Mission Movie Man, Home, Says China Prayed For Peace

Louis A. Holman Brings First Tidings of Republic's Second Official Day of Prayer; American Layman Converts Thousands

(By The Religious Rambler.)

WITH three hundred moving pictures of foreign mission scenes, a hundred notebooks full of incidents, and the news that the Chinese republic a few weeks ago observed by official designation a special day of prayer for peace in Europe and for Divine guidance for China in her present perplexities, Louis A. Holman, of Needham, Mass., returned to this country the other day via the Pacific. The war thwarted all plans for taking motion pictures of missions in the nearer East.

The arrival of Mr Holman is interesting for several reasons. For many years he has been a member of the staff of the Youth's Companion, is an art critic of note and an observer of singular independence and penetration. His observations are those of a mature and trained mind. He accompanied C. A. Rowland and a small party of representatives of the Southern Presbyterian Church and his mission was to secure, what had never been successfully obtained before, a portrayal of mission work by means of the motion picture camera.

Heathen China On Her Knees

The cables failed to carry the news that in October, when excitement was at its height over Japanese operations against Tsing-Tau, the Chinese government issued an edict, the second in its history, calling upon the people to observe a day of prayer for peace in Europe and for the guidance of China in the crisis that had come upon her. The American day of prayer, called by President Wilson of course inspired this, and the suggestion was pressed by Christian leaders.

A noteworthy fact about the day set apart—a Sunday, of course—was that the occasion was distinctively a Christian one. The special meetings were held only in Christian churches and chapels. This officials, nearly all of whom are non-Christians, were instructed to attend, which they did, in full official pomp. The native Christians are mostly of the poorer class, but the presence of the officials, and the intimation, from Peking, set the gentry to finding their way also to the humble churches of the missions.

A High Official Recruit

Mr. Holman was present in Hong-kong when Mr. Wen, the minister of foreign affairs for Chekiang province, was baptized, and admitted to the Presbyterian Church. The accession of so eminent a mandarin created great discussion. Mr. Wen had long been a student of the Christian doctrine, but was led to public action by George Sherwood Eddy, the American Y. M. C. A. evangelist who has been conducting a remarkable series of meetings in China.

Considerable trepidation was expressed by the officers of the church as to whether this eminent dignitary would be willing to submit to the severe catechetical tests which are preliminary to church membership. A committee was sent to sound him and to explain the situation. When he was told that the church is a democracy, and that one member stands on an equality with every other, and that all submit to the same examination, Minister Wen said: "Good! The more democratic the better. That is just as it should be, and the way I understand Christianity. I want you to ask me every question that you would ask any other catechumen. They did, and his eminence is now a member in good and regular standing of the Presbyterian Church in China.

How to Clear Away Pimples

Bathe your face for several minutes with Resinol Soap and hot water, then apply a little Resinol Ointment very gently. Let this stay on ten minutes, and wash off with Resinol Soap and more hot water, finishing with a dash of cold water to close the pores. Do this once or twice a day, and you will be astonished to find how quickly the healing, antiseptic Resinol medication soothes and cleanses the pores, removes pimples and blackheads, and leaves the complexion clear and velvety.

Resinol Ointment and Resinol Soap stop itching instantly and speedily heal skin humors, rashes, wounds and chafing. Sold by all druggists. Doctors have prescribed Resinol for nearly 20 years.—Advertisement.

attendance at these distinctively Christian and evangelistic meetings was three thousand persons, mostly of the student class. A former speaker of the national assembly, Mr. C. T. Wang, interpreted Mr. Eddy's addresses. There were about seven thousand "inquirers" at these meetings; and the missionaries declared them a real revival.

Celebrating Japan's Victory

This investigator has warm words for the Japanese, and for their sincere desire to remain friends with America. He says that the relations between Koreans and Japanese are steadily growing better. The feelings aroused by the conspiracy trials has largely died down, and Mr Holman received the impression from the Japanese that, as an expression of good will toward Christianity and toward America, the five Christians still in prison, including Baron Yun Chi Ho, would be liberated by imperial amnesty, in connection with the coronation ceremony.

Mr. Holman was present at Nagasaki's celebration of the news of the fall of Tsing-Tau. He says there were ten thousand persons participating in a great lantern parade through the city and up to the hills beyond. It was a spectacle of uncommon beauty. The Japanese are greatly elated over their victory.

For a time the Chinese were perturbed over the presence of the Japanese on their territory, but the excitement has calmed down. The most thoughtful foreigners express confidence in the sincerity of Japan's purpose to turn the German territory over to China.

Nowadays a man cannot even take moving pictures in the East without getting into the current of public affairs there. Like every other returned traveler Mr. Holman is enthusiastic over America's unique influence and possibilities in the Orient.
