsylvania in institutions, but in dollars and in conduct. Not in stocks and bank accounts, but in loyalty to each other and to the nation of which we are a significant and worthy part.

"We have done much to safeguard our people when at work. We have never seriously attacked the problem of organization, wise provisions for the leisure of our people. A people whose leisure is unutilized have not yet risen to the dignity and worth of true Pennsylvanians.

"Above all other issues this is dominant, the fostering of a wise spirit of loyalty to the great Commonwealth. It should be our honorable boast that we are citizens of no mean State; that in all the counts that make a people worthy and worthy one may with assurance, point confidently to the dear old Keystone and say reverently, gladly, honestly, 'Hail, Pennsylvania!'

"While the men were dining and before the speechmaking started, the Society of Pennsylvania Women in New York was making merry in another part of the Waldorf. More than 160 of its members were in attendance to welcome Philadelphia's Mayoress, Mrs. Rudolph Blankenburg, who was the guest of honor. Mrs. Alexander E. Patton, of Curwensville, Pa., president of the society, presided.

"The chief feature of the women's dinner—besides gowns and eating, of course—was the presentation to the society on this its second birthday feast of a gavel, made from the wood of Fort Augusta, at Sunbury, Pa. Mrs. J. M. Gross, of Sunbury, gave the gavel.
