MASSONS BANQUET ON ST. JOHN'S DAY

Good Samaritan Lodge of Gettysburg Celebrates With More Than 100 Present

QUARANTINE TO BE LIFTED

Area Affected by Cattle Disease Will Soon Be Greatly Reduced

By Special Correspondence Gettysburg, Pa., Jan. 2.—Good Samaritan Lodge, No. 228, F. and A. M., celebrated St. John's Day with a banquet at Hotel Gettysburg, on Monday evening. 104 members and invited guests were present. An excellent feast was provided for the occasion. Tripping in some manner as she was descending the cold steps at her home, Mrs. Charles J. Tyson, fell several feet to the bottom of the flight and injured her left shoulder. The handsome new orders modifying the quarantine for the foot and mouth disease will be issued by the State Livestock Sanitary Board and that the area now under quarantine will be considerably reduced. At a state meeting of the Board of Health, held at the new Agricultural school building, commenced last August by the Progressive School Board of that borough, at a cost estimated at more than $6,000, will be ready for occupancy at an early date. Although the building was brought to a standstill the work of finishing the inside of the building. Robert Gardner of San Marino, Texas, of Baltimore street, a Ponderosa lemon that measured 16 1/2 inches by 16 inches, and weighed one pound and thirteen ounces. Miss Etta Margaret Speese, of this place, and William Earl Strivig, of York, were married at the home of the bride's parents, in Hanover on Thursday afternoon. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. E. A. Chamberlin, brother-in-law of the bride.

Perry County's Member in State Legislature Is Prominent Businessman

JOHN SERVICE EBY

By Special Correspondence Newport, Pa., Jan. 2.—John Service Eby, the newly-elected member of the Legislature from Perry county, was born in Newport, Pa., on June 30, 1876. He is the son of Benjamin M. Eby and Rebecca Catherine (Shuler) Eby. Mr. Eby comes of old Pennsylvania German stock, who have been long settled in this county, so that their history is identified with the growth and development of this community. He is a man of commanding appearance, pleasing personality and generous disposition. He has been prominently identified with Newport's business affairs and organizations, being engaged in the wholesale and retail drug business covering the central part of the State. Mr. Eby has served as a member of town council and filled various offices in secret and fraternal organizations in Newport. He is past master of Newport Lodge, No. 381, F. & A. M., past high priest of Newport Chapter, No. 238, R. A. M., past grand Newport Lodge, No. 102, I. O. O. F.; past commander of Thaddeus C. Rider Camp, No. 119, S. of V.; president of Retail Club and a member of the Union League. He has been treasurer of the Methodist Church for several years. The magnificent vote he received in his own town is a flattering tribute to him. Mr. Eby stands squarely on the platform as declared by him. Like Governor-elect Brumbaugh he means what he says and will stand by his utterances. Mr. Eby assumes the duties of his office well prepared for his responsibilities. His strength of character, firm decision and broad-mindedness will be valuable essentials in his career as a legislator.

BETTER THAN SPANKING

Spanking does not cure children of bed-wetting. There is a constitutional cause for this trouble. Mrs. M. Summers, Box W, Notre Dame, Ind., will send free to any mother her successful home treatment, with full instructions. Send no money, but write her today if your child troubles you in this way. Don't blame the child—the chances are it can't help it. This treatment also cures adults and aged people troubled with urine difficulties by day or night.

Never Mind How Strong You Are—What d'ye Know?

That's the point—"What d'ye KNOW?" To-day it's a battle of wits—and brains win. Muscle and brawn don't count so much as they used to. In the fight for good jobs and big salaries it's brains—not brawn—that win. "What d'ye KNOW?" is the one great question that draws the line between defeat and victory—between "wages" and "salary"—between you and the Boss.

What do YOU know? Are YOU so expert in some line of work that you can "make good" as a foreman, superintendent, or manager? If not, why don't you mark and mail the attached coupon and permit the International Correspondence Schools to show you how you CAN "make good" on a big job?

For 23 years the I. C. S. have been showing men how to do better work and earn bigger salaries. Every 400 students write of promotions or salary increases through I. C. S. training. What the I. C. S. are doing for these men they can do for YOU.

No matter where you live, how old you are, what hours you work, or how limited your education—if you can read and write and are ambitious to learn the I. C. S. can train you in your own home, during your spare time, for a more important and better-paying position.

Mark and mail the attached coupon—it won't obligate you in the least—and the I. C. S. will show you how you can acquire this salary-raising ability by their simple and easy methods.

It will cost you nothing to investigate—it may cost a lifetime of remorse if you don't Mark and Mail the Coupon NOW.

INTERNATIONAL CORRESPONDENCE SCHOOLS Box 1331, Scranton, Pa. Please explain without any obligation to me how I can qualify for the position before which I mark X. Electrical Engineer, Elec. Aunt Este's Stories for Children

My dear little ones: And here is your LAST BARNYARD STORY. Next week I am going to start a new series for you—and it is going to be a KITCHEN SERIES. Now don't laugh—for I know you will learn a lot from the stories. You will see the folks in the kitchen, as well as you have among the beasts and birds and crawling things. Now listen to the story of Why Speckley and Noisy Guinea Fowl Turned Blue. Once upon a time in Barnyard Village lived Speckley Guinea. The fowl was blue because he was so blue. He was too long to say when they were in a hurry. You see her mother had named her Speckley because her dress was the most speckley black and white she ever saw. She had a twin brother Noisy, because he made the most noise she had ever heard come from such a tiny mouth. But the funny thing was that she might as well have been named Speckley, for all the neighbors knew no difference—for Speckley was as noisy as Noisy was, and Noisy was as speckley as Speckley was. Their dresses were exactly alike and so were their voices. But what else could you expect when they were twins? Don't twins always dress alike—and mostly talk alike. At least, that's what you thought when they grew older they would be different. For really Noisy expected he might grow a red beard like old Cock-a-doodle, his rooster neighbor—and Speckley expected she might always be taking him for a girl—he was tired of being called Speck. But although Noisy grew older and older, no big red beard grew on his face. He was just as noisy as ever. And Speckley grew up at last he gave up in despair and just turned up his feathers a bit when some one took him for a girl. As for Speckley—she really did try hard to tone down her voice to a low squeak "cluck-cluck-cluck"—so that if ever she did have babies she could cackle lullabies—but at last she too gave up and decided if one was born with a loud harsh voice, one would always have it. So she had, and did. Her brother and sisters warn the farmer when anything unusual happened in the Barnyard, for her mother had said, "Everything is good for something—you have not been given your harsh voice for nothing, Specky." But one day Speckley and Noisy were walking around Barnyard Village looking for some good worms for breakfast, when they happened to see the farmer looking down at them. "Those are fine birds, there," said he to a man who was walking by his side. "They surely are," said the man. "I think I'll order those two instead of turkey for the dinner. You know there is nothing finer than Guinea breast." "I should say not!" answered the farmer. "That is the finest thing you can get." "I wish you had heard Speckley and Noisy yell, and seen them run! They took to their toes as fast as they could—and off they scampered—through the gate—up the road—over the highest fence—on—on—on—never turning back even to say good-by to their folks." "Guinea breast, good to eat! dinner party! oh, dear—oh, dear! It was dreadful and that was all there was to it. I never saw Speckley and Noisy run till I'm dead before I let those folk catch me," said Speckley. "And so'll I said Noisy. 'And I'll yell until their ear-drums burst and their eyes run out.' So one and on they ran, until all out of breath they stopped before a large tree. "Why Speckley," said Noisy. "Your skin's all blue under your feathers. What's the matter?" "Matter?" shouted Speckley. "I'm scared—that's what's the matter—and you needn't say so much—if you'll look under your own feathers you'll see you are just the same." Noisy looked and sure enough—his skin was as blue as indigo. "It's the nature of guinea fowl to get blue when they're scared—and we surely are scared—My, I never ran so hard in my life." "And when I got my breath I'm going to run some more," answered Noisy. "I'll run till I'm dead." And in another minute off started the twins on another grand run. Perhaps some day when you come suddenly upon a field or a barnyard you will see two guinea fowl jump in front of you screaming like mad and running for dear life. Don't try to catch them. Let the poor things go, for I think you know them to be Speckley and Noisy. The Guinea fowl farmer who thought Guinea breast the best meat he had ever tasted. Lovingly, AUNT ESTE.

Strong Rubbers for School Children

Rubbers that give superior service, and that cost no more than the ordinary kind. Rubbers that will protect the children from the perils of bad weather—from dangerous colds and sore throats. Rubbers that will stand the hard tests of street romping and school service. Made for "grown-ups" too. Also in stock style. Look at the picture. Old-Fashioned Winter

How often we hear this expression—when Winter opens early, freezing rivers and streams and covering streets and roads with lasting snow and ice for sleighing.

An old-fashioned Winter is the severest kind of a test for coal, and if the fuel fails to deliver the heat needed something's wrong. Don't take chances—burn Kelley's Coal and be comfortable in any kind of winter weather.

Kelley's Hard Stove at $6.70 is making many furnaces give lasting and satisfactory heat.
