Don't Hide Them With a Veil; Remove Them With the Othine Prescription

This prescription for the removal of freckles was written by a prominent physician and is usually so successful in removing freckles and giving a clear, beautiful complexion that it is sold by druggists under guarantee to refund the money if it fails.

Don't hide your freckles under a veil; get an ounce of othine and remove them. Even the first few applications should show a wonderful improvement, some of the lighter freckles vanishing entirely.

Be sure to ask the druggist for the double strength othine; it is this that is sold on the money-back guarantee.—Advertisement.

Marlborough-Blenheim
ATLANTIC CITY, N. J.
THE LEADING RESORT HOUSE OF THE WORLD
Capacity 1100
The great essential of a resort hotel, as distinguished from a city hotel, is ample public space devoted to the use of its guests, in the form of bright and airy Exchanges, Lobbies, Parlors, Galleries and Solariums, affording pleasing vistas and beautiful promenades, the whole combining into a harmonious vision of grandeur and beauty, while replete with the cozy group sections of home, and yet affording full view of the pleasing panorama of the resort life. In this essential the Marlborough-Blenheim stands without an equal in Atlantic City or elsewhere.

Its "Ownership Management," while accounting for its unique reputation, is a guaranty of the high character of its patronage and the unexcelled quality of its service and cuisine. It employs only white service in both its American and its a carte dining rooms.

It makes a specialty of its high-class music every evening throughout the year, with special Sunday night solo features. Roman, the world's highest Tenor, of Venice, is engaged to sing at frequent intervals during July, August and September.

A Hattie Cox, with its only real competitor (Europe), is the only one in the city offering unusual attractions and entertainments. Two flying boats are daily sources of interest. Two golf courses, the Yacht Club, the fishing fleet and the wonderful bathing beach attract their respective devotees, while the pier amusements, the Boardwalk, the fine motor roads and the splendid hotels and restaurants, afford enjoyment to all. There is only one Atlantic City, and this summer it is particularly attractive. Write for illustrated booklet and rates.

HOW UNCLE SAM PREPARES HIS BOYS TO DEFEND THE NATION

Special to The Telegraph
Plattsburg, N. Y., July 9.—It requires but little stretching of the imagination for one to believe that the magic of Aladdin's lamp, in response to pressure from the hands of U. S. army officers, has come into being and converted the open fields outside of Plattsburg, N. Y., into a vision of young military glory.

I spent a week at the Gettysburg reunion two summers ago, and I have no hesitation in saying that this summer camp of instruction for students is equal in every way to that well-handled and sanitary encampment, remembering, of course, that two entirely different generations are represented.

The students began pouring into the camp Sunday afternoon from all points in the north, east, south and west. For a day and a half the stream continued, until 550 representatives from colleges, universities, high schools and preparatory schools were registered, fitted out with the proper uniform and kits, and assigned to tents by Adjutant J. P. Toulbee, first lieutenant of the Second United States Cavalry. A few late stragglers are still arriving and it is expected that by the end of the first week in camp, the number will have reached the 600 mark, just double the number of those who attended the camp at Burlington, Vt., last summer.

The camp is located in a large field about two miles from Plattsburg along the State road and only a short distance back from Lake Champlain. It is divided into companies, seven in number, with thirteen tents to each company, and six or seven men to each tent. The company streets separate the line of tents and a first lieutenant of the United States regular army is at the head of each company. Of the regulars there are also two troops of the Second United States Cavalry and one company and band of the Thirtieth Infantry, encamped beside the student camp. Captain B. O. Van Horn, of the Thirtieth Infantry, is commanding officer of the entire camp.

Instruction in the manual of arms and drill formations has begun and as an example of the grade of teaching, it is an interesting fact that the instruction given to the students in a single morning at three successive drills was equal to that which it requires from four days to a week for the ordinary volunteer to learn.

It is remarkable the speed with which the information given and the training is absorbed by the employ officers. Every single man of the 600 is in dead earnest and eager for everything that he can pick up in the way of military knowledge.

Uncle Sam's mess kit and bunk. The equipment is very complete, including a Springfield 30, 1903 model, rifle, with bayonet, cartridge belt, camping outfit for use on march, poncho, canteen and blankets. The sanitation is practically perfect, but each man to be doubly safe is advised to undergo vaccination for typhoid and smallpox, although this is merely a matter of "safety first." The hospital tent takes care of all cases of sickness or hurts, and special emphasis is laid on the care of the feet, one of the most essential items in a soldier's knowledge.

Y. M. C. A. Tent
The Y. M. C. A. tent, which includes the distributing point for mail and the writing tables and reading room, is a comfortable retreat from the sun, and another tent contains a piano which is in action at the time when drills are not being held. A barber shop, tailor's tent and post-exchange where one can buy anything from a pair of socks to a bag of peanuts, complete the list, not forgetting, of course, the mess tent where for some the most enjoyable portions of the day are spent.

The camp's day, at camp begins with the first call for reveille at 5.45 a. m.; assembly at 6 and mess call for breakfast at 6.30. At 7.25 the first call for drill is given and the entire morning is spent drilling with and without arms, with a few minutes breathing space between drills. Mess call at 12 o'clock marks the closing of the required work for the day, but for those who desire to employ the afternoon also in military tactics there are opportunities for optional work of which practically all take advantage at one time or another. The optional work includes guard mount, using the horses of the Second cavalry troops; rifle range target practice, artillery drill, lectures on various military subjects, and instruction in topography, technique, etc.

The Day Ends
The first call for retreat is given at 5 p. m. At 5.10 the companies assemble for inspection of arms and at 5.15 retreat is sounded. The Star Spangled Banner is then played while the companies stand at parade rest and in spite of myself little thrills keep constantly running up and down my spine during all the time the band is playing. There is something inspiring about the whole thing.

At 9 o'clock, call to quarters at 10.45, and "taps" at 11 indicate the close of the day. This routine will be followed with the exception of Sunday, until about ten days before the camp breaks up. At this time the entire camp follows the regular troops on a today march, which will be conducted precisely along the same lines as the marching methods of the regular army and with instruction and actual experience in guard duty, topography and maneuvering.

Camp Newspaper
I forgot to mention that a number of the students with journalistic tendencies have begun a newspaper three times a week for the four weeks of camp life. This sheet will include camp news of every nature and special bits of information about each student, and will be an additional means of intensifying the fellow-feeling and democratic camaraderie which already exists.

Among the more prominent names in camp are Leonard J. Jr., son of Commander General Leonard S. Wood, of the United States army; J. A. Garfield, grandson of former President Garfield; and Arthur T. Hadley, of Yale University. The older of the two brothers is a commander of one of the student companies and was instrumental in establishing the camp journal. Probably over fifty per cent. of the students have had some little previous experience in military training, either at the former cadet instruction camp at Burlington, Vt., or at various military schools in different parts of the country. The rest are entirely new at the game.

Interesting Facts
Below are some interesting facts relating to the schools and colleges represented and the number of men from each. The majority are undergraduates of the schools given, and but a few are graduates or taking graduate work, so it is fair to state the following figures as giving the correct representation from each school and university.

Yale leads with 55 men, Cornell is second with 45, Harvard third with 35 and Princeton fourth with 33; combined military schools, 30; College City of New York, 27; Groton Preparatory School, 14; Williams, 12; Howard University, 11; Stevens Institute, 9; Penn State, Lehigh and Columbia, 7 each.

New Haven High, Hartford High, Mass. Inst. of Tech., 5 each.

Amherst, Andover, Dartmouth, Erasmus High, Mass. Agriculture, Westminster, Wesleyan, University of Vermont, Georgetown, St. Paul's, Exeter, Holy Cross, New York University, all three are between sixty and eighty other schools and colleges represented which have either one or two men in camp, totaling up to 162 men that are not included in the above figures. The other Harrisburg boys in camp are Kenneth Jones and Leland Johnson, Steelton. E. J. S., Jr.

Individuality Encouraged
Individual effort and initiative are encouraged, and there is no place for the man or boy who is lazy or unwilling to use his wits. The primary purpose of the camp is to train the men so that if occasion should arise they in turn would be enabled to teach others in the way they themselves are now being taught. It is serious work and the spirit alive in the camp is evidence of the fact that the responsibility is felt and every man is doing his best to be prepared. The instruction is thorough and no superficial talk or actions have a place. In short, it is a very complete and well-equipped military camp with strict discipline during the hours when the men are not off duty.

The friendly rivalry between companies for highest place in the care of tents and accoutrements and in the excellence of their drills, makes for efficiency and rapid progress in the camp which must be completed by August 15. Each man wears the regulation army campaign outfit and

A rare treat is in store for the patrons of this popular theater for we present that wonderful actress, Viola Allen, in the great new comedy and farce, "The White Sister." Dishonored, illegitimated under the Italian law—her lover, a young man, seriously injured, broken and weary of the world—Donna Angela Chiaromonte becomes the mistress of a rich man, and she and the service of the Master. Called to nurse her dying aunt, Angela learns the truth, and she and the young man stole her father's will. After five years, Lieutenant Giovanni Severi, the lover, returns in a military uniform and is injured in an explosion at the barracks where he was stationed, he determines to die unless Angela will marry him.—Advertisement.

Her life is a jumble of love and adventure. She falls with a pair of lovers and as the result of her indecision she lands herself in a pretty mess at a Hartford hotel, where she is cajoled into passing herself off as the wife of a man, whose real wife is on her way to meet him. There's a wonderful supporting cast for the vivacious star, Chester Barnett, W. J. Ferguson, Julia Stuart and John Hines being among those who keep the fun going all through this funny diverting comedy.

Saturday—Irène Fenwick, "In James Forbe's enchanting comedy, "The Computers." Five happy reels of chuckles and smiles—a jolly story charmingly told with that inimitable comedian, Charles Judels, in the role of "Sammy."—Advertisement.

This evening the Harrisburg Evangelistic Chorus will give a concert in the park theater between 7 and 8 o'clock. The chorus committee promises to have at least 850 voices on hand when the time for the big concert arrives. The park orchestra will assist in the entertainment. This promises to be one of the biggest singing festivals ever held at Paxtang and probably no one who has heard the chorus will miss the opportunity of doing so again. No admission will be charged to the theater. After the concert the regular vaudeville show will go on. The bill this week with Fred Russell's Old-Time Minstrels as a feature attraction is one of the best offerings of the park season and will make a fitting continuation of the evening's entertainment. On next Thursday evening the park management will give the first free fireworks display of the season. Probably no free attraction given in the vicinity of Harrisburg quite equals the pro-technical displays given at Paxtang and a big crowd is to be expected on Thursday evening.—Advertisement.

CANOEING GROWS IN POPULARITY HERE

Several Score More Craft on the River Now Than Last Year; Many Girls Are Expert

By "UMP"
The growing popularity of canoeing as a sport in this city both among young men and women is evidenced by the big number of canoes sold this summer, according to the figures given by the larger local dealers.

If these figures be correct at least fifty canoes, if not nearer seventy-five, have been sold since the opening of the season in May. Altogether there are fully three hundred canoes plying the Susquehanna hereabouts at the present time.

Rivermen and boat liverymen attribute the growing interest in the sport to the building of the wall and the dam. Time was when canoeists could hardly navigate during low water in and around the bridge piers opposite Market, Walnut and Mulberry streets. But all this is changed now. In this part of the river the stream is like a lake and it's almost as easy pulling up stream as down.

Then, too, it's lots of sport to paddle along in the rather currentless water along the wall, looking for bird nests in the foliage on the bank, watching the people on the walks and so on.

An interesting end of the canoeing sport in this city is the large number of girls who are expert with the paddle, really rivalling their big brothers in their ability to handle the frail little crafts in rough water and bad weather. On the Fourth of July when the river was higher than it has been for many years at this time of the year, and when wind and current were combining to make canoeing difficult, if not dangerous, there were quite a few boats out with girls in prow and stern. Most of the girl canoeists, however, are rather able swimmers and even if the boats should upset they'd be able to get out of the deep water.

Pittsburgh Plants Are Operating at Capacity

Pittsburgh, Pa., July 9.—With orders booked ahead for many months, the Carnegie Steel Company, the Jones & Laughlin Company, the National Tube Works and the Republic Iron and Steel Company, the "Big Four" of the steel industry in the Pittsburgh district, are now operating their plants at capacity for the first time in more than a year.

This statement was made here today by a prominent steel man who is in a position to know the trade situation at each of the big plants, and who gives the European war the credit for the improvement.

REVIVALIST REFUSED PLOT
The committee from the school board which owns the vacant lot at Third and Harris streets, which is wanted by a campaigning booster as a site for tent meetings, last evening reached the conclusion that boys and girls get more benefit from play on the plot of ground than they would from the spiritual services.
