McCLAIN DEMANDS LESS PENITENTIARY JAIL DELIVERY

Announcement by Lieutenant-Governor Frank B. McClain at the conclusion of the meeting of the Board of Pardons last evening that the board did not propose to become "a board of general jail delivery" is expected to discourage presentation of similar cases without merit. The board does not meet again until September and cases will be subjected to considerable scrutiny before being listed.

For months the board has had cases presented which, in the language of the Lieutenant-Governor, have features more within the scope of a court than of a board. The board, he said, will not consider legal points, but will sit to listen to arguments involving extraordinary matters, as the framers of the Constitution contemplated. Attorneys who present numerous cases were scored and asked how they came to have so many. It is suspected that some lawyers have been making it a business to collect pardon applications instead of allowing only unusual cases to arise. In some instances men present cases from counties far distant.

Mr. McClain had refused several times during the meeting to postpone cases which had been brought up several times, but the whole matter culminated when W. S. Harris, of West Chester, who frequently appears at the board meetings, presented the first of eight cases. Attorney General Brown and Secretary Wosden took exception to his manner of presenting cases and finally Mr. McClain asked how he came to list so many cases not from his own county. A couple of the cases were summarily and generally and general notice given that there should be no more indiscriminate listing.

Three Dauphin cases were among those referred to being the Kaufman case, which was held over. Decisions were announced as follows:

Recommended—Robert S. Barton, Chester, sodomy; Jack Ashton, Philadelphia, larceny; S. H. Anderson, Allegheny, abortion; John Petneski, Luzerne, assault and battery; Anthony Difullo, Clearfield, receiving stolen goods; Eugene K. Twine, York, second degree murder; Tony Duda, Luzerne, assault and battery; Leonard Bardino, Berks, statutory rape. Refused—Anna Bella Hatch, Chester, adultery; Karl Pinter, Northampton, manslaughter; William Caracina, Philadelphia, sodomy; Helen Boyle, Mercer, aiding in kidnapping; Gilbert F. Pender, Philadelphia, assault and battery; Bernard Stern, Montgomery, perjury; Thomas F. Kutz, Philadelphia, larceny; Joseph McLaughlin, Philadelphia, larceny; Hattie Dutton, Dauphin, larceny; Albert Smith Fuller, Philadelphia, larceny, etc.; Adam Lackvazanski, Delaware, receiving stolen goods; E. P. Foote, Susquehanna, burglary; Miles King, Berks, second degree murder; William Cooper, Montgomery, statutory rape; Max Fisher, Montgomery, burglary; Harry Hedinger, Schuylkill, larceny; William H. Brown, York, second degree murder; Mike Metro, Luzerne, larceny; Braggio Condini, Lebanon, assault and battery; Samuel Skipworth, Philadelphia, second degree murder; Joseph Darr, Philadelphia, robbery; Peter Dupont, Montgomery, felonious entry; David Kaufman, Dauphin, larceny. Referred—Edward Steward, Allegheny, robbery; John C. Anderson, Fayette, bigamy.

Rehearings Refused—Felix Storti, Philadelphia, second degree murder; Joseph Darr, Philadelphia, assault and battery; James Stetson, York, larceny. Rehearing was granted Florence Wilson, Dauphin, keeping bawdy house.

"LITTLE OLD WOMAN" CRIES AS GUNDA DIES

safe to allow him to live. In addition, Dr. Hornaday said, Gunda had refused food for several days and for the first time during the weary months it had been necessary to keep the big brute chained up. It was apparent that Gunda was suffering.

"Little Old Lady" Mourns Gunda was killed, and a little old lady from the Belmont district cried all day because Gunda, murderous and bloodthirsty in the presence of his keepers, could care less for her.

She is known as the Little Old Lady of Belmont, and she bent over to cure a person whom Gunda loved. For two years the giant elephant had been waiting for a chance to gore his trunk through one of his keepers. Yet, during the long months he never failed to curl his trunk affectionately about the drooping shoulders of 85-year-old Mrs. Julia Inglesby Jansen whenever she visited him.

Now he has gone up to meet Ivan, the brown bear, and Flip, my pet walrus," Mrs. Jansen sobbed.

"He loved sugar," said Mrs. Jansen, reminiscence. "He was younger, he and his keeper would saunter over to the restaurant for little sweetmeats. Three years ago I told him in advance about my birthday party, and the fact that I was going to make all good elephants a present of big chunks of sugar. What do you think he did? He actually told Lazy Sultana and Teddy what was going to happen, and they were all waiting for me when I got there."

"He was my friend. What he needed was petting and an encouraging word occasionally. When the summer months came on he went almost crazy. But he always loved me and I loved him so."

Her voice broke into a wail. She struggled feebly in the open for a last view of the giant elephant, but she was refused admittance to the great room where only a pile of huge bones, two or three tons of blackening meat, and cans of blood showed what Gunda had once been.

PLATONIC FRIENDSHIP LEADS TWO TO COURT

red, did not wish children until she was absolutely sure she could "properly support them." She feared marriage, he said, and suggested they live in a state of platonic friendship, in which "mutual love and affection and caresses would be more than sufficient."

On one occasion, when her father protested against her ideas, says the affidavit, Mrs. Weber asked him if he would give a guarantee to support her children, and the father slapped her face.

The doctor further states that after they had lived apart for a year, a proposition was made that they either live together, or that he should support her while she lived apart from him. Otherwise, he says, she threatened to go into court and ruin his reputation. When he proposed they live together as man and wife, she laughed at him, he says.

Mrs. Weber in court denied she feared any of the duties of a wife, and says the failure to consummate the marriage was entirely due to the doctor.

"Sparklers" Not Fireworks Postal Officials Decide

A. J. Jedel, of New York, was in Harrisburg to-day consulting with local dealers concerning the sale of "sparklers" for Fourth of July celebrations.

Mr. Jedel brought with him a recently issued order from the postal authorities taking "sparklers" out of the fireworks class and giving permission to send them through the mails, a privilege not accorded to matches, firecrackers, rockets or explosives of any sort.

"Sparklers" are sold, he said, even in cities where fireworks are forbidden. They are made of steel chips, aluminum, barium salts, starch and water and throw off cold sparks.

DESECRATED FLAG; FINED $2,000 Seattle, Wash., June 23.—Charged with desecrating the American flag during flag drill at Mercer island parental school two weeks ago, Mrs. Ellen Raymond has been fined $2,000 by Justice Gordon.

The courtroom was crowded with patriotic men and women who carried American flags or wore the Stars and Stripes on their clothing.

Several witnesses testified that Mrs. Raymond had called the American flag a "dirty, rotten flag," and also made defamatory remarks about the country.

Mrs. Raymond, on the stand, denied this.

STRIKE STREET FROM MAP FOR PLAYGROUND

street playgrounds—will be introduced next Tuesday in City Council. It is understood by Commissioner M. Harvey Taylor, superintendent of parks.

The new measure will fill the same requirements as the vacating ordinance which was defeated yesterday afternoon because the four votes necessary to pass a regulation of that kind could not be mustered.

Mayor Royal and Commissioner Gorgas, of course, voted against the measure, the mayor taking the stand that property owners on a section of the street had petitioned against the closing of the highway.

The mayor persisted in his stand despite the fact that City Solicitor D. S. Seitz explained on the floor of Council a few weeks ago that the petitioners nor any other property owners can legally expect or claim damages as the city is at liberty to vacate any street it sees fit.

The solicitor had taken special pains to fortify his stand on a grading measure, the mayor taking the stand that property owners on a section of the street had petitioned against the closing of the highway.

The Clark act however requires at least four votes to pass a grading measure. Consequently for the first time in the history of the new government the minority of the "3 to 2" Council won out.

White Commissioner Taylor declined to discuss his future action, it is said that he will have the new measure prepared this week.

Only three votes are necessary to pass an ordinance to strike a street from the city map.

DEFY YANKEES! URGES BIG MEXICAN LEADER

and throughout the Federal District. The public is warm in its praise of the spirit of fair-mindedness and friendship shown by the American executive but the military leaders are somewhat careful in their comment. President Garza has received the following letter on the subject from Gen. Eusebio Zapata, brother of Gen. Emiliano Zapata. It can be taken as a sample of what some of the revolutionaries think in this connection.

"Answering your message of to-day referring to intervention, I can only say that we are Mexicans. Two times before this we have been threatened as if we were children. I am not sure that you would care to make public my ideas about the matter.

"If these northerners do not wish to take into consideration our rights as guardians of Mexican soil, if they deem us weak and incapable of defending our beloved country, if they consider it honorable to allow a great nation to sink a ship like the Lusitania
